FIRE ON VOTERS' PARADE; 3 DIE

OVER 35 MILLION WILL BALLOT ON NEW CONGRESS

Future of New Deal Hangs on Result.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

In what is probably the most momentous midterm election since the civil war 35 million voters or more are expected to cast their ballots today for senators and representatives in the Seventy-fourth congress.

This congress, which will meet Jan. 3 next, will be charged with the responsibility of charting the nation's course during the next two years in the war on the great depression. It will determine whether the New Deal is to be developed further along present lines or materially modified. It will decide whether the country is to return to more conservative, orthodox economic and financial principles or swing farther to the left in ventures in collectivism.

49 Million Registered.

That interest in the election is intense is manifested by the registration of nearly 49 million voters, only a million fewer than qualified for the presidential election of 1932. About two out of every three eligible to vote qualify while not more than four out of every five registered actually cast ballots. The southern states where an election is merely a formality and some other states in which the outcome is a foregone conclusion this year will account for the bulk of the stay-at-home vote.

Party lines will be bent, twisted and shattered in this battle of the ballots. The scrambling of parties by the New Deal issue is a feature of this election as were the religious issue in 1928 and prohibition repeal and the depression in 1932. There is increasing evidence of the long heralded political realignment of the people into conservatives and radicals. Conservatively minded Democrats are numerously bolting the Democratic ticket while radical Republicans are flocking to the standard of President Roosevelt.

Desert Sinclair in California.

In California only a remnant of the Democratic party—the most radical element—will go to the polls today in support of Upton Sinclair, the Socialist who captured the Democratic nomination for governor. The conservative Democrats and even most of the Roosevelt following, who are far from conservative, have openly bolted Sinclair and will cast their ballots for the Republican candidate, Gov. Merriam, or the independent, Raymond Haight. The election of Merriam by an overwhelming majority is indicated.

The campaign in California winds up with the Democrats lacking any major candidate they can call their own. Months ago they were compelled to forego the nomination of a candidate for senator when the Roosevelt administration gave its blessing to Hiram Johnson, one of the numerous Bull Moosers of 1912 who have gone New Deal. Senator Johnson got the nomination of three parties without opposition.

Party Split in Wisconsin.

In Wisconsin the President has split the Democratic party by the manifestation of his displeasure toward the conservative John M. Callahan, Democratic candidate for senator, and his preference for the radical Senator Robert M. La Follette, who heads the new Progressive party. Conservative Republicans, alienated by attempts of the Republican candidate, John B. Chapple, to outdeal the New Dealers, are reported to be numerously supporting Mr. Callahan.

Mr. Roosevelt deliberately encouraged party irregularity a few days ago when he remarked that people would be surprised to know how often he had voted for Republicans. This was interpreted as another subtle move by the master politician of the White House toward the building of a Roosevelt party composed of Democrats and radical Republicans.

In New Mexico the conservative Republicans, headed by National Committeeman Albert G. Simms and Mrs. Simms, the former Ruth Hanna McCormick, are openly working for the election of the entire Democratic ticket in an effort to dispose of Senator Bronson Cutting, a radical New Dealer, who was elected as a Republican but has seldom supported any but Democratic candidates.

Because the Ritchie Democrats are too conservative to swallow the New Deal with any real pleasure, the Republicans of Maryland are loud in

Six Women Injured; 12 Arrested.

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A spray of machine gun fire from the darkened upper windows of two houses killed three marchers in a Democratic parade tonight down the main street of the little mining village of Kelayres, five miles south of here.

Twenty-one others, including six women, were felled with bullet wounds so serious that two of them were not expected to survive.

A Republican leader, Joseph Bruno, and his nephew, Paul, who live in the two houses, together with election watchers gathered there and three school teachers were placed under arrest. In all twelve persons were arrested from the Bruno home.

Climax of Year's Strife.

What State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence called "cold blooded murder" was the climax of more than a year's strife among political factions in the town of 600 inhabitants.

Joseph Bruno said a stone from the parade came through windows of his home after he had heard several volleys of shots. He said he could not state whether any persons within his home had returned the fire.

Gunfire from Two Homes.

As the line neared a church spikes of flames spat from windows on the second floor of a home on one side of the street and from third floor windows in a home directly opposite.

The paraders were caught in a deadly crossfire.

Charles Drevo, miner of Kelayres, who was in the parade fifty feet back of the leaders, described the shooting this way:

"We had had an open air meeting and some one suggested a parade through town. Headed by a truck loaded with children, we started down the street—a happy crowd in holiday mood. It was just a parade of happy people.

Denies Any Disorder.

"There wasn't any disorder, nothing was thrown—we were calling back and forth to our friends in the line and suddenly as the head of the line drew close to the house of Joseph Bruno, county detective and county Republican chairman, fire spurted from every window, it seemed to me.

"And from the opposite side of the street where Paul Bruno, his nephew, lives shots came, too, I thought.

"Men, women, and the children in the truck were caught in the cross fire—crumpled to the ground—as every one ran.

"It was worse than war because of the children and the women. It was like some unbelievable thing—and it still seems too ghastly to remember."

Women Tell of Warning.

Although Democratic women reported they were told by Republicans ten days ago that if they attempted to parade "some one would be shot," the paraders said they were unprepared for violence.

First to fall under the sudden fire was Frank Fiorilla, 65, of Kelayres.

George Steranko, upon hearing the volley, ran from his home, and as he sighted John Golosky, 28, of McAdoo, a fellow football player, fall under the fire picked him up and took him to the Hazleton hospital, where he died on the operating table.

The other man killed was William Fort, 35, McAdoo Heights. He was shot through the head and body.

Threaten to Dynamite Homes.

As part of the stricken paraders hurried their wounded and dying to hospitals another group formed a milling crowd about the Bruno homes, threatening the residences with dynamite.

A dozen state police and a score of sheriff's deputies finally brought a measure of order.

Joseph Bruno said after he left Republican headquarters, next door to his home, for the day he and his coworkers went to his residence, where he planned to fill out some watchers' papers for voters from the Lofty district. He said his wife and family were seated about the room when they heard the parade coming. Some stones struck his property, he said, and after he heard several volleys of shots fired a stone came through a window. He said he could not state whether any

Dr. McArthur, Noted Chicago Surgeon, Dead

Dr. Lewis Linn McArthur, senior surgeon at St. Luke's hospital, for more than forty years one of the outstanding figures in American surgery, died suddenly last night in his home at 230 East Delaware place. He was 76 years old.

Dr. McArthur had received patients as usual in his office at 122 South Michigan avenue yesterday afternoon. After dinner with his son, Lewis McArthur Jr., vice president of the Northern Trust company, with whom he lived, he lay down on a divan for a short rest. Two hours later, at 9:15, the son noticed that his father appeared to have stopped breathing. A nearby physician was summoned and pronounced him dead, apparently of a heart attack.

Dr. McArthur had enjoyed exceptionally good health all his life, his son said, although some months ago he underwent an operation.

Wife's Death Recalled.

In 1931 Dr. McArthur and another son, Dr. Selim W. McArthur, also of the St. Luke's hospital staf, operated on his wife, Mrs. Mamie W. McArthur, at Miami in an effort to save her life. She died on Christmas day after being brought to Chicago. Besides Lewis and Selim, Dr. McArthur is survived by a third son, Billings.

The death of Dr. McArthur leaves Dr. Arthur D. Bevan, professor of surgery at Rush Medical college, as the surviving member of a triumvirate distinguished in the early medical history of the city. They, with the late Dr. Frank Billings, had maintained joint offices since their internship at the old Cook County hospital.

Leader in Asceptic Surgery.

These three men with Dr. John B. Murphy, Dr. Nicholas Senn, and Dr. Christian Fenger were among the first surgeons to take advantage of the introduction of aseptic surgery. In this particular field Dr. McArthur was considered a leader.

Dr. McArthur was born in Boston on Jan. 23, 1858, the son of Maj. Joseph H. McArthur. He was educated in Lake Forest academy, Santa Clara college in California, and Rush Medical college. After his internship in 1880-'81 Dr. McArthur took postgraduate courses at the University of Heidelberg and in Vienna.

Since 1886 Dr. McArthur had been chief surgeon of St. Luke's hospital. He was also chief consulting surgeon at the Michael Reese, Grant, and Evanston hospitals. He directed Base hospital No. 14 during the war.

His social club memberships included the Chicago, University, South Shore Country, and Glen View Golf clubs.

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in Grace chapel of St. Luke's hospital. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

FREE CANDY PERILS CHILDREN'S MORALS; NRA ORDERS A HALT

Offering children chances at free candy from now on will be regarded as a misdemeanor under the wholesale confectioners' code. This was announced yesterday by Alex J. Brown Jr., executive secretary for the code authority, at a meeting of candy wholesalers in the Hotel Sherman.

"Leading children to expect something for nothing," said Mr. Brown, "tends to develop the gambling instinct in them. It is a direct violation of the fair trade provision of the code and violators will be subject to prosecution."

He particularly condemned the practice of selling one cent candy bars, some of which contain slips entitling the purchaser to an extra bar free.

U. S. Warships Crash in Sham Battle in Night

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Two destroyers of the United States battle fleet, the Ellis and McFarland, collided tonight 200 miles off Magdalena bay, Mexico, during battle maneuvers, radio dispatches received here tonight stated.

The two vessels, with 26 others, were engaged in a similated night attack on the main body of the fleet.

As they sped forward to deliver the attack, most of their lights out, the Ellis, commanded by Lieutenant Commander F. K. O'Brien, rammed the other destroyer on the starboard side.

Water in Fireroom.

"No serious injury to the personnel," read a report radioed from the commander of the McFarland to the fleet flagship.

The report added that the water in the fireroom of the McFarland had reached the gratings and was gaining.

Two tenders, the Dobbin and Whitney, were ordered to take charge of repairs and escort the damaged destroyers to the San Diego base for inspection and permanent repairs. A forward hull puncture apparently was the only damage to the Ellis.

Plane Drops Into Ocean.

Earlier today three airplanes brushed wings in midair during a spectacular air raid on the fleet by planes from the carriers Lexington and Langley. All three pilots escaped without injury, but one of the planes was lost.

Lieutenant Commander Thomas P. Jeter, noted navy speed flyer, dropped into the sea with his damaged ship and was rescued uninjured by the destroyer Williamson as his plane sank.

Lieut. Robert Goldthwaite and Lieut. Charles L. Westhofer managed to land their planes on the Lexington after the collision. They were practically undamaged.

The battle fleet, returning from the Atlantic seaboard, has been holding almost continuous maneuvers since it passed through the Panama canal. It is due to return here Nov. 9 and will be based here and at San Diego.

Pirates Loot Chinese Ship, Kidnap Three Passengers

HONGKONG, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Chinese steamer, Kaho 1,588 tons, bound for Swatow from Shanghai, was seized by pirates early Sunday. The pirates took the ship to Sami Point, Honghai bay, where the booty was removed and three Chinese kidnaped for ransom.

Broker Gives U. S. a Fight Over Insull

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Clarence T. MacNeille, tall, lanky Scotch director, vice president and secretary-treasurer of Halsey, Stuart & Co., rivaled and in some respects exceeded Samuel Insull as a thrill producing witness yesterday in the mail fraud trial before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Two worlds clashed here during the cross-examination of Mr. MacNeille by Leslie E. Salter, dynamic young special prosecutor from Oklahoma, as they faced each other in the dim courtroom late in the afternoon. The accusing world of 1934 met the strange optimism of 1929, which could not see ahead, but which seemed, in the case of Mr. MacNeille at least, to be as clear and frank as a summer pool.

What the government called fictitious values in the stock of the Corporation Securities company seemed to this witness, as to Mr. Insull, who preceded him on the stand, a sound market value at the time.

Dramatic Tension in Court.

"It never occurred to me to consider anything else except market value," said this witness, during one of his electric exchanges with the prosecutor that left an atmosphere of tension on the room, like the swift passing of bullets of thought, and had the jurors leaning forward in their chairs in intense interest.

Mr. MacNeille had proceeded through a placid direct examination by his attorney, Charles W. Lounsbury and had explained, to the satisfaction of the defense at least, all the affairs of Corporation Securities company until the time of his resignation as secretary-treasurer of that concern in the summer of 1930.

Then Mr. Salter took him in hand. The prosecutor had been gentle with Mr. Insull, who concluded his testimony during the morning session, but with this comparatively young and alert man he became at once forceful and accusatory.

Salter Starts in on Stock Sales.

He wanted to know first about the salesmanship efforts of Halsey, Stuart & Co. in disposing of the first units of Corporation Securities stock. He took the tone that it was wrong to sell this stock until the witness said to him:

"Put yourself back five or six years, Mr. Salter. Get in the frame of mind back in 1929."

"This hindsight doesn't go with me," said the prosecutor roughly. "I want to know just what you had in mind."

"The public ran up the market, not Halsey-Stuart," said the witness.

"The public did?"

"Yes. When the stock went up to $115, Corporation Securities went in, then it broke and the company steadied it and let it down in an orderly manner."

Cites Purchases for Stuart.

"You authorized purchases in the name of Harold Stuart at $99 and $100, at the time it was selling to the public at $75?"

"All the subscriptions for that stock were in on the first day."

"Do you mean to leave the impression with the jury that you must buy to keep the stock from going up?"

"Are you at all familiar with stock transactions, Mr. Salter? M. D. Cahn phoned in the purchases in Stuart's name. It had nothing to do with the offer to the public."

"No?"

"Absolutely not. You can't just sell and step out from under. There is a lot of responsibility connected with this business, Mr. Salter. There were

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Constitutional government was expounded as the leading issue in the final hours of Illinois' political campaign which goes to the voters for verdict today. In the congressional races, which are the spectacular phase of this off-year election, the Republicans stressed the "rubber stamp" issue. They placed especial emphasis on whether congress shall abdicate and turn over the powers reposed in it by the constitution to the brain trust experimenters.

Midnight saw the campaign still being carried on furiously. In Chicago and the industrial areas, in the corn belt districts and the coal fields of central and southern Illinois Republicans and Democrats increased their activities in the closing hours. Managers of both rival parties increased their estimates of strength, and as a result the polls will open this morning with doubt and uncertainty flooding many local headquarters.

Bitter Congress at Large Battle.

Chief among the contests attracting national interest is the struggle over congressmen at large. Two are to be elected by the voters of the entire state. C. Wayland Brooks and Milton E. Jones of Williamsville, Republicans, are pitted against Michael L. Igoe and Congressman Martin A. Brennan of Bloomington, Democrats.

Mr. Brooks, popularly known as "Curly," has led the fight for the Republican state ticket. Mr. Igoe has performed in like capacity for the Democratic state ticket. In all the counties of the state, in speechmaking pilgrimages, the battle over congressmen at large has emerged as the topliner combat of the campaign. Brooks is regarded by the Democrats as their strongest opponent, and many Democrats declare the outlook is that Brooks and Igoe will win. Republicans claim the victors will be Brooks and Jones.

The Illinois delegation in the house at Washington, D. C., now is 19 Democrats and 8 Republicans.

G. O. P. Centers on Corn Belt.

In the battles over district congressmen Republicans concentrated upon five districts in the corn belt, which have elected Democrats to congress only in the Bull Moose period two decades ago and in the Roosevelt 1932 landslide. Also they have centered activities on three districts in central and southern Illinois, where the coal miner vote is strong and is torn asunder by the battle over NRA and the codes being waged between the Progressives and the United Mine Workers. In Chicago they are trying to regain the Englewood [3d] and northwest side [7th] districts.

Democrats downstate are seeking to keep what seats they have and to gain a few. They have centered on the Elgin [11th] and Rockford [12th] districts downstate. In Chicago they have massed their cohorts against Congressman Fred A. Britten in the 9th district and Congressman Oscar De Priest in the 1st.

All told there is furious fighting in

Six Women Injured; 12 Arrested.

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A spray of machine gun fire from the darkened upper windows of two houses killed three marchers in a Democratic parade tonight down the main street of the little mining village of Kelayres, five miles south of here.

Twenty-one others, including six women, were felled with bullet wounds so serious that two of them were not expected to survive.

A Republican leader, Joseph Bruno, and his nephew, Paul, who live in the two houses, together with election watchers gathered there and three school teachers were placed under arrest. In all twelve persons were arrested from the Bruno home.

Climax of Year's Strife.

What State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence called "cold blooded murder" was the climax of more than a year's strife among political factions in the town of 600 inhabitants.

Joseph Bruno said a stone from the parade came through windows of his home after he had heard several volleys of shots. He said he could not state whether any persons within his home had returned the fire.

Gunfire from Two Homes.

As the line neared a church spikes of flames spat from windows on the second floor of a home on one side of the street and from third floor windows in a home directly opposite.

The paraders were caught in a deadly crossfire.

Charles Drevo, miner of Kelayres, who was in the parade fifty feet back of the leaders, described the shooting this way:

"We had had an open air meeting and some one suggested a parade through town. Headed by a truck loaded with children, we started down the street—a happy crowd in holiday mood. It was just a parade of happy people.

Denies Any Disorder.

"There wasn't any disorder, nothing was thrown—we were calling back and forth to our friends in the line and suddenly as the head of the line drew close to the house of Joseph Bruno, county detective and county Republican chairman, fire spurted from every window, it seemed to me.

"And from the opposite side of the street where Paul Bruno, his nephew, lives shots came, too, I thought.

"Men, women, and the children in the truck were caught in the cross fire—crumpled to the ground—as every one ran.

"It was worse than war because of the children and the women. It was like some unbelievable thing—and it still seems too ghastly to remember."

Women Tell of Warning.

Although Democratic women reported they were told by Republicans ten days ago that if they attempted to parade "some one would be shot," the paraders said they were unprepared for violence.

First to fall under the sudden fire was Frank Fiorilla, 65, of Kelayres.

George Steranko, upon hearing the volley, ran from his home, and as he sighted John Golosky, 28, of McAdoo, a fellow football player, fall under the fire picked him up and took him to the Hazleton hospital, where he died on the operating table.

The other man killed was William Fort, 35, McAdoo Heights. He was shot through the head and body.

Threaten to Dynamite Homes.

As part of the stricken paraders hurried their wounded and dying to hospitals another group formed a milling crowd about the Bruno homes, threatening the residences with dynamite.

A dozen state police and a score of sherif's deputies finally brought a measure of order.

Joseph Bruno said after he left Republican headquarters, next door to his home, for the day he and his coworkers went to his residence, where he planned to fill out some watchers' papers for voters from the Lofty district. He said his wife and family were seated about the room when they heard the parade coming. Some stones struck his property, he said, and after he heard several volleys of shots fired a stone came through a window. He said he could not state whether any

Dr. Lewis Linn McArthur, senior surgeon at St. Luke's hospital, for more than forty years one of the outstanding figures in American surgery, died suddenly last night in his home at 230 East Delaware place. He was 76 years old.

Dr. McArthur had received patients as usual in his office at 122 South Michigan avenue yesterday afternoon. After dinner with his son, Lewis McArthur Jr., vice president of the Northern Trust company, with whom he lived, he lay down on a divan for a short rest. Two hours later, at 9:15, the son noticed that his father appeared to have stopped breathing. A nearby physician was summoned and pronounced him dead, apparently of a heart attack.

Dr. McArthur had enjoyed exceptionally good health all his life, his son said, although some months ago he underwent an operation.

Wife's Death Recalled.

In 1931 Dr. McArthur and another son, Dr. Selim W. McArthur, also of the St. Luke's hospital staf, operated on his wife, Mrs. Mamie W. McArthur, at Miami in an effort to save her life. She died on Christmas day after being brought to Chicago. Besides Lewis and Selim, Dr. McArthur is survived by a third son, Billings.

The death of Dr. McArthur leaves Dr. Arthur D. Bevan, professor of surgery at Rush Medical college, as the surviving member of a triumvirate distinguished in the early medical history of the city. They, with the late Dr. Frank Billings, had maintained joint offices since their internship at the old Cook County hospital.

Leader in Asceptic Surgery.

These three men with Dr. John B. Murphy, Dr. Nicholas Senn, and Dr. Christian Fenger were among the first surgeons to take advantage of the introduction of aseptic surgery. In this particular field Dr. McArthur was considered a leader.

Dr. McArthur was born in Boston on Jan. 23, 1858, the son of Maj. Joseph H. McArthur. He was educated in Lake Forest academy, Santa Clara college in California, and Rush Medical college. After his internship in 1880-'81 Dr. McArthur took postgraduate courses at the University of Heidelberg and in Vienna.

Since 1886 Dr. McArthur had been chief surgeon of St. Luke's hospital. He was also chief consulting surgeon at the Michael Reese, Grant, and Evanston hospitals. He directed Base hospital No. 14 during the war.

His social club memberships included the Chicago, University, South Shore Country, and Glen View Golf clubs.

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in Grace chapel of St. Luke's hospital. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

FREE CANDY PERILS CHILDREN'S MORALS; NRA ORDERS A HALT

Offering children chances at free candy from now on will be regarded as a misdemeanor under the wholesale confectioners' code. This was announced yesterday by Alex J. Brown Jr., executive secretary for the code authority, at a meeting of candy wholesalers in the Hotel Sherman.

"Leading children to expect something for nothing," said Mr. Brown, "tends to develop the gambling instinct in them. It is a direct violation of the fair trade provision of the code and violators will be subject to prosecution."

He particularly condemned the practice of selling one cent candy bars, some of which contain slips entitling the purchaser to an extra bar free.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Two destroyers of the United States battle fleet, the Ellis and McFarland, collided tonight 200 miles off Magdalena bay, Mexico, during battle maneuvers, radio dispatches received here tonight stated.

The two vessels, with 26 others, were engaged in a simlated night attack on the main body of the fleet.

As they sped forward to deliver the attack, most of their lights out, the Ellis, commanded by Lieutenant Commander F. K. O'Brien, rammed the other destroyer on the starboard side.

Water in Fireroom.

"No serious injury to the personnel," read a report radioed from the commander of the McFarland to the fleet flagship.

The report added that the water in the fireroom of the McFarland had reached the gratings and was gaining.

Two tenders, the Dobbin and Whitney, were ordered to take charge of repairs and escort the damaged destroyers to the San Diego base for inspection and permanent repairs. A forward hull puncture apparently was the only damage to the Ellis.

Plane Drops Into Ocean.

Earlier today three airplanes brushed wings in midair during a spectacular air raid on the fleet by planes from the carriers Lexington and Langley. All three pilots escaped without injury, but one of the planes was lost. Lieutenant Commander Thomas P. Jeter, noted navy speed flyer, dropped into the sea with his damaged ship and was rescued uninjured by the destroyer Williamson as his plane sank.

Lieut. Robert Goldthwaite and Lieut. Charles L. Westhofer managed to land their planes on the Lexington after the collision. They were practically undamaged.

The battle fleet, returning from the Atlantic seaboard, has been holding almost continuous maneuvers since it passed through the Panama canal. It is due to return here Nov. 9 and will be based here and at San Diego.

Pirates Loot Chinese Ship, Kidnap Three Passengers

HONGKONG, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Chinese steamer, Kaho 1,588 tons, bound for Swatow from Shanghai, was seized by pirates early Sunday. The pirates took the ship to Sami Point, Honghai bay, where the booty was removed and three Chinese kidnaped for ransom.

Broker Gives U. S. a Fight Over Insull

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Clarence T. MacNeille, tall, lanky Scotch director, vice president and secretary-treasurer of Halsey, Stuart & Co., rivaled and in some respects exceeded Samuel Insull as a thrill producing witness yesterday in the mail fraud trial before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Two worlds clashed here during the cross-examination of Mr. MacNeille by Leslie E. Salter, dynamic young special prosecutor from Oklahoma, as they faced each other in the dim courtroom late in the afternoon. The accusing world of 1934 met the strange optimism of 1929, which could not see ahead, but which seemed, in the case of Mr. MacNeille at least, to be as clear and frank as a summer pool.

What the government called fictitious values in the stock of the Corporation Securities company seemed to this witness, as to Mr. Insull, who preceded him on the stand, a sound market value at the time.

Dramatic Tension in Court.

"It never occurred to me to consider anything else except market value," said this witness, during one of his electric exchanges with the prosecutor that left an atmosphere of tension on the room, like the swift passing of bullets of thought, and had the jurors leaning forward in their chairs in intense interest.

Mr. MacNeille had proceeded through a placid direct examination by his attorney, Charles W. Lounsbury and had explained, to the satisfaction of the defense at least, all the affairs of Corporation Securities company until the time of his resignation as secretary-treasurer of that concern in the summer of 1930.

Then Mr. Salter took him in hand. The prosecutor had been gentle with Mr. Insull, who concluded his testimony during the morning session, but with this comparatively young and alert man he became at once forceful and accusatory.

Salter Starts in on Stock Sales.

He wanted to know first about the salesmanship efforts of Halsey, Stuart & Co. in disposing of the first units of Corporation Securities stock. He took the tone that it was wrong to sell this stock until the witness said to him:

"Put yourself back five or six years, Mr. Salter. Get in the frame of mind back in 1929."

"This hindsight doesn't go with me," said the prosecutor roughly. "I want to know just what you had in mind."

"The public ran up the market, not Halsey-Stuart," said the witness.

"The public did?"

"Yes. When the stock went up to $115, Corporation Securities went in, then it broke and the company steadied it and let it down in an orderly manner."

Cites Purchases for Stuart.

"You authorized purchases in the name of Harold Stuart at $99 and $100, at the time it was selling to the public at $75?"

"All the subscriptions for that stock were in on the first day."

"Do you mean to leave the impression with the jury that you must buy to keep the stock from going up?"

"Are you at all familiar with stock transactions, Mr. Salter? M. D. Cahn phoned in the purchases in Stuart's name. It had nothing to do with the offer to the public."

"No?"

"Absolutely not. You can't just sell and step out from under. There is a lot of responsibility connected with this business, Mr. Salter. There were

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Constitutional government was expounded as the leading issue in the final hours of Illinois' political campaign which goes to the voters for verdict today. In the congressional races, which are the spectacular phase of this off-year election, the Republicans stressed the "rubber stamp" issue. They placed especial emphasis on whether congress shall abdicate and turn over the powers reposed in it by the constitution to the brain trust experimenters.

Midnight saw the campaign still being carried on furiously. In Chicago and the industrial areas, in the corn belt districts and the coal fields of central and southern Illinois Republicans and Democrats increased their activities in the closing hours. Managers of both rival parties increased their estimates of strength, and as a result the polls will open this morning with doubt and uncertainty flooding many local headquarters.

Bitter Congress at Large Battle.

Chief among the contests attracting national interest is the struggle over congressmen at large. Two are to be elected by the voters of the entire state. C. Wayland Brooks and Milton E. Jones of Williamsville, Republicans, are pitted against Michael L. Igoe and Congressman Martin A. Brennan of Bloomington, Democrats.

Mr. Brooks, popularly known as "Curly," has led the fight for the Republican state ticket. Mr. Igoe has performed in like capacity for the Democratic state ticket. In all the counties of the state, in speechmaking pilgrimages, the battle over congressmen at large has emerged as the topliner combat of the campaign. Brooks is regarded by the Democrats as their strongest opponent, and many Democrats declare the outlook is that Brooks and Igoe will win. Republicans claim the victors will be Brooks and Jones.

The Illinois delegation in the house at Washington, D. C., now is 19 Democrats and 8 Republicans.

G. O. P. Centers on Corn Belt.

In the battles over district congressmen Republicans concentrated upon five districts in the corn belt, which have elected Democrats to congress only in the Bull Moose period two decades ago and in the Roosevelt 1932 landslide. Also they have centered activities on three districts in central and southern Illinois, where the coal miner vote is strong and is torn asunder by the battle over NRA and the codes being waged between the Progressives and the United Mine Workers. In Chicago they are trying to regain the Englewood [3d] and northwest side [7th] districts.

Democrats downstate are seeking to keep what seats they have and to gain a few. They have centered on the Elgin [11th] and Rockford [12th] districts downstate. In Chicago they have massed their cohorts against Congressman Fred A. Britten in the 9th district and Congressman Oscar De Priest in the 1st.

All told there is furious fighting in

Predicts Sweep of 500,000 Votes.

A division of opinion as to the outcome appeared among the Democratic high command yesterday. At Springfield Bruce A. Campbell, Democratic state chairman, jumped his former estimates and forecast a Democratic sweep of 500,000 majority.

In Chicago some of the veteran Democratic statisticians, after pondering on the canvasses and polls made in the last few days, expressed a private opinion that it appeared to them the Republicans might elect "Curly" Brooks for congressman at large and William J. Stratton for state treasurer.

Reports from downstate, too, were that the veteran Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction, who survived the Democratic landslide of 1930 with its 747,000 Democratic plurality and won by 84,000, appears to be keeping his usual running pace.

One of the outstanding issues in the election of candidates for Illinois assembly posts is whether Gov. Henry Horner and the Democrats will retain control of the house. Both Democratic and Republican managements claim they will have a majority and elect the next speaker at Springfield.

Attacks "Leftist" Swing.

"Stand by the Constitution" was the theme of the closing address of Justus L. Johnson, Republican state chairman. He threw emphasis on the issues especially underlying the election of congressmen.

"The threat of our times," said Chairman Johnson, "is either a centralized authority, ordering and directing all activities of life, or a submergence of the individual into a state holding the ownership of everything. The left swing towards socialism is as destructive of the ordinary citizen as the right swing towards state control of all activities.

"No toiler wants to have the door of opportunity closed to him so that he cannot come into ownership of a home, a farm or a business. If we are to preserve those qualities of government which have given more happiness to more people than any other form we must hold to those principles which give the average man an opportunity.

Urges Defeat of "Tammany."

"Today uncertainty rules everywhere. It is time to quit experimenting. Restoration of work and wages must come from productive toil in supplying goods, food, and services. Anything that reduces consumption of food and goods holds back recovery, for less consumption means less work, less wages, more unemployment and increased relief rolls.

"In the effort to restore good government and American ideals the voters must defeat Tammany control of Illinois. Do not be disturbed by predictions given out by the opposition.

"A careful check based upon actual canvasses indicates that 73 of the 102 counties of Illinois will return Republicans to office; that Republicans will elect a majority in the lower house of the legislature.

"These reports indicate the Democrats will lose eight members of congress and the Republicans will gain eight additional seats."

As Democratic state chairman, Mr. Campbell at Sprignfield said his Saturday estimate of a 350,000 sweep by the Democrats was too low.

Claims Assembly Control.

"I now believe," he said, "the figure of 500,000 is likely to be our minimum. We will elect our congressmen in the eleven downstate districts which went Democratic in 1932, and may gain one or two seats. We will have more than two-thirds majority in the state senate and will elect 82 to 85 members of the lower house. We will elect more Democratic county officers than ever before, and there will be hardly a county in Illinois on Dec. 1 that will not have at least one Democratic official."

In Chicago the struggle between Congressman Fred A. Britten, Republican, and James McAndrews, Democrat, in the Ninth district, continued as the most feverish of the contests. Mr. Britten is in the midst of the hardest fight of his 11 term career, and the near north side long after midnight resounded with the din of political battle.

LIQUOR SALES PROHIBITED IN VOTING HOURS

Police Commissioner Allman issued an order yesterday to all captains directing them to enforce Section 10 or Article 6 of the liquor control law that became effective last February and which prohibits all retail sales of intoxicating liquors while an election is being held.

It was the custom of old for the policeman on the beat to go into every saloon and notify the bartender or saloonkeeper on an election eve that the place must be closed next day. Present custom, it was learned, is to dispense with the notification, the tavernkeeper being presumed to know the law and expected to obey it. So, although no formal notice was given taverns are expected to be closed or at least to refrain from selling anything but food and soft drinks from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. today.

DEMOCRATS LEAD IN LAST MINUTE POLLS IN COUNTY

Republicans Rely Upon Large Silent Vote.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Last minute straw votes taken at strategic points yesterday showed Democrats in the lead for most of the important county offices at stake today in the election.

Even Republican polls showed this status, but G. O. P. leaders and candidates were emphatic in their arguments that a great silent vote which does not manifest its existence in advance tests will record itself before 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The Democrats, confident of the influence of easy money in its many varied forms and of the efficacy of the biggest pay roll machine ever built up in Chicago and its suburbs, have boasted for weeks about making a clean sweep of all important places. They were willing to swear that honest sampling of the trend has shown them gaining during the last two weeks.

Every Indication of Heavy Poll.

Predictions continued to stress the general belief that the total vote would be large and that if the weather be fair, as is indicated by the official forecast, earlier estimates of 1,200,000 for Cook county and the same for the rest of the state might prove to be low. A day or two ago certain political analysts looked upon these estimates as high.

Preparations for the big day were completed last night. Ballots were sent to the homes of the precinct judges, who will carry them to the polling places this morning. Organizations distributed their funds for manning the polls with workers. In this respect, as in several others, the Democrats had the advantage over their opponents. They were said to have considerably more to spend per precinct than the Republicans.

County Judge Jarecki, Police Commissioner Allman and Sherif Meyering completed their precautions to forestall violence and illegal balloting. There were no indications of trouble and these officials and others in touch with conditions said they were confident the election would be clean and orderly.

Discard Final Stratagems.

There were no eleventh hour surprise moves by either of the major organizations. Spokesmen for each of them said that even more than ordinarily public opinion crystalized several days ago, that the die was cast and that there was no chance of bringing about any material shift by a change of front. All forces were concentrated on the job of tightening up the lines for the actual voting.

The contest between County Judge Jarecki, renominated by the Democrats, and Municipal Judge Samuel Heller, named by the Republicans to oppose him, was the one that attracted the most discussion around headquarters and on the street corners. For some time this fight has held a spotlight.

The straw votes showed Judge Jarecki, in spite of the prolonged battle by Judge Heller, holding his own with even the strongest vote getters on his tickets, some of whom have had much less strenuous opposition to contend with.

Heller All Set to Protest.

Nevertheless, Judge Heller said he would send 57 workers into the 24th ward today as observers, whose reports will be used as the basis of his plan for a recount in that ward whether he "wins, draws, or loses."

The best vote getting records on the Democratic side are held by County Clerk Sweitzer, now running for treasurer, and County Recorder Clayton F. Smith, now running for president of the county board. Sweitzer has a man of his own political type, City Treasurer James A. Kearns, running against him. As Kearns also has shown ability as a vote getter, the race may be closer than if Sweitzer had a less widely known opponent.

Smith's opponent, George F. Nixon, now a member of the board of tax appeals, has made a more active campaign than any other Republican nominee, winding up last night with a number of torchlight processions and meetings, but his catch-vote advocacy of a one per cent limitation has lost some of the appeal it had before it was dissected by critics. Therefore the veteran observers would not be surprised to see Smith lead his county ticket.

John S. Clark's Position Strong.

Although some one fired a shotgun through a window in the residence of Ald. James C. Moreland on Saturday evening and in some way missed the Republican alderman, who was sitting within arm's reach of the window, that incident is not believed to have had any effect whatever on the race for the office of county assessor. The city council record of John S. Clark Democrat, centered around his handling of financial matters bearing on taxation, has given him a big advantage that has not been cut down.

As the polls open Republican leaders differ in their opinions as to which of their nominees are in the lead. Most of them mention among their selections James P. Ringley, candidate for sherif. Ringley and his Democratic opponent, Ald. John Toman, have refrained from attacking each other. Their contest has been active but quiet. Ringley is uniformly popular with Republican ward organizations and is expected to pile up a big vote.

The Republicans are confident, they say, that fully half of their ticket will win, and they name Kearns, Judge Heller, Harry C. Kinne, nominee for Probate judge; Thomas O. Wallace for the board of tax appeals, and John E Northup, for sanitary trustee as those whose chances they consider brightest.

BROOKS ATTACKS RIVALS' RECORD IN FINAL SPEECH

Cites Democrats' Broken Platform Pledges.

C. Wayland Brooks last night closed his strenuous campaign for congressman-at-large on the Republican ticket with a few last minute shots at Democratic promises and achievements. He addressed his closing appeal to voters of the state over the radio.

As examples of the more serious failures of the national administration Brooks cited three platform pledges adopted by the Democratic national convention here two years ago, then showed how far they have fallen short of realization.

Cites Specific Omissions.

Reading the record, Brooks told how the Democrats promised "immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenses . . . to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of the federal government; maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget annually balanced; and a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards."

Besides deserting these and other pledges as soon as they were in power, Brooks declared that the Democrats also "inaugurated in Washington a new order of specially appointed college professors, many of them with the most radical theories of governmental life, and actually made them superior to the regular cabinet provided by law."

Operations of the Tennessee Valley authority are an apt example of what this new economic planning has done for the nation, Brooks continued. The experiment has been especially harmful to Illinois workers, he declared, for construction of great power projects will undoubtedly cut consumption of Illinois coal.

Points to G. O. P. Record.

Seven of the eight Republican congressmen elected from Illinois two years ago voted against "this spending of hundreds of millions of dollars outside the state," Brooks said, "while of the 19 Democratic congressmen 18 cast votes for this tremendous expenditure.

"Every hour," the young candidate said in conclusion, "more people are beginning to feel that we should balance the control of government for the greater security of citizens and their country. They voted the straight Democratic ticket two years ago and turned everything—the federal, the state, and county governments—over to the Democratic party, and thousands of loyal Jeffersonian Democrats and independent voters are going to the polls tomorrow to vote a straight Republican ticket to create this balance in the affairs of our government."

Ends 30,000 Mile Swring.

Thus, Brooks ended months of campaigning, 30,000 miles of travel throughout the state, and a record of having visited each of the 102 counties. He has made four and five speeches a day during the last two months. His closing line was the pledge that, if elected on the Republican ticket, he would take up his duties in Washington "not to destroy, not to obstruct, but to preserve the form of government that still remains the hope of the world."

CITY VOTERS GET 4 OR 5 BALLOTS AT POLLS TODAY

The main ballot that will be handed to Chicagoans at the polls today measures 24 by 30 inches, and contains 720 square inches, or five square feet. In addition, Chicagoans will be handed three or four separate little ballots. They receive four small ballots only where local prohibition referenda are being held—namely, in 103 complete precincts and in parts of 22 other precincts.

On the main ballot are eight columns. In the left hand column appears the proposition to call a constitutional convention. The next six columns are taken by the political parties in the following order: Democratic, Republican, National Progressive, Prohibition, Socialist Labor, and Socialist. The eighth column is blank, having been provided in accordance with the law for independents.

Full slates are submitted by only the two major parties. The Prohibition party has a complete state ticket for the first time since 1920 and its first Cook county slate since 1916. The other parties have no county ticket. The communist party does not appear on the ballot, its petition for a place having been rejected, as also were its candidates' petitions.

U. S. NEEDS G. O. P. MORE THAN EVER, HOOVER WRITES

Summit, N. J., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The country needs the Republican party "more than ever," former President Herbert Hoover wrote to Mayor Ruford Franklin, president of the Republican Club of Summit, in a letter made public today.

"The country indeed needs a live and virile Republican party," the former President wrote. "The whole protection of human liberty lies in free criticism and debate. That does not alone lie in a free press and the platform; it lies also in adequate representation in the halls of legislatures. And that cannot be attained without party organization and party support.

"In these days when liberty is endangered and when intolerance seeks to stamp out the very suggestion of doubt, the country needs the Republican party as a virile organization more than ever, and it needs an adequate opposition in the congress if our institutions are to survive."

The club celebrated its 28th anniversary last Monday.

N. Y. DEMOCRATS EXPECT VICTORY BY WIDE MARGIN

G. O. P. Rests Hope on Big Upstate Vote.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Farley and Tammany leaders repeated tonight their gleeful predictions of an overwhelming Democratic victory in President Roosevelt's home state tomorrow. They boasted that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Senator Royal S. Copeland and the rest of the ticket would be swept into office by pluralities ranging as high as 60,000 and that the Democrats would also gain two seats in the house of representatives.

Republican leaders, who have backed Robert Moses for governor, were hopeful that a big Republican vote upstate might nullify the New York City vote where Tammany has control of the polls. Privately, they were conceding that it would be a political miracle of miracles if Moses should win.

Billion Spent in State.

The spending of a billion dollars in New Deal money here has inspired Campaign Manager Farley, in his political experience, to his superoptimism, political leaders said. They pointed out, however, that Mr. Farley has left himself out on a limb if Gov. Lehman and Senator Copeland should not roll up the tremendous pluralities forecast for them. The Republicans would then be in a position to interpret the results as a repudiation of the New Deal despite the lavish expenditure of government money here.

One of the most interesting phases of the gubernatorial campaign and one which has been given little publicity is the "write-in" campaign being waged by backers of former Mayor John F. Hylan whose petitions in support of his candidacy for governor were ruled out by the courts.

Intense Feeling Bared.

The Hylan candidacy has brought to the fore the intense feeling in the city between Nazi sympathizers and the Jews.

Lehman, Moses, and Charles F. Solomon, candidate of the Socialist party, are all Jews and the Nazi element was at a loss to register its dissatisfaction with this situation until the German-American conference, the Steuben society and other organizations of Nazi sympathizers decided to back Hylan. All German-Americans are being urged to write in Hylan's name and the experts were interested in guessing how many votes the former mayor might poll.

Even the Jewish vote is somewhat divided because Moses is not considered as orthodox as Lehman. The personal qualifications of the two leading candidates are similar in other respects. Both are very wealthy, Lehman as a result of the profits of his banking house from which he officially retired when he took up politics, and Moses by inheritance of several millions from his father.

DIDN'T REPLACE DIVOT, SO GOLFER GOES TO PRISON

Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—You cannot always identify your fellow players on a municipal golf course.

Capt. Clyde Plummer of the district attorney's investigators and his assistant, Frank Shoffstale, today were joined at the first tee by a gent toting his own clubs. They took him in.

On the sixth hole the stranger whanged away with a mashie and took a divot large enough to have been dug with a steam shovel. He walked away without replacing it.

"A men who would do that," said the captain, "is a criminal." That was all until a third man from the district attorney's office, a colleague of Capt. Plummer, "tailed" the stranger to his apartment and arrested him, making the identification from a picture sent out describing "Horseshoe" Jimmy Michaels, alias Henry Marcus, under sentence to Menard, Ill., state prison for a $3,000 railroad station robbery in 1925. Michaels had been out on appeal for three years and jumped the state last year when his sentence was affirmed.

'ARSON QUEEN' TAKES STAND IN TRIAL OF OLIFF

Mrs. Bertha Warshovsky, known as the "arson queen," yesterday made her first appearance as a witness in the arson ring trials before Judge Harry B. Miller in the Criminal court.

Mrs. Warshovsky testified in the case of Leroy Oliff, 48 years old, charged with arson in the destruction on Dec. 11, 1930, of a clothing store formerly owned by him at 24 North Halsted street. Oliff is alleged to have collected $3,500 insurance on his loss.

Lionel Nasanov, who set the fire, was trapped in the burning building and lost his life. Mrs. Warshovsky testified she had made the wick, a special igniter which was to allow Nasanov three minutes in which to escape. Jack Brown, her son-in-law and a brother of Nasanov, also took the stand. He is a former co-defendant with Oliff who was granted a separate trial for becoming a state's witness. Brown testified that he was paid $500 to set the place afire, but because he was sick on the appointed night, he induced his brother to do the job for him.

Tribune Recommendations for the Election Today

In the following marked sample ballot, in the case of county judge and probate judge, the asterisk before the candidate's name indicates sitting judge; the dagger indicates preference of Chicago Bar association.

For county treasurer THE TRIBUNE expresses no preference, endorsing both candidates.

URGES REFUSAL OF BALLOT FOR MRS. A. R. DALL

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Miss Natalie Couch, Republican candidate for representative at large from New York, stood ready today to challenge the daughter of the President, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, should the latter try to vote tomorrow in Duchess county, but Mrs. Dall in all probability will not even try.

MRS. A. R. DALL.

The absentee ballot which she obtained recently was due Friday at the latest and was not returned to the commissioner of elections at Poughkeepsie.

Based on Nevada Trip.

It was Miss Couch's intention to challenge Mrs. Dall on the ground that when the President's daughter established residence in Nevada last summer to divorce Curtiss B. Dall she automatically barred herself from voting in New York state at the election tomorrow.

Miss Couch made this very plain today in a telegram which she sent to both Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the President's wife, and to Mrs. Caroline O'Day, who is running for representative at large on the Democratic ticket. Mrs. O'Day is a long time friend for whom the President's wife has been campaigning.

Wires to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Miss Couch, in her dispatch to Mrs. Roosevelt, said:

"I am sending this telegram to you as matron of the White House and as an active participant in the Democratic campaign against my candidacy for representative in congress at large from the state of New York.

"I am informed that a member of your household, on or about June 17 last, established legal residence in the state of Nevada for personal reasons in which I have no interest.

"I am further informed that the same member of your household has, within recent date, obtained an absentee ballot in Dutchess county for the purpose of voting in the forthcoming election. If this is true, I am vitally interested.

"I call your attention to section 150 of article 7 of the elction law and to sections 1620 and 1633 of article 158, chapter 41, of the penal law.

"I shall see that such a vote is challenged for the purpose of preserving an honest ballot."

MRS. LONGWORTH SEEKS TO SELL CAPITAL HOME

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A "for sale" sign went up today on the home of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, widow of the former speaker. Long a show place of the capital and center of official and social activity, the home was offered for $70,000.

The Longworth home, a five story white stone structure, was purchased by the late speaker in 1925, about the time of the birth of Paulina, Mrs. Longworth's daughter. Longworth bought it from Robert Roosevelt, cousin of the first President of that name.

SECY. PERKINS HERE FOR FEW SILENT HOURS

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins made a brief visit to Chicago yesterday, arriving at 9 a. m. and departing at 2:15 p. m. for New York. While here she remained in her rooms at the Palmer House and denied herself to interviewers. At noon she promised reporters by telephone that she would receive them at 2 o'clock. However, at 1:30 she slipped out of her room and departed with a young woman companion. The two women locked themselves in their compartment on the train until it left the La Salle street station.

GHOST WEARING HEAD PHONES IS LAID IN 42D WARD

Found by Police and "Boss" Connors.

A ghost was laid yesterday in the 42d ward, which embraces the Gold Coast, Little Hell, Death Corner and several other spots marked "X." The ward is the setting for the contest between Representative William J. Connors, Democrat, and Representative Robert M. Woodward, Republican, for election as state senator of the 29th district.

The ghost was laid in the basement of the apartment building at 203 East Chestnut street, in which reside Representative Connors and family. Besides being a state representative Connors is Democratic ward committeeman, which gives him the title of ward boss and, according to his enemies in the campaign, also gives him the perquisites.

Ward Is Campaign Hot Spot.

For weeks during the campaign the 42d ward has been the hot spot of the city, and Connors a target. His workers had tired themselves out gathering and burning scurrilous pamphlets that hinted there was a skeleton in Connors' closet. When Woodward, opponent of Connors, called for volunteers to distribute the pamphlets the Connors stalwarts stepped forth and carried away bundles of the literature—carried the bundles to a furnace or the lake or the river. But as fast as the literature was distributed in this fashion more of it appeared.

Congressman Fred A. Britten, Republican, fighting desperately for reelection, entered the 42d ward. Connors, as a New Dealer, was resenting the remarks of Republican Britten and something was bound to happen.

Set Trap for Ghost.

But about the ghost——. Connors set a trap for it. Yesterday morning he and Capt. Andrew Barry of the Chicago avenue police station cautiously tiptoed to the Connors basement. In a boiler room they found a man.

"Who are you?" demanded Capt. Barry.

"Frank W. Harpola, agent of the intelligence bureau of the United States department of internal revenue," replied the "ghost," who wore a headpiece reminiscent of the early days of radio. "I'm waiting for a street car."

A. P. Madden, head of the government intelligence unit, vouched for his employé, who had tapped a telephone wire in the building, but refused to explain his presence there.

WARN VOTERS TAXES WILL JUMP IF RELIEF BOND PROPOSAL FAILS

Last minute warnings were sounded yesterday in speeches by candidates of both parties that voters will pay heavily if they neglect to mark "Yes" on the separate little ballot covering the $30,000,000 emergency relief bond issue. In addition to a stiff increase in 1935 tax bills, failure to pass the proposition would result in higher rents and serious difficulties in financing next year's relief, they pointed out.

Voters were especially warned that failure to mark the vallot at all is the same as a vote of "No," because of the requirement that the bond issue proposal receive an affirmative majority of all votes cast for legislative candidates.

Among the candidates who urged votes for the bond issue in their speeches were Ald. John S. Clark, County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer, Fred W. Brummel, Emmett Whealan, and Harry C. Kinne.

"Speaking as a lawyer, I would strongly advise everyone to vote 'Yes' on the bond issue," Mr. Kinne told his audiences. "It appears to me to be a business-like, and under the circumstances, the only proper solution now of the problem of paying the tax anticipation notes on which the state obtained the money for this year's relief to the unemployed. The bond issue would be repaid over 20 years from the gasoline tax. Otherwise there will be a heavy additional property tax collected in 1935."

VOTING IS JOB FOR ROOSEVELT AT HOME TODAY

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt spent a quiet day at home today before voting for the New Deal candidates in tomorrow's election.

Enjoying the pleasure of his own home surroundings and the beautiful autumn weather, Mr. Roosevelt took advantage of the day to the full extent with an automobile ride in the late afternoon. He included in the day a cursory survey of national affairs. The impression prevailed at Hyde Park that after the election there would be new developments. He met officers of the American Newspaper guild. They proposed to the President that press associations be included in the newspaper code.

As far as national problems are concerned, there is a feeling among the close friends of the President that he has some very definite views to propose, perhaps when the new congress convenes in January.

NEW DEAL KILLING FIGHTING SPIRIT —MAJ. GRIFFITH

Denies U. S. Citizens Are Getting "Soft."

Americans are not becoming soft, but the New Deal is doing its best to kill all personal initiative and to stifle the fighting spirit which created the nation. That was the charge made yesterday by Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western conference.

Speaking before the Advertising post of the American Legion in Hotel Sherman, he said the alphabetical agencies have been established by the New Deal administration in an effort to get something for nothing. As a result, he said, the leftists are doomed to failure.

"We are too prone," he said, "to blame everything on a system. When a football team loses, its backers begin howling for a new coach. Too often they want a coach who can devise touchdown plays that will bring results without work. The pacifists and socialists want the same thing in government. They want ease and security, but they don't want to make difficult tackles and they refuse to block hard and roll in the dirt."

The Issue in Election.

On the eve of election day the speaker said the issue was clear cut. It is, he said, whether or not we need more government. If so we are less qualified to govern ourselves and manage our own affairs than our fathers were.

"It seems to me," Maj. Griffith said, "that we are embarking on a dangerous experiment and one that is doomed to failure. Ickes, Richberg, Sinclair, Tugwell, and the rest who have become enamored of the Russian scheme claim that government is not taking over business, but is becoming a partner. Government is a servant, and, it seems to me, if the servant is to become a partner the stockholders at least have a right to vote on the desirability of such an arrangement."

Debasing of Dollar Assailed.

Confiscation of gold and the devaluation of the dollar were branded by the speaker as highly dishonest. The sponsors and voters in the New Deal, the speaker said, are merely players who are afraid of playing a fighting game.

"They want to scrap the constitution," he said, "because it guarantees rights which prevent them from getting the powers they want. I do not believe the majority of Americans wants to be led by the hand. The country was founded on fight, and the majority, if they understood the issue, still want only a fighting chance to get what is rightfully their due."

250 CCC YOUTHS RIOT ON TRAIN; RESIST OFFICERS

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 5.—(AP)—About 250 CCC members who became unruly tonight after locking their officers in the baggage rooms on a passenger train in which they were being transported from Maine to Camp Hoyle, Md., were placed under control later and the train started toward Norwich, Conn.

Police said the train landed in Worcester for a brief stop about 9 p. m. As the train was started again some of the CCC members cut an air hose, bringing the train of twelve passengers cars to a quick stop. As the engineer made further attempts to start the air emergency valves were applied again and again. Then the corps members, according to observers, began to break windows in the train. As their officers tried to handle them they were locked in baggage rooms and in closets in the cars.

There was considerable drinking aboard, police said.

Some of the cooler heads among the corps members released the officers, who soon obtained control. With the arrival of police the train was quiet and the order to continue the journey was given.

Chairmen Make Final Pleas to Voters as Campaign Ends

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Making their last bid for victory in tomorrow's crucial election, Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, and James A. Farley, generalissimo of the Democrats, tonight broadcast their final appeals to voters and party workers.

Each party chieftain, closing the campaign with an address over a national radio network, claimed that victory will rest with his cause when the ballots are counted tomorrow.

"We are going to recapture seats in the congress, and we are going to win back control of state governments," Fletcher predicted. "The party is going to come back into its own in hundreds of counties and towns."

Hopes for House Gains.

He made no definitive forecast of Republican gains but previously has estimated that the party may wrest as many as 60 or 70 seats in the house of representatives from the Democrats.

Farley predicted flatly that the Democrats will win six or more additional seats in the senate and hold its own in the house of representatives.

"In the next congress," the Democratic national chairman claimed, "we will have at least six more seats in the senate than we now have—maybe more than six. I will tell you also that so far as the house of representatives is concerned our majority will continue without material change. If we lose a few seats in one section of the country we will gain a few seats in another section."

Broadsides Exchanged.

A final broadside was exchanged by the two party leaders as they summed up the battles of the campaign. Fletcher accused the Roosevelt New Deal of buying votes with relief and public works cash, of invading individual liberties, and of running the country recklessly into debt. Farley, who sought to make support of the President the main issue, charged the Republicans with seeking to win enough seats in the house to block all measures requiring a two-thirds vote.

Each leader issued a final rallying call to the party's workers who will be on the firing lines tomorrow in the precincts and districts, declaring that victory or defeat depends upon them.

"It is now up to the workers in the field, the faithful men and women who vote and get the voters to the polls," Fletcher said. "Tonight as the campaign closes I am giving the ball to the rank and file of our party for tomorrow's fight.

Face "Unbalanced Line."

"We are up against a big, heavily stuffed team, but it has an unbalanced line, and the star quarter back seems to be undecided about his plays. After grooming Sinclair for ground gaining around the left end, he was put off the team last week and the lineup changed. A new back field of bankers has been signed up. It looks like a fake pass to the right.

"We have no illusions. We face unusual obstacles. Our party organizations everywhere have been handicapped by the lack of funds to carry on normal, legitimate organization activities. The opposition, on the other hand, has used its easy access to the federal treasury as a political campaign argument. The needy voters are being told that federal aid is coming as a favor from the Democratic party.

"Whether our victory be great or small, the Republican party and Republican workers everywhere will have to stand firm during the next two years. From present indications, even with the gains we shall make, the next congress will be more reckless than the last one.

Banks on American People.

"The results of the election tomorrow will not settle the issues. The electorate is being beguiled by easy money and a fictitious scheme of recovery. But soft words and soft money never cured hard times. This world of make believe will come to an end sooner or later and the American people, true to their traditions, will put their house in order!

"As has been said, it usually falls to the lot of the Republican party to have to clear up the mess the Democratic party makes of our national affairs. This one will, I fear, be a terrible mess, but we will be ready and we will do it along clean, sound American lines. My closing appeal to all Republicans is to keep their faith—the country will need it in the years to come."

Farley Sees Confidence Vote.

Farley, claiming victory for the Democrats, insisted that the election will show a vote of confidence in President Roosevelt and that this is the only issue involved.

"I particularly want to address myself tonight," Farley said, "to the workers whose efforts have insured for us tomorrow the greatest indorsement ever received by a President of the United States.

"Actually there has been no issue in the campaign that is now closing but the question, 'Do you believe in President Roosevelt? Have you faith that the policies he inaugurated the very day he reached the White House are in the interest of the whole people and, carried out to fulfilment, will give us lasting and honest prosperity?'

"Our adversaries offer you of the electorate no program to supplant that which they so violently assail. They are today as destitute of constructive or helpful ideas as they were two years ago when the people of the United States turned them out of office because of their lack of courage, lack of leadership and lack of any promise of betterment beyond the pious hope that prosperity was lurking somewhere around the corner and that all the people could do or should do was to reëlect Herbert Hoover and let nature take its course.

Refers to Critics' Bid.

"The President's critics chose to base their bid for votes on the hypothesis that the measures taken to keep things going and to tide the destitute over the period of extreme stress were wicked, wasteful, uneconomic, and unconstitutional. They will hail every possible or apparent gain, if they have the opportunity, as evidence that the people are dissatisfied and that the trend of popular thought is towards repudiation of the President.

"They make no pretense that they have any chance to win either branch of congress; their hope is only that they may increase their membership among the representatives to a number that will give them one-third—or rather one over that number—in order that they may be able to hold up the majority policies and so delay, hamper and obstruct the legislation requisite to rounding out the administration plan to complete the work of reconstruction; to put the period of doles and direct relief behind us and in orderly fashion to get us back to the normal processes of our economic life."

Police Seize 3 Robbers After They Hold Up Hotel

A few minutes after they had robbed L. A. Ryan, manager of the Baltimore hotel, 503 South Wells street, and a guest of $13 in the lobby, three holdup men were arrested by police at Dearborn and Van Buren streets. The men are Patsy Falbo, 18, 1238 South Spaulding avenue; Leonard Lanute, 18, 1834 Selden street, and James Walker, 36, 811 South State street. The police squad making the arrest had heard their descriptions broadcast over the police radio.

STORE ROBBER CAPTURED.

Charles McArthur, 18 years old, 1001 North LaSalle street, was arrested by police yesterday, fleeing from a Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 215 Root street which he and a companion had robbed. The companion escaped.

Result Affects Future of New Deal.

their professions of admiration for the President. In Michigan Senator Arthur R. Vandenberg [Rep.] is giving an exhibition of Roman riding—one foot on the New Deal, the other on the anti-New Deal horse. In Massachusetts and numerous other states Republican candidates are finding much to commend in the New Deal, while Vic Donahey, Democratic candidate for senator in Ohio, and some Democratic nominees elsewhere have made themselves conspicuous for refusing a blanket indorsement of Roosevelt policies.

In Minnesota Senator Henrik Shipstead [Farm.-Lab.] was the recipient of such marked favor from the President that the Democrats were compelled to raise heaven and earth to get an indorsement of Einar Hoidale, the Democratic candidate, from Postmaster General and National Chairman Farley. The President had also smiled on Gov. Floyd Olson, running for reëlection on a Farmer-Labor platform declaring the capitalist system a failure.

Debate New Deal.

The New Deal is a clear cut issue in Nebraska, where Edward R. Burke [Dem.] and Robert G. Simmons [Rep.], candidates for senator, have engaged in a series of joint debates on the Roosevelt program. It is evident that there will be much crossing of party lines, with the result depending largely on the vote in Omaha, where Burke and his sponsor, Boss Arthur Mullen, are strongest.

In Pennsylvania thousands of conservative Democrats are supporting Senator David A. Reed, outstanding Republican opponent of the New Deal, for reëlection, while the Roosevelt policies have won the favor of thousands of workingmen who once voted the Republican ticket.

Conservative Democrats in West Virginia have been alienated by the radicalism of the Democratic candidate for senator, Rush D. Holt, who, however, has gained the support of many Republicans who are radically minded. Much the same situation exists in Washington where a young radical, Lewis Schwellenbach, is the Democratic candidate for senator against a conservative banker, Reno Odlin.

It is already apparent that there will be more radicals in the Seventy-fourth congress than in its predecessor. As a result more pressure for inflation of the currency, for the immediate payment of the soldier bonus and for numerous socialistic schemes is looked for. The radicals may be able to muster a majority of congress but hardly two-thirds of either house, as a result of which situation the President will be in a position to check radical moves with vetoes.

To what extent the President may be relied upon to do so is a matter of interested speculation. Some think that he already gives evidence of veering to the right. Others suspect that is only "window dressing" for election purposes, holding that a Democratic victory today will persuade him he would have the country behind him in pushing his program even farther to the left.

The religious issue has appeared in some regions. Many believe that the sudden tailspin of the EPIC movement in California was due to the resentment stirred among those who take their religion seriously by the published quotations from Sinclair's writings denouncing almost every religion and sect. Farley's letter urging the election of Sinclair, though later repudiated, embarrassed the Democrats in numerous constituencies, particularly New York, where both the Republican and Democratic candidates for governor are Jews and where the Republicans sought to use the letter to stir religious resentment against the Democratic organization.

Seen as Political Augury.

Because the midterm election of members of the house throughout the country is an accepted barometer of popular judgment of the party in power the results will be closely scanned by the political forecasters looking for signs of political events in 1936. A severe reverse for the party in power usually spells its defeat two years later.

This time it is a foregone conclusion that the Democrats will carry the house as well as gaining members in the senate. It is also certain, however, that there will be a loss of Democratic seats in the house. This, however, the dominant party expects in midterm elections. The actual loss, averaging 49 in the last 60 years, has varied widely. In 1894 the Democrats, who were in power, lost 116 seats; in 1874 the Republicans, being in power, lost 96. Those were years of financial panic and depression. In good times the story has been different, a Democratic loss of 12 seats in 1886, a Republican loss of only 9 in 1926. But invariably there has been a loss except in 1902, when by reapportionment the total membership of the house had been increased.

Disapproval of party policies accounted for a Republican loss of 85 seats in 1890, 75 in 1922, and 103 in 1882.

Certain tendencies now manifesting themselves cause many observers to believe that the life of the next congress will witness the development of the bloc system of government along lines made familiar by European countries. A labor bloc, for example, is possibly in the making.

All indications are that in the new congress labor will be even more influential than in the Seventy-third congress. For months there has been much evidence that labor wields a potent influence over the administration and signs are not wanting of the extension of its grip to the legislative branch. The labor bloc will seek the retention of 7a, the collective bargaining section in the NRA, when the question of extending the life of that statute comes up in the next session. It also will bring formidable support to the 30 hour week movement despite administration opposition.

A farm bloc also is in prospect. Although the farmers seem to be far from united on the AAA program, the President holds now, as in 1932, that agriculture should be allowed to write its own ticket. Consequently it is expected that the farm bloc will dictate any revision of the AAA and will influence the disposition of other legislation affecting agriculture, some of which is no less radical than the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act.

Then there are the inflation bloc and the veterans' bloc which will be pushing their respective programs in the next congress.

GIVEN 11 YEARS FOR KILLING MAN 28 YEARS AGO

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A jury tonight convicted 70 year old Gilbert Hall of a killing 28 years ago, and sentenced him to 11 years imprisonment. The jury deliberated only 45 minutes after receiving the case.

Hall was convicted of manslaughter for the shooting of Long Jim Swiney in June, 1906. Taking the stand in his own defense tonight, Hall swore he never had known Swiney, and never had had improper relations with Mary Hall, his first cousin and the woman over whom the two allegedly quarreled before the shooting.

At the time of the shooting, Hall testified, he was at Elkhorn running a whisky store.

The Commonwealth's evidence against Hall was circumstantial. The defendant's cousin, John Hall, testified that Gilbert had taken a gun and had followed Swiney around a hill shortly before the shooting.

QUINTS DEVELOP NEW SIMILARITY: 5 DOUBLE CHINS

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, 23 weeks old today, look so much alike "you have to look sideways now," Dr. A. R. Dafoe said today.

"And even then," he added, "you're often wrong."

Marie, since she is the smallest, is most easily recognized, but even for those in daily contact with the babies it is difficult at times to distinguish her from the others. Each of the infants has a double chin.

The physician said today he was anxious to get necklaces for his little charges and that the names could be placed on the necklaces to make identification certain. The infants' brains are normally active, he said, and all five youngsters are bright and cheerful.

WITNESS IN T-N-T TRIAL TELLS OF GANG DOMINANCE

Testimony Links Barker and White to Case.

The prosecution yesterday presented evidence in the T. N. T. racketeering conspiracy trial before a jury in Judge William V. Brothers' Crimial court to show that George [Red] Barker and William J. [Three-Fingered Jack] White, slain gang leaders, dominated the excavating and kindred trades. Fifteen labor leaders and business men, allegedly associated in the Transportation and Trucking exchange [T. N. T.], are on trial.

Harry H. Gray, 6916 South Wabash avenue, a hoisting engineer, who took the witness stand just before adjournment of court for the day, told how he was asked for 50 per cent of the proceeds of a job by Marcus Looney, one of the defendants, and was later taken over to a La Salle street office. Here he was introduced to Barker, who, he said, sat in a private room.

Gray Goes to See Looney.

Gray told the jury that he had a refuse dump job at 125th street and Kedzie avenue. He went to see Looney, business agent of the excavating teamsters' union, he said.

"Looney said he wanted 50 per cent of the job," testified Gray. "I told him I could not give him that because I had two partners and only had 25 per cent myself."

The witness said he later went back to see Looney and was introduced to Thomas C. Sullivan, another defendant and a union official. Sullivan, he said, took him to see Barker and said to Barker during the introduction: "This is the guy who wants to open that refuse job."

Gray will continue his testimony this morning.

White Is Put in Picture.

Earlier yesterday the prosecution established through a reluctant witness that White also occupied the La Salle street office and dished out jobs to contractors as he saw fit. This testimony came out during cross-examination by the defense of O. W. Schulz, 1639 Belmont avenue, a bookkeeper for the Associated Contractors and Engineering Service corporation.

Schulz, questioned by Defense Attorney Benedict J. Short, testified that John M. Bransfield, a contractor considered the main defendant in the case, told him that White had run him [Bransfield] off a job on 111th street and had given it to a rival contractor. The defense contends that the defendants, instead of working with the gangsters, were under gang domination through threats.

Bransfield at Barker Funeral.

Schulz on direct examination had testified that Bransfield and several other defendants went to Barker's funeral. He also said that the organizations for which he worked and which, the state contends, were affiliates of the T-N-T, sent a floral piece to Barker's funeral. On cross-examination, however, the witness admitted that Bransfield and the others went to the funeral only as curiosity seekers.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald Thompson said Schulz was not a willing state witness.

During Schulz' long stay on the witness stand the defense also brought into the evidence for the first time the name of John P. Moriarity, cousin of State's Attorney Courtney. Moriarity, according to Schulz' testimony, owed the Engineering Service corporation $29,000 for services. Schulz said he talked of suing Moriarity on the notes Moriarity had given so he could collect some back salary. Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber, he said, told him not to sue Moriarity.

The defense in its outline of testimony told the jury it would prove that Bransfield and his associates were indicted because they refused to return Moriarity's notes to him.

BLAZE ROUTS 10 FROM FLATS.

Ten members of two families were routed from their apartments above a tavern at 4243 Madison street, owned by Thomas Barnacle, by a fire of undetermined origin yesterday which caused damage estimated at $4,000.

Automobiles stolen, 42; recovered, 31; stripped, 1 [from police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Sunday].

A ring of automobile thieves was believed to have been broken up by Racine avenue police yesterday with the arrest of nine youths on information from Clarence Baxton, 3245 Cortez street, colored attendant of a garage at 3229 West Grand avenue.

Baxton recognized one of the gang who stole an automobile from the garage early yesterday as Michael Forys, 23 years old, 2655 Thomas street, who Baxton said once had been an employé in the garage.

Others of the gang under arrest were Walter Busa, 23 years old, 1056 North Rockwell street; Felix Kucharzyk, 19 years old, 1728 Lull place; Victor Wnukowski, 19 years old, 2342 Upton street; William Rytell, 19 years old, 958 North Damen avenue; Joseph Czarny, 17 years old, 1931 Evergreen avenue; Henry Bilski, 17 years old, 1620 West Division street; Walter Anusiewicz, 16 years old, 2153 West Division street; and Edward Bolisega, 15 years old, 2322 West Walton street.

PROFESSOR FALLS TO DEATH UNDER ELEVATED TRAIN

An inquest will be held this morning into the death on Sunday of Harmon Phillips Hayes, 30 years old, a professor of sociology, who leaped or fell to his death under an elevated train at 55th street. His body was identified yesterday at the county morgue by a brother, Attorney Edward Bean Hayes, 5555 Kimbark avenue. The dead man was a son of the late Prof. Edward Cary Hayes, former head of the University of Illinois sociology department.

According to Miss Elsie McFadden, spokesman for the family, Harmon Hayes returned to Chicago two weeks ago after suffering a nervous breakdown while teaching at Westminster college, Fulton, Mo. He took the teaching job there when it was offered to him after he had registered at the University of Chicago this fall to study for the degree of doctor of philosophy. He was a graduate of the University of Illinois and had attended Harvard university. Since his return from Fulton he had been living at the International house on the Midway.

Sergt. Emil Breitznan of the Hyde Park police said Hayes was reported missing yesterday morning by a member of the family. Although Fred Clutas, 1356 West 64th street, motorman of the elevated train, said Hayes jumped in front of the train, his brother declared there was no motive for suicide.

HUEY ORDERED TO FACE COURT ON LIBEL CHARGE

Supreme Bench Rules on Ansell Suit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The Supreme court today put an end to the famous "Crawfishing Kingfish" act. The court told Senator Huey P. (Kingfish) Long that he must stand trial in the $500,000 libel suit which he has been seeking to dodge for the last year. The court commanded him to face the charges brought by Samuel T. Ansell, counsel for the senate committee which investigated Long's political machinery in Louisiana.

Agrees to Waive Immunity.

Long, when he made his attack on Ansell on the floor of the senate last February, boasted loudly he would waive any immunity. When Ansell brought his suit last March, however, the Kingfish "crawfished" on his boast. Long at that time pleaded that he was immune because the summons in the libel suit was served on him while he was attending congress.

Senator Long pointed out that article I., section 6 of the United States constitution provides that senators and congressmen "shall in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses and in going to and returning from the same."

The Supreme court today in a unanimous decision written by Associate Justice Louis Brandeis swept aside Senator Long's defense as one long ago disposed of in a series of court decisions.

"Senator Long contends," the high tribunal ruled, "that article I., section 6, clause 1, of the constitution confers upon every member of congress, while in attendance within the district, immunity in civil cases not only from arrest, but also from service process.

Denies Validity of Claim.

"Neither the senate nor the house of representatives has ever asserted such a claim in behalf of its members. Clause 1 defines the extent of the immunity. Its language is exact and leaves no room for a construction which would extend the privilege beyond the terms of the grant.

"History confirms the conclusion that the immunity is limited to arrest. . . . When the constitution was adopted, arrests in civil suits in America were still common. It is only to such arrests that the provision applies."

In his attack on Ansell, who is former judge advocate general of the army, Long is quoted as saying in the senate that Ansell had "practically forged his own appointment as judge advocate general." Long also said Ansell had been "condemned by the government as a thief, and a scoundrel, and a crook," and that he "had practically been run out of the army for fraud."

Ansell is asking for $250,000 in compensatory damages and $250,000 in punitive damages, charging that Long's utterances and his distribution of them through the mails was libelous, defamatory, scandalous and malicious.

Demands Public Inquiry.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, strong opponent of Senator Long and head of the Women's Committee of Louisiana, tonight asked for a public hearing of charges of vote fraud by Senator Long's machine in Louisiana.

She issued the following statement:

"Mr. Long has attempted to escape trial in the District of Columbia. It has been decided that Mr. Long cannot do so. Mr. Long also has vigorously attempted to avoid trial on the charges filed by the Women's Committee of Louisiana against him in the senate.

"We stand ready with our counsel, Gen. Ansell, to unfold to the public the whole hideous situation in Louisiana and to prove our charges that Mr. Overton was fraudulently elected to the United States senate and that Mr. Long's machine manipulated that fraud.

"All that we ask is a just hearing. We believe that Americans will demand of the 74th congress that the Women's Committee of Louisiana have a fair opportunity to be heard and we believe that Mr. Long again will be unsuccessful in his cowardly attempts to avoid trial."

U. OF C. SCHOLAR CASH AWARDS TO BE GIVEN NEEDY

University of Chicago scholarship winners who are not in financial need henceforth will not receive the money award connected with the honors, according to a change of policy announced yesterday.

Instead, the funds will go to the needy students who are next highest on the examination lists for the scholarship, it was said by Dean Aaron J. Brumbaugh, head of the school's scholarship committee. The policy change will not detract from the winner's honor standing, but is intended merely to let the financial aid fall where it is actually needed, Dean Brumbaugh pointed out.

The new policy affects 30 scholarships based on the first year's school work, and ten based on the first two years.

COLONEL HICKAM, AIR CORPS, DIES IN PLANE CRASH

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Lieut. Col. Horace M. Hickam, commander of the third attack group of the army air corps at Fort Crockett, was killed this evening when his pursuit plane crashed while landing at the army airdrome.

He had been in command of Fort Crockett since his return from Chicago last spring, where he had been in charge of the central zone while the army was flying the air mail.

Witnesses said that Lieut. Col. Hickam's plane, a speedy A.12 attack plane, had nosed over as he was making a landing in the dark. He was rushed to the United States Marine hospital, but he was pronounced dead upon his arrival.

The colonel, making a local flight, was alone at the time of the accident. It was announced that a board of inquiry would attempt to determine the reason for the mishap.

A native of Spencer, Ind., Lieut. Col. Hickam was a graduate of virtually all official military institutions, including the war college. He was born in 1885 and accepted a commission of second lieutenant of cavalry upon his graduation from West Point in 1908.

In 1916 he served with distinction in engagements with Villa's raiders on the Mexican border, for which he was later awarded the silver star. During the world war he was assigned to the aviation section of the signal corps.

He commanded the air service pursuit school at Carlstrom, Fla., at Dorr field, Florida, and the aerial gunnery school during the war. He also saw duty as chief of the information division, office of the chief of army corps at Washington, D. C.; as assistant commandant of the advanced flying school, and while he was on the war department's general staf, he was chief of the air section of the war plane division.

Last February he went from Fort Crockett to Chicago, where he took charge of the central zone of the army's brief attempt to operate the mails. He is survived by his widow, a son, John, student at Harvard university, and a daughter, Martha, of Smith college.

HUSBAND TELLS HIS STORY OF SLAYING POET

Attempt to Read Letters to Jury Foiled.

Woodland, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Judson C. Doke, white-faced and tense, told on the witness stand today his story of the killing of Lamar Hollingshead, lover of pretty Mrs. Helen Louise Doke.

In a surprise move, the defense rested its case with completion of the defendant's testimony. The state previously had rested.

"Something came over me," Doke testified, as he told of the fatal meeting with the young student poet and the latter's alleged refusal to write a letter telling Mrs. Doke his only interest in her had been physical.

Runs Outside for Help.

"The next thing I remember," Doke went on, testifying in his own defense on murder charges, "I saw Lamar lying on the floor. I rushed outside and asked for some help."

Doke told of summoning a doctor and paying him for treating young Hollingshead. Afterward the accused man said he went to the hospital, where the poet was dying.

The accused milk inspector's testimony climaxed a sensational day during which the defense was rebuffed in an attempt to spread the love letters of Hollingshead and Mrs. Doke before the jurors.

Parts of Her Letters.

The following are excerpts from the letters Mrs. Doke wrote to Hollingshead:

"I have shared it all with you—all the day that I have come—knowing those things you would love most, because I have loved them. Yet it is so long since I left you on a windy hillside.

"I know that your thoughts are with me—and have been ever since I left you—and there is much that I would say. And because this is my first letter to you there is so much that must remain unwritten."

"My dearest: We are unexpectedly leaving this afternoon and will be in the country tonight—and the same stars will be above us—and the same sweet darkness about us—although we will be apart—but not in spirit. Will probably be back Sunday night, and if possible I will call you.

"I know how great your disappointment will be—mine already is upon me. It may be that the gods will be more kind next week-end. We will wait and see. At half past eight tonight I will wait by my tall dark hedge for your thoughts to reach me. We will be en rapport."

Hollingshead's Poetry.

Two verses the slain poet wrote Mrs. Doke:

TO HELEN.

Move closer against my heart, Helen;
Love is spun like a web over us;
See the moon, white and cold,
Is mirrored in every dew drop
That is held in the yellow petals
Of these flowers.

ILLUSION.

Last night the moon came low
Over the hills
Pouring silvery wine in the pools;
The stars, silvery dust in her hair,
I placed wild roses at her feet
And kissed the red stain of wild plums
Upon her lips.

More excerpts from Mrs. Doke's letters:

"My beloved: Last night I sat alone and read a book. I thought of you sitting with me in the lamplight reading them aloud together. When you come back, dearest, we will have our little place in Berkeley that will be ours only, where we can live and love and dream away the hours.

"I will go searching for one before the days are many, and if I find one that might do, we shall consider it together when you come. May it be a happy summer for you, dearest—and the work not too hard—and the days not too hot and long. I will come and see you soon and you must tell me exactly how to find you, darling, just in case I come suddenly and unexpectedly. But I will let you know, dear.

Will Write Every Day.

"There is a storm coming, and the sky has darkened. Before the rain comes I must get to a post box. I want this to reach you as soon as possible.

"I will write every day, my dearest—and don't be lonely—don't let the world touch you. You and I are the world. I will be with you soon—soon—and by the first of next week my plans will be made definitly for my coming.

"I will love to come to you—finding you coming from the fields at dark."

Thought Affair Was Dead.

Doke told of his discovery of a new chapter in the illicit romance after he thought the affair had died the death of a fleeting infatuation.

"I drove to the camp where Hollingshead was working and got out of the car near the bunkhouse," Doke said.

"I told him he could not carry on that way and that things could not continue as they were going. I told him I wanted all the letters that Helen had written and that I would return all of his letters.

"We were in the bunkhouse by that time. At first he refused to give me the letters and then I insisted again. He turned around suddenly towards his suitcase. He had his packet of letters in hand.

"He said: 'Do you want Helen's too? I said yes.'

"I asked Lamar how long it was since he had talked to Mrs Doke and he said about three weeks. I said it wasn't true because he had talked to her the day before on the telephone.

"I then said, 'You ought to be ashamed of yourself to go back to the university this fall after what you've done.' I said 'If you ever came back to San Leandro you might get tarred and feathered.'

"I told him: 'You are no better than an adulterer.'

"I asked him to write a letter saying that he did not want to see Helen any more and that all he ever wanted of her was her physical body. He sat down and asked me the date. Then he stopped. All of a sudden he jumped to his feet and leaped forward.

"He said: 'I will not write; you can shoot me first.'

"Something then came over me. The next I remember I saw Lamar lying on the floor. I rushed outside and asked for some help.

"I was surprised at the lack of sympathy and interest. I went back in and asked Lamar where his bunk was. He said in the corner. I put a pillow under his head and a towel on his stomach. [The poet had been shot in the abdomen].

"I then got some water and took it back. I bathed his head and gave him a drink and then I told him I was going for a doctor."

FIRE INTO POLITICAL PARADE

persons within his home had returned the fire.

Democrats Lose on Recount.

The political factions of the little Klein township town, with a population of 600, largely of foreign extraction, have been at war, under cover and openly, for a year.

The trouble began with last November's election, when the Democrats made their first serious bid for township control, heretofore in the hands of Bruno and his Republican followers.

The Democrats won on the official count by 100 votes, but a court recount reversed the figures and gave the election to the Republicans.

The fight was carried into the public schools as the fall term opened this year. Each faction had its own set of teachers and each was determined to put those teachers in the classrooms.

Battle for School Control.

Street battles took place for control of the school building. Bricks were thrown, eyes were blackened, and hair was pulled. Parents, teachers, and children played an equal share in the strife.

State police were called in to force peace, but by that time the building was partly wrecked and school opening was delayed.

Chairman Lawrence in his Pittsburgh comment on the shootings called upon Attorney General Cummings for federal protection "to safeguard both votes and voters" tomorrow.

William A. Schnader, attorney general of Pennsylvania and Republican candidate for governor, said in his capacity as the former he promised a full inquiry.

U. S. Sends Investigators.

Ralph Bashore, Democratic chairman of Schuylkill county, sent a request to Federal District Attorney McAvoy at Philadelphia that Attorney General Cummings send federal investigators to Kelayres. Bashore said he later received word that two were on their way from Washington.

Witnesses of the shooting said several automobiles pulled away from the curb in front of the Bruno home during the confusion that followed the shooting. In these, police said, machine guns may have been carried away.

LIQUOR DEALER'S FAMILY ROBBED OF $8,000 GEMS

Jewelry valued at more than $8,000 was obtained by two bandits last night when they held up members of the family of Jacob Abelson, liquor merchant, in front of the home of his son Eli at 5480 Cornell avenue.

Abelson, with another son, Lester, 5454 South Shore drive, and Lester's wife was about to let Mrs. Eli Abelson out of his automobile when the two men jumped on the running board with drawn revolvers.

Mrs. Eli Abelson was forced to surrender a diamond ring valued at $6,000 and the holdup men took a ring valued at $1,200 and a necklace worth a similar amount from Mrs. Lester Abelson. In addition they took $78 from Jacob Abelson and some minor valuables from the party.

PREDICT SIZABLE CUT IN CITY TAX RATES FOR 1933

The recent tax levy abatements will reduce 1933 tax rates in Chicago by as much as $1.24, according to figures made public yesterday by the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency.

The revised estimate of the 1933 rates as computed by the federation will average from $6.49 to $5.53 for the city townships as compared with the 1932 rates which averaged from $7.73 to $6.74. The tax rates are computed for each $100 of assessed valuation of real estate and personal property.

Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the federation, pointed out that officials of the major taxing bodies should be commended for their action in eliminating approximately 31 million dollars in doubtful tax levies from their 1933 budgets. The largest slice in the reductions was made by the city which trimmed off $18,857,265.

The work of computing the 1933 tax rates is now in progress in the county clerk's office. J. C. Butler, chief rate clerk, said yesterday that the first of the rates would be announced within two weeks. Under the law, the 1933 tax bills must be in the hands of taxpayers at least 30 days before the penalty date, which is set for Jan. 1, 1935.

Boy May Lose Leg from Blister from Free Shoes

Herbert Pitcher Jr., 7 years old, 11138 Stephenson avenue, was taken to the county hospital last night in a serious condition from an infection on his heel caused by a shoe.

The boy's father, now on the relief rolls, obtained the shoes Nov. 1 from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Shortly afterward the boy complained of a blister. The infection spread so rapidly that last night it had reached his knee. Physicians said they may be obliged to amputate the leg.

Socony-Vacuum Announces

REVOLUTIONARY DISCOVERY IN OIL REFINING!

...that will save Millions of Dollars for Motorists this Winter

How Socony-Vacuum Clearosol Process purges Oil of Impurities...New Mobiloil Arctic Makes Winter Starting Much Easier ...Lasts Much Longer...Cuts Repair Bills

The Plain Facts speak for themselves. Socony-Vacuum Engineers say, "This is unquestionably the Finest Winter Oil in the World."

HERE'S NEWS that would be big news at any time. Now—with Winter just around the corner—it is an announcement that is too important for any car owner to miss.

This week, Mobiloil dealers are selling a new kind of Mobiloil Arctic.

It's new because it's made by an entirely different process. New because it has definite advantages you can experience—advantages which can save millions for car owners this Winter.

This new Mobiloil Arctic, by actual test, makes cold weather starting much easier.

It lasts as much as 25% longer—and the harder the service the better it compares in performance.

It contains no gum or sludge—which are the causes of stuck rings and gummed valves.

It flows quickly on cold mornings—you have instant protection for your engine. And it holds its body under extreme ranges of heat—staying on the job no matter how hot your engine gets.

These are not mere theories—they are proven facts, taken from actual performance records both in the laboratory and on the road.

The reason for them lies in a new approach to oil refining. In the past, refiners tried to remove dirt and impurities with acid baths and filters.

GOOD MOTOR OIL must be made—it is not found. Socony-Vacuum engineers worked for months to find this better way to make motor oil. You get the benefit in lower oil bills, easier starting, lower car upkeep.

A NEW IDEA—washing oil to get it clean and pure. Big tanks like these contain materials that remove natural impurities which are found in all crude oil—even the very best. The oil that results is practically 100% pure.

Socony-Vacuum has found a way to wash away these useless, non-lubricating elements. Our new method actually dissolves these natural impurities, much as soapy water dissolves dirt.

You may be wondering about cost. Such an oil is naturally worth more. But we haven't increased the price per quart by a single cent. Without spending an extra penny, you can insure quicker, easier starts this Winter—up to 25% better oil mileage—a cleaner, smoother, better-running engine.

Now is the time to prepare your car for Winter. Go to the nearest dealer who displays the Mobiloil sign, or the sign with the Flying Red Horse.

SOCONY-VACUUM OIL COMPANY, INC.

WHAT MOBILOIL ARCTIC DOES FOR YOU

1 STARTS MUCH EASIER...which means faster starting as well as less engine drag, less strain on your battery.

2 LASTS LONGER...by actual test gives as much as 25% greater mileage. You save up to 25% on oil bills.

3 MUCH CLEANER...you'll find no gum, no sludge, have no stuck rings or gummed valves from this oil.

4 FLOWS QUICKLY at low temperature—protecting your car against the danger of damaging "dry" starts.

5 RESISTS HEAT...holds its body at high engine temperatures, giving full protection at all times.

ON SNOWY DAYS LIKE THIS your car needs the extra protection of Mobiloil Arctic. Summer oil can't lubricate it properly. Give your car the benefit of the latest discoveries of science by using Mobiloil Arctic.

Man and Woman Face High Treason Charge.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Upon instructions from the state department at Washington, D. C., American authorities tonight brought strong pressure to bear against Adolf Hitler's government for definite action in the arrests of two naturalized Americans. They have been held in prison for three months or longer.

Those held are Miss Isabelle Lillian Steele. 25 years old, of Hollywood and Los Angeles, Cal., and Richard Roiderer, 40 years old, who is now described as a Chicagoan.

[Roiderer, who was called a resident of Cleveland, O., in a dispatch to The Tribune on Oct 26, could not be identified by the German consulate or other sources as a Chicagoan last night.]

Faces Trial for Her Life.

Miss Steele, a native of Canada, faces trial for her life before the secret People's court, which was created to try persons charged with high treason. She has been confined in the Alt-Moabit prison in Berlin since her arrest Aug. 10.

Roiderer, who was born in Germany, was arrested on June 22, while trying to cross the border from Landau to Switzerland. He, too, is believed to be facing a charge of serious nature—either espionage or high treason.

In the case of Miss Steele, American authorities protested to the German foreign office. They declared the police did not possess sufficient evidence of illegal activities, and demanded her release or an immediate trial in an ordinary court, not in the Peoples' court.

German acquaintances claim Miss Steele is linked with the biggest espionage case in Germany. It centers around the Polish army officer, Count Yurek [George] von Sosnowski.

Become Enthusiastic Nazis.

Miss Steele and a 16 year old sister came to Germany about two years ago. They were accompanied by their mother. The daughters became enthusiastic Nazis. Isabelle Steele acted as guide for American club women in Berlin and attempted to describe to them the greatness of the Hitlerite movement.

She also whispered that she held a semi-official post in the Nazi ranks. The young woman solicited advertisements for Germany and You, a Nazi magazine. She also dabbled at writing short stories. She frequently was seen in the company of uniformed Nazis and the gayer youth of the capital.

Miss Steele's younger sister fell in love with a Nazi youth and wanted to marry him. To prevent the wedding the mother sailed for the United States with the daughter. Isabelle was left to shift for herself.

Becomes Baron's Friend.

With Baron Werner von Biel she attempted to organize a trip around the world, with Asia Minor as the first stop.

Through Baron von Biel Miss Steele met several movie actresses, including Vera Lissen, a friend of Baron von Sosnowski. Von Sosnowski recently was arrested on a charge of being the leader of a spy ring. Police raided a dinner party given by the baron and took into custody the host and all the guests.

Miss Steele later told friends she was prevented from attending the party by mere chance.

The prisoner has an aunt and a cousin living in Berlin, but they claim to know nothing about the case. She frequently asserted that her brother was an American newspaper correspondent in China.

(According to dispatches from Washington, the state department was informed of Miss Steele's arrest in a telegram Oct. 10 from Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, who acted on behalf of her brother, Arthur Steele of Nampa, Idaho. The dispatches said Miss Steele had written her brother and other relatives but otherwise had sought no intervention from her government.)

In the case of Roiderer, repeated efforts of the state department to obtain his release or trial have met with the same reply by the German authorities:

"We are still collecting evidence for his eventual trial."

Roiderer was arrested on the Swiss-German border by customs officials. A permit to take $180 in gold out of Germany, which he had obtained the day before, was declared to be false. He was stripped and searched.

Find Penciled Document.

A document containing penciled notations declaring Storm Troopers drilled with rifles and were trained by army officers was found. Questioned, Roiderer replied he was a pacifist and that the notes were the basis of an article on pacifism for publication in United States and Great Britain. He said he sought to prevent a war with Germany and other European countries.

Roiderer was taken to the Munich prison. He came to Germany two years ago.

[Associated Press Photo.]

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Mary Nolan, former Follies chorus girl, for whom the police of five states had been searching after her disappearance from a gay party at which a booking agent had $2,000 taken from him, was located here last night.

Louis Keefman of Newark, the booking agent, complained of his loss to police yesterday at Hazleton, Pa., where he had entertained Miss Nolan at a night club in which she was working.

"Everything has been straightened out," Miss Nolan told detectives who found her at the apartment of her divorced husband.

Despite the assurance of the Ziegfeld beauty and her attorney, Henry Zeltner, that the police alarm was canceled, she was booked as a fugitive from Hazleton.

FRANCE CONVICTS TWO AS SPIES IN HIRE OF GERMANY

Officer and Betrayer Are Sent to Prison.

BELFORT, France, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The French army officer, Quartermaster Georges Froge, and his betrayer, Stanislas Krauss, confessed German spy, were found guilty of espionage for Germany today.

Both were sentenced to five years in prison, both were fined and Froge was stripped of civic rights for ten years.

Troops and gendarmes guarded the court to prevent demonstrations by Froge's family's vigorous defense and their charges the officer was framed by a French counter-espionage squad.

Brother Whipped Officer.

Froge's brother, Maj. Jean Froge, publicly horsewhipped a fellow officer last May for testifying against the quartermaster. Another brother, Maj. Christian Froge, carried the case to the public by hiring a hall and addressing a tumultuous meeting.

Krauss is a former Polish army officer and a fugitive from his native land. The men were charged with having worked together to smuggle French military secrets across the Rhine, especially plans for the wartime defense of Belfort, important frontier city where Froge was stationed.

Krauss, caught in a police trap in Paris, confessed and implicated Froge. Krauss told authorities he had paid Froge 105,000 francs [about $6,300] for documents since the pair first met in a café near the French war school.

Want Ads Are Clews.

Want ads in Paris newspapers were seen by the secret police. Advertisments had offered loans to functionaries and officers. A French officer who innocently answered one of the ads learned that a mysterious person was more than willing to exchange money for "documents concerning the national defense."

The officer met the stranger in Paris, the money for the trip being sent to him in a pseudo-love letter signed "Germaine." The officer handed over some documents and received a roll of bank notes in return. The stranger was Krauss. He told police he had embezzled $4,000 while an officer at the Warsaw war school. He said he was seized by German police and threatened to be returned to Poland unless he became a spy.

$75,000 Verdict Against World's Fair Is Reversed

Holding negligence had not been proved, the Appellate court yesterday reversed and remanded the $75,000 damage suit of Allan Nelson Linn against A Century of Progress. Linn, a Northwestern university student, lost an eye in the accidental discharge of a tear gas bomb he was inspecting while working on the future World's Fair grounds in June, 1932, eleven months before the 1933 Fair opened. He was awarded the $75,000 verdict in the Superior court.

GERMANY URGED TO READ BOOKS PENNED BY NAZIS

Support Our Authors, Goebbels' Plea.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, who 18 months ago sanctionel burning some of the world's classic literature because it offended Nazi sensibilities, today asked Germany to support authors whom national socialism approves.

nI an address at the Sports Palast, high spot of Germany's "national book week," which started yesterday, the propaganda chief was cheered just as loudly as on May 10, 1933, when he told hundreds of youths who piled 20,000 volumes on a bonfire:

"As you had a right to destroy books you have a duty to support the government. . . . The fire signals to the entire world that a new spirit has arisen."

Appeal for Support.

In his appeal for support for the book week, Goebbels, grown milder in his views but still a master of emotional appeal, said:

"National socialism has always considered it a special task to make the cultural gifts of the nation a real possession of the people. As a people we have become poor in material things, but we are rich in inexhaustible treasures of the German mind. Let us make this wealth our own. Hold fast to the German book?"

Lesser Nazis dutifully echoed his words: That "Germans must be proud of their writers"; that "a book is a good companion in need"; that "the German book and the German educator belong together."

Much has happened in German literary and cultural circles since the Nazis set out to regiment writers, playwrights, musicians, theatrical workers, journalists and the like along with laborers, politicians, and soldiers.

Dried Up by Censorship.

There are no Heinrich Manns, Emil Ludwigs, Enrich Remarques, Theodor Wolffs, or Goerg Bernhards adding to Germany's literature today. Future Goethes and Schillers have been hampered by Nazi censorship, control, anti-Semitism, and Nazi tastes.

Nazis choose the "six best books of the month"—without exception biographies of Nazis, eulogies of Nazis, or histories of Nazis—and thus almost by decree determine what their followers can read.

Germany's Jewish writers have gone. The comparatively few books on non-Nazi themes have enjoyed small sales. Berlin's many book stores seem empty of customers. Attendance at libraries has dropped. Histories are being rewritten in accordance with the Nazi view of history.

NAZIS FIGHT PASTORS IN HANOVER; PEACE DEAL IS DROPPED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Confessional pastors, who are fighting for the freedom of the Protestant church, and Nazi German Christians came to blows at Hanover today. As a result negotiations for reconciliation of these groups were dropped.

Confessional synod dignitaries attempted to resume their offices on the strength of a church truce ordered by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler last week. The German Christians attacked the pastors, who retreated.

The council of the Brethren of the Confessional Synod today selected Superintendent Breit of Bavaria as the man they want Hitler to appoint as a successor to Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller.

Meanwhile Mueller summoned the bishops he has appointed to a conference. He requested Bishop Theophil Wurm of Wuerttemberg and Bishop Hans Meisser of Bavaria, both of whom were ousted and then reinstated, to remain in Berlin to meet his appointees. They refused.

Mrs. Mary Mueller, 54 years old, 1538 Cornell street, who is seeking a divorce from her 90 year old husband, Egbert Dircks Mueller, 2031 Crystal street, a retired contractor, was denied temporary alimony by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday. Mueller, who appeared in court without counsel, testified he is penniless and on relief. In her suit Mrs. Mueller charges him with cruelty.

BRITAIN TO KEEP TROOPS OUT OF SAAR TERRITORY

Simon Bares Peace Vows of France, Germany.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 5.—No British troops will intervene in the Saar plebiscite, and no French troops will intervene unless they are asked for by the Saar authorities. This assurance, given by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, to the house of commons today, marks the defeat of the French plan to involve Great Britain in an intervention which might lead to a new war with Germany.

Simon said that as long ago as 1926 the Saar governing commission was informed by the council of the league of nations that it is to consider itself entitled to troops from outside territory in the vicinity of the frontiers in case of disorder which its own forces could not handle.

This precludes any question of British troops being used and of French troops unless they are asked for by Saar authorities.

Storm Troops Checked.

Sir John also revealed that the German ambassador, Dr. Leopold von Hoesch, called on him this morning and assured him that Germany had no intention of starting a putsch and confirmed the order by which Nazi Storm Troopers are forbidden to wear a uniform within twenty-five miles of the frontier.

The French ambassador, Charles Corbin, also assured him that French arrangements are purely precautionary, and that in the circumstances every prospect is that the plebiscite will be carried through in an orderly manner.

Earlier Simon denied reports that Britain and Japan were planning to resurrect their former treaty of alliance. A questioner asked if any official steps were being taken to revive the treaty in some similar form. Sir John replied with a flat "No, sir."

Police Drive Off Reds.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A noisy crowd of communists, armed with steel rods, tried to break up a meeting of the German front Friday night at Landsweiler, near Neunkirchen, but were driven off by police, it was learned today.

Jakob Pirro, supreme Nazi in the Saar territory and delegated by Berlin to "bring the Saar back home," was the speaker at the meeting. After the communists were driven off they retreated to a neighboring hill and fired shots and stones at the police.

HITLER APPOINTS LEIPZIG MAYOR PRICE DICTATOR

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today appointed Karl Goerdeler, the lord mayor of Leipzig, Germany's commissar for the control of prices. Goerdeler filled a similar office in 1931 under former Chancellor Bruening.

The appointment of a "price dictator" became necessary after complaints had reached the government from all parts of the country that merchants, producers and manufacturers had been raising their prices without warant.

The provincial press has been filled for weeks past with warnings by local authorities against price increases and at Breslau last Saturday the police closed 24 butcher shops for such increases.

His wife, Elizabeth, who was riding with him, was uninjured.

White walked a few steps from the wrecked car and fell to the street. Taken to the Chicago Memorial hospital, he was pronounced dead, probably from a heart attack induced by the shock of the crash.

White's death and two others yesterday brought to 1,054 the total of trafic fatalities in Cook county this year. The other victims:

Constantine Monica, 19 years old, 809 South Leavitt street. Died in his home of injuries incurred in an automobile collision Sunday at Arthington street and Western avenue.

The hitch hiker killed Sunday in an automobile collision on Lake street highway five miles east of Elgin was identified yesterday as Morris Meshulan, 18 years old, 745 South California avenue.

875,000 subscriptions to these units. This was cut to 700,000. We let down the market in an orderly manner."

"You contend that is the reason for purchases?"

"I don't contend. It is the reason."

Halsey-Stuart's interest in the whole affair, he said, was their permanent investment in 1,000,000 shares of Corporation Securities common stock.

"The government simply does not understand," said Mr. MacNeille at one point. Mr. Salter asked the court to admonish the witness to stick to the point.

"You started off this company with $20,000,000 of a watered stock?" asked Mr. Salter, starting off on another tack.

"No."

"What did you have to do with this offering circular?"

"I had everything to do with it."

"What do you mean by $80,000,000 in assets stated here?"

A Question of Assets.

"Didn't you mean that if the public bought this stock at the price offered you would have these assets?"

"That is what happened. We said we would have that amount of assets and we did. We didn't beg anybody to buy. There is the circular, take it or leave it."

"Why did you not tell the exact assets to the people who were investing their savings?"

"Because we didn't want it known that Insull organizations were affiliated. It would tend to wild speculation."

"You were not afraid to tell them that these assets were not stocks of the operating companies?"

"Why should I have such thoughts? I don't in the least understand why you suggest such things."

MacNeille Displays Anger.

At this point the witness was half up in his chair, his eyes flashing, his whole demeanor that of an outraged soul.

"Why didn't you let the people know?"

"We gave an opportunity. The balance sheet was on file in the Stock Exchange."

"And you checked up to see that no one found out about it?"

"What's that?"

"You checked up—"

"Who did? Check with whom?"

"I don't know."

"Well, why do you say I checked with some one. No, no, no."

At this point court was adjourned until this morning, when the cross-examination will be continued.

Insull Enjoys Clashes.

Mr. Insull laughed and enjoyed this exchange greatly from his seat on the sidelines. He was not feeling any too well after his own ordeal, in a physical sense, and in addition he had been troubled with new threatening letters. He was wondering about getting a bodyguard to protect him after an incident in the corridor came to his attention.

Louis Callahan, a treasury guard on duty in the halls, overheard a member of the crowd of spectators tell a companion that "Insull will be coming by here in a minute and you can do anything you want to him." Callahan seized the man but his companion escaped.

The prisoner identified himself at the marshal's office as Jacob John Zahlner, 440 South Clark street. He said he had lost $4,000 in Insull securities and his companion, whom he knew as Pelosky, had lost $100,000 in the crash. He said Pelosky intended to strike Insull. Zahlner was unarmed and was released.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

On direct examination, Mr. MacNeille said he had been with Halsey-Stuart for 27 years and his salary had been cut from $25,000 to $12,000 since the depression. He has five children and two grandchildren. His own losses in the Corporation Securities mirage, he testified, were $375,000. For this investment all he had ever received was $30,000 in dividends before the crash and he still has the stock.

At one point in his testimony when he was asked about the senior Insull, he said he had known him for 20 years and that during this time Halsey-Stuart had underwritten between one and a half and two billion dollars in Insull securities without a default. Once, he said, Halsey-Stuart, wrote a check for $85,000,000 for Commonwealth Edison bonds. The house never dealt in stocks, he said.

Expresses Confidence in Insull.

In answer to a question whether he had confidence in Insull utilities in 1929, the witness dramatically unwound his long legs, stood to his full height on the stand in front of the jury box and said slowly and impressively:

"I had the greatest confidence in Mr. Insull, next only to that I have for Mr. H. L. Stuart, and I still have that confidence today." He sat down.

"I suppose we ought to stand up and cheer," remarked Salter.

Mr. Lounsbury had his witness explain the organization of the Corporation Securities company in October, 1929, at which time, he said, Halsey-Stuart purchased 45,436 units of stock for their own management and personnel. A unit consisted of one share of preferred and one share of common stock.

Given Chance to Rescind.

After the market break of late October, it was shown, the employés were given a chance to rescind their orders, and later in the year, in order to make the books balance, the company took in 8,000 more units which had been subscribed for on the installment plan and were subsequently paid for by the subscribers.

All the preliminaries of the company and its reports, the witness said, were supervised by the law firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld and Parker. He wrote to Lloyds of London to get an auditor recommendation and was given the name of Touche, Niven & Co. This concern was employed. In loaning their sales organization to Insull, he said, Halsey-Stuart was actuated by their own interest in the new Corporation Securities company. They thought, also, they were doing their best customers a favor.

MacNeille testified that Halsey-Stuart could have taken a profit of $11,000,000 in Middle West Utilities shares which it had purchased in the summer of 1929 to turn into the new company. The witness characterized as "simply a matter of accounting, a difference in methods," the various versions of the first annual report of Corporation Securities which turned a loss to a profit.

He defended the practice of taking stock dividends into the company books at market prices, as well as charging organization expenses to capital surplus. It was always proper to support a new issue of stock on the market, he said. In fact, he regarded it as a duty to stockholders.

"I would do the same thing again today, under the same circumstances," he declared emphatically, when asked about the first circular offering the stock to the public.

INSULL'S STORY ENDED

Mr. Insull was on the stand for only twenty minutes yesterday.

Prosecutor Salter went into the transaction with Halsey, Stuart & Co. in January, 1929, when the Insull family sold a large block of their stock in Insull Utility Investments, Inc., to the bond house for $4,498,534.

It is the government's contention that the sale of this stock by the bond house to Utility Investments a short time later was part of the same transaction. The purchase of stock by Utility Investments was authorized by Insull as president for the same figure and the government alleges the Insulls originally sold the stock to Halsey, Stuart & Co. to get cash for their holdings. This was part of the stock later turned over to Corporation Securities company when it was organized.

Insull and Lawyer Protest.

Insull and his attorney, Floyd E. Thompson, objected to this interpretation on the part of the government and said that there were two separate transactions involved. Salter used the term "buying back the stock" and Mr. Insull as having bought it back.

"I object to that constant repetition of buying back from Halsey-Stuart," Thompson said. "There is nothing about buying back in this whole case. Mr. Insull and others sold to Halsey-Stuart certain securities. At a later time Halsey-Stuart sold these securities to another buyer."

"At the same price," Salter persisted.

"Excuse me," Insull interrupted, "but you just made a remark that isn't true. The buyer was not Mr. Insull. The buyer was the Insull Utility Investments, Inc. I was president, but it was the company's deal."

Thompson Charges Trickery.

"There are two separate and distinct transactions," Thompson declared. "Mr. Salter knows it and he asks questions with a view to tricking an answer from the witness that isn't true."

Insull then identified his signatures on the checks issued by Utility Investments to buy the stock from Halsey-Stuart.

"Glance at the amount of the check first," the prosecutor suggested.

"I will do it in my own way," Insull retorted.

When Thompson again objected to Salter's asking "trick questions with the words "buying back," the prosecutor said: "The securities were sold to a new corporation [Corporation Securities] through Halsey-Stuart. That is the theory of the government."

"I do not care what the government's theory is," Thompson said. "The facts can speak for themselves."

Insull then testified to the manner in which employés of his companies purchased stock in them. He said he had always been opposed to deducting payments from their salaries, but was finally "overruled by those under me."

"Wasn't there also a plan to ask the employés to sell a certain quota of stock?" Salter inquired.

"O, yes, to sell to customers," Insull answered.

"Even the elevator boys in the building?"

"O, anybody," the witness replied, "even coal passers."

On redirect examination Thompson asked only a few questions. He brought out that Insull never received a salary for his services to Utility Investments or Corporation Securities.

"Never Received Any Fees."

"Or did you ever receive any fee for attending directors' and committee meetings of either of these corporations?" Thompson asked.

"None whatever, sir," Insull replied.

"That is all," Thompson said. He turned inquiringly toward the prosecutor.

"That is all," Salter echoed.

Insull rose slowly from the chair and sighed at the end of the ordeal. He turned and smiled at the jurors and then walked to his seat only a few steps from the witness stand. Mrs. Insull, sitting in the first row of spectator benches, smiled and relaxed.

Sam Howard, trustee in bankruptcy of Corporation Securities, was a witness for a few moments during which he identified documents from the company's files which will be used later by the defense.

Chart Battles On Again.

The battle of charts, which had played a large part in the government's case, was on again when William M. Hammond, a statistician, was called as the next defense witness. His graphs, based on figures taken from a business magazine, were designed to show that fluctuations in the market value of the capital stock of the Insull holding companies in 1929, 1930 and 19-31 were similar to the fluctuations in other large utility holding companies throughout the country.

Hammond, who was employed by the Illinois commerce commission for 19 years, was questioned by Attorney Harry Ditchburne of defense counsel.

Ditchburne brought out that the rates of change in the value of Middle West Utilities stock were similar to those in eight other companies and then showed that fluctuations in Corporation Securities and Utility Investments followed the trend of Middle West. The government did not object to the introduction of the charts, but attacked the theory on cross-examination.

STERILIZATION ADVOCATED BY 3 AT SYMPOSIUM

Dr. Fishbein Drops Word of Warning.

Three leaders representing the fields of science, medicine and religion last night discussed the merits of sterilization in a symposium before 2,500 persons at the Sinai Temple Lecture association. The three speakers, in varying degrees, espoused selective sterilization as advantageous to the general welfare of society.

Dr. Louis L. Mann, rabbi of Sinai temple, termed sterilization the only sure challenge to the rising tide of degeneracy, and termed it the answer to the age old sociological query, "Am I my brother's keeper?" He listed the famous Jukes, Kallikak, and Nam families as examples of the necessity for a system of state control of birth.

Called Curb on Degeneracy.

"Sterilization, accomplished without desexing the individual, is the only control for hereditary factors in degeneracy," Prof. A. J. Carlson of the University of Chicago, said. "Some hereditary traits, such as refusal of the blood to coagulate and the possession of an extra finger or toe, are harmless to society. But feeblemindedness, insanity, and in a small degree criminal tendencies threaten society, and for these sterilization is needed."

Dr. Morris Fishbein, secretary of the American Medical association, called attention to the difficulty of ascertaining accurately whether human traits are the result of heredity or environment. He quoted several scientific statistical studies to indicate that sterilization is needed in some degree, but pointed out that nature in her own way is prone to eliminate the misfits.

Problem Yet to Be Solved.

"Human sterilization," he said, "is a topic for discussion by eugenists and social welfare workers. But the evidence is far too slight at this time to command anything in the nature of an indorsement."

The three speakers were in agreement on the necessity of dealing slowly in any movement for compulsory sterilization.

INDIANA FARM BOY KILLED IN GUN FIGHT AS NEIGHBORS ROW

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Taking up his father's quarrel with a neighbor, Robert Hawkins, 19, shot and killed Robert McGhehey, 15, this afternoon in a gun fight on a farm seven miles south of here. Joseph Hawkins, 46, father of the slayer, was shot in the knee by Carl McGhehey, father of the slain boy.

The slaying occurred as Hawkins and his son were crossing McGhehey's land. The elder McGhehey ordered them away, and Joseph Hawkins advanced on him and was wounded by the other man.

While Hawkins and McGhehey wrestled on the ground the younger Hawkins killed Robert McGhehey with a shotgun. The three survivors were arrested.

CALLS ALL-BRAN NATIONAL NATURAL LAXATIVE

Delicious Cereal Checked His Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Daniels:

"For many years I have been habitually constipated, and have used all sorts of laxatives. So, in fairness to Kellogg's All-Bran, I heartily claim it to be a most wonderful remedy for constipation.

"Need I tell you that I have long since ceased using laxatives? Kellogg's All-Bran is the National Natural Laxative. If it were used by every family in the United States for breakfast, we would have a much healthier race of people."—Mr. John Daniels, 1090 Third St., North Bergen, N. J.

Tests show Kellogg's All-Bran furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. All-Bran also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this food much pleasanter than risking pills and drugs? Two tablespoonsful daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

"Even a sword-swallower needs Throat-ease" says W. C. Fields

Dear Mr. Fields:

We wouldn't know about sword-swallowers. But we do know that thousands of folks are grateful to Old Gold for giving them a cigarette that is utterly free from harshness, bite and irritation.

There's no trick to Old Gold's throat-ease. It's simply the result of using ripe, mellow heart-leaf tobaccos . . . with no artificial flavoring. Natural goodness: that's what makes Old Gold so mild and appealing.

May we hope, Mr. Fields, that you never drop Old Golds . . . whether you're juggling them or smoking them?

Sincerely,

P. S.—Briefly, Mr. Fields, here's the whole story: No better tobacco grows than is used in Old Gold. And it's pure. (No artificial flavoring.) That's why it's easy on the THROAT and NERVES.

LIBBY'S BABY SON JOINS REYNOLDS ESTATE DISPUTE

Order by Court Includes Infant in Action.

Winston Salem, N. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The infant son of Libby Holman Reynolds, former "torch" singer, today was granted legal permission to enter the litigation over the 20 million dollar estate of his father, the late Smith Reynolds.

Superior Judge P. A. McElroy signed the order admitting the young litigant, Christopher Smith Reynolds, into the scramble over division of the Reynolds' tobacco fortune. The controversy now centers about the baby and his half sister, Anne Cannon Reynolds II., daughter of Smith Reynolds and his first wife, Anne Cannon Reynolds-Smith.

Representative Appointed.

Baby Christopher will be represented in the proceedings by R. C. Vaughn, who was recently appointed his "next friend" in legal matters. Vaughn was ordered to take such steps as he deems necessary and expedient properly to protect the rights of the infant and to prosecute the pending proceedings to final judgment. The child was born after the death of his father.

The action in which he will intervene was begun in behalf of the other child when her co-guardian, the Cabarrus Bank and Trust company, petitioned the court to set aside a judgment returned in 1931 which made a settlement of $1,000,000 on Anne Reynolds II.

Last spring the bank resisted a family agreement whereby five million dollars would have been divided among Reynolds' first wife, his widow and his two children. The bank took the position that its ward, the child Anne, was entitled to a half share of the entire estate.

In asking to have the million dollar trust set aside, the Cabarrus bank contended that Anne's rights of inheritance was illegally waived when the trust was created.

First Wife Asks Ruling.

Several months later, however, Anne's mother petitioned the court for a ruling on the 1931 judgment and at the same time accused the bank of failing to observe its duties and obligations to herself as a co-guardian of her child.

All these court maneuvers today were termed, by a source close to the Reynolds family, as necessities in removing legal obstacles now in the way to a final settlement and an agreed division of the estate for both the children and the two mothers.

Despite all these legal entanglements, the former Libby Holman has been studiously endeavoring to carve a new chapter in her career by a return to the stage in serious drama. She has been studying for this rôle—her ambition despite her success as a blues singer—ever since her 20 year old husband was fatally shot here two and a half years ago and she and Ab Walker, Reynolds' best friend, were freed after having been indicted in connection with the death.

PLEADS IN VAIN TO GO TO PRISON FOR GIRL FRIEND

A girl was sentenced to a term of 18 months in a women' reformatory and two men associates were sentenced to five years each in a federal penitentiary yesterday for violation of the Dyer automobile theft act. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward ignored the plea of one of the men, George Kennison, 30 years old, of Kansas City, that Kennison serve the sentence of his sweetheart, Miss Gabriel Sidney, 22 years old, of Rock Island.

Kennison and Harry Randolph, 24 years old, of Chicago, both of whom have served terms in Leavenworth penitentiary, pleaded guilty of stealing an automobile in Toledo and transporting it to Chicago.

The girl, according to Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher, had served a 90 day sentence as Kennison's accomplice in a previous theft. She, too, pleaded guilty yesterday.

Woman's Death Is Called Murder; Inquest Delayed

Miss Anna Henneman, 38 years old, 1749 Hastings street, was murdered, according to police opinions given yesterday at an inquest which was continued until Nov. 19 to allow more time for investigation. The woman's body was found Saturday in the hallway of the building where she lived and for which she was renting agent. It was first believed she had fallen to her death down the stairs. Then it was found her throat had been cut, there was a large bruise on her head, and three of her fingers had been severed. Capt. Charles Larkin of the Marquette police said Miss Henneman may have been slain by a robber who posed as a prospective tenant.

40 HOUR WEEK FIXED IN ITALY TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Workers and Employers Sign Pact.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 5.—A pact between the Fascist Federation of Industrialists and the corresponding Federation of Industrial Workers, containing ultrasocialistic provisions for redistributing employment among the highest number of workers, was made public here tonight.

The pact was signed Oct. 11, a few days after Premier Mussolini's visit to industrial northern Italy.

Forty-Hour Week Created.

It points out that the best way to reduce unemployment is to bring about general economic recovery and development, and then, in four articles, it provides:

FIRST—All industrial companies must reduce working time to forty hours a week, this to be put into effect gradually but rapidly.

SECOND—A national fund is established to extend additional compensation to workers with large families who have only part time work. One per cent of the pay of all industrial employés working forty hours a week is deducted and paid into this fund to which is added an equal amount by the industrial employers. Those who work more than forty hours must pay 5 per cent into the fund.

THIRD—All overtime is abolished. Certain exceptions for technical requirements are allowed, however, but this must be only in special cases and shall never be continuous in character with respect to the same workers.

FOURTH—The women workers and minors must be eliminated in all cases except where such are required because of special competence.

Corporations' Council to Meet.

The announcement of the pact to reduce unemployment between industrial employers and workers comes on the eve of meetings of the council of corporations here. The council will discuss measures for further rationalization in Italian industry.

Special ceremonies are scheduled for Thursday when the twenty-two category corporations decreed last spring will be formally installed by Mussolini. These twenty-two category corporations are supposed to embrace all factors of production in Italy and the instalment of their directors will initiate the corporative system in Italy.

NUDE PAINTINGS IN WHITNEY HOME TO BE STRESSED

In Meantime Vanderbilt Case Is Delayed.

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—An adjournment was taken in the Vanderbilt-Whitney case today until Wednesday to permit counsel for Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt to get the opinion of a handwriting expert. The opinion is sought in regard to letters supposedly written by her child, expressing unhappiness with the mother, before she went to live with Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney at Old Westbury, L. I.

The letters, six in all, were produced by Mrs. Whitney's counsel, Herbert C. Smyth, last Friday in his cross examination of Mrs. Vanderbilt. They were addressed by the child to her grandmother, Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan, who has already testified against her own daughter in support of Mrs. Whitney's claim that the child should be allowed to remain.

Challenges Erasures.

It was learned from Justice Carew that the letters are all in pencil, in cross-examination of Mrs. Vanderbilt, recognized for the most part as her child's. There are erasures and interlined words, however, in handwriting which Mrs. Vanderbilt does not recognize. Her counsel, Nathan Burkan, argued that these changes, although they do not materially alter the sense of the child's letters, indicate that they were written under the supervision of some other person, and are not to be taken as the spontaneous outpouring of an unhappy child.

Mr. Burkan said also that he wanted to photograph certain nudes in Mrs. Whitney's museum of American art, to support his questioning of the moral fitness of Mrs. Whitney. She has already questioned Mrs. Vanderbilt's fitness.

During the closing hours of Burkan's cross-examination of Mrs. Whitney he had a heated exchange with her as to whether a child would distinguish between nudity and nakedness and would react to certain museum pieces as art or as immoral exhibitionism.

Religious Question Up.

As important as Gloria's own expressed preference to remain with Mrs. Whitney, her aunt, the question of the child's religion emerged again from behind the closed doors of the hearings, when Mrs. Whitney's counsel denied that she intended to have the child brought up in the Episcopal church, although she was baptized a Roman Catholic.

Mr. Smyth announced to the press that Mrs. Whitney was perfectly willing to have a curator named by the court to supervise the child's religious education and to make sure that she received a comprehensive training in the faith and practice of the Roman Catholic church. Mrs. Vanderbilt had announced some days previously that she intended to send the child to the Convent of the Sacred Heart where she went as a girl.

LEAGUE PROBES JAPAN'S ACTS IN PACIFIC ISLANDS

Suspects Fortification of Four Harbors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 5.—Japan's right to hold Pacific islands under mandate came before the league of nations mandate commission today. It was revealed that in 1932 Japan refused permission for a United States warship to land a naval scientific expedition at the Ladrones to study an eclipse. This was complemented by reports that Japan has been secretly constructing fortifications on the various islands, in violation of her mandate.

The question arose whether in view of Japan's withdrawal from the league of nations she has the right to continue her mandates over the Marshall, Caroline, Ladrone, and Pelew islands. Japan contends that she got the islands, former German possessions, at the Paris peace conference as a reward for helping the allies win the war. As one of the allied powers the United States will be vitally interested in such contention.

Grill Japanese Minister.

Under grilling by league of nations officials Nobubumi Ito, Japanese minister to Poland, denied that Japan is fortifying the islands. Marquis Theodoli of Italy, chairman of the mandate commission, reminded Ito of Japan's reported refusal to let foreign warships visit the islands or to admit visitors. Ito reported that when Japanese warships held maneuvers in the vicinity of the islands it was only natural that Japan would not welcome visitors.

Further, Theodoli asked why Japan in 1933 expended a total of 800,000 yen [about $240,000] for improvement of four harbors in the islands. Ito replied it was to permit the anchorage of larger liners which Japan wishes to visit there. The chairman did not consider the answer adequate and informed Ito that "suspicions" exist of Japan's motives.

Revive Manchurian Grab.

League officials insist that Japan's withdrawal from the league [in 1935] cannot be accepted unless Japan has honorably fulfilled all her obligations to the league—this including her island mandate contract with the league. The league also will revive the Manchurian issue, charging that Japan violated the covenant in occupying Manchuria and creating the state of Manchukuo.

The mandate commission issued a communique reporting the session with Ito. This advised unrestricted access to the islands for foreign travelers and vessels and the availability of airdromes to planes of all nations. The communique also questioned the 4,000,000 yen [about $1,200,000] increase of exports from the islands for 1933 over 1932.

NEW SCHEDULES SPEED UP PLANE SERVICE TO WEST

Two airlines operating out of Chicago yesterday announced faster schedules linking the central west with the Pacific coast. Northwest Airlines inaugurated 15 hour service between Seattle and Chicago, via Minneapolis and St. Paul, and United Airlines planes were scheduled to fly the midcontinent route between Chicago and Los Angeles, Cal., half an hour faster than the previous scheduled run which was 14 hours.

Beginning today, Northwest Airlines officials said, twin motored Lockheed Electra ten passenger planes which cruise at 197 miles per hour will be used over the whole northwest route.

The speeding up of United Airlines schedules was accomplished by cutting down the number of stops on the route, and the use of new Douglas planes by General Airlines which carries United passengers between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

AIR RACE VICTORS' PLANE TAKEN FOR $2,750 DEBT CLAIM

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—An attachment today tied up the monoplane Lady Southern Cross, which carried Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and Capt. P. G. Taylor across the Pacific in their classic flight from Australia to California.

While the flying knight was being saluted in Hollywood as a conquering hero, a deputy city marshal leaned a chair against the wall of the hangar where the famous plane rested, taking possession of the plane in the name of the law.

The attachment was levied in a suit filed by E. Beverly, assignee of Tom Catton, who charged Sir Charles owed him $2,750 for services in 1928, when Kingsford-Smith was preparing for his historic flight from Oakland to Australia.

Beverly asserted that Catton advanced money, goods and services worth $1,750. The additional sum included $1,000 as interest. Authorities said a bond of $5,000 would be necessary to release the plane pending settlement of the case.

MAKE OIL CLAIMS TO MANCHUKUO, JAPAN ADVISES

Replies to U. S. Protest on Monopoly Laws.

TOKIO, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Japan disclaimed all responsibility for the Manchukuo oil controversy today and advised protesting American and British oil interests to enter into direct negotiations with the Manchukuo government.

This Japanese attitude was disclosed in notes handed to the American and British embassies tonight by Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, according to an authoritative summary thereof.

It was understood the note states the Japanese government is nowise concerned over Manchukuo's oil measures, which are a domestic affair of Manchukuo. The Japanese government was informed by the Manchukuo government, however, that neither Manchukuo oil laws nor articles of incorporation for the Manchuria Oil company provided for discrimination against any nationality.

The Japanese government understands the Manchukuo government is paying the utmost possible consideration, the note said, to the interests of foreign merchants, and therefore the Japanese government advises American oil interests to negotiate directly with Hsinking.

Preserves Open Door.

In conclusion, the note asserts Manchukuo's contemplated oil measure does not violate the principle of the open door, since it does not discriminate in favor of the Japanese or any other nationality.

Disregarding foreign charges that the oil monopoly scheme is discriminatory the Manchukuan government has instituted steps to assume early possession of extensive marketing installations in the country by the Standard Oil company of New York and the British Asiatic Petroleum company.

Officials of the companies were instructed to report on the imports and sales in Manchukuo since Jan. 1, 1932; where their agents are located and the size of their businesses; and all property with its cost, dates of erection and other details with a view to its transfer to the nation on an estimate of fair valuation.

TWO POLICE HURT AS 10,000 STORM NEW JOB OFFICE

Forty policemen struggled for more than two hours yesterday before they were able to disperse a job hungry crowd of 10,000 persons who stormed a temporary Sears, Roebuck & Co. employment bureau at 741 Englewood avenue. Two policemen were hurt in the crush.

The crowd reached its greatest size about an hour after the bureau opened in the Englewood Business college and lines of men and women waiting to fill out application blanks extended across 63d and Halsted streets, blocking the corner.

Two policemen were summoned to direct the lines of job seekers, but by the time they reached the scene a disturbance had started. Thirty-eight policemen responded to the second call. During their efforts to restore order, Sergt. John Fogarty and Policeman Terrance Collins were pushed through a glass door, incurring cuts and bruises.

The crowd finally scattered when application blanks were distributed, to be returned by mail.

TRIBUNE COOKING SCHOOL OPENS AT TRIANON TODAY

Elaborate Program Ready for 5,000 Guests.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

From the stage of the Trianon ballroom, which has been converted into a bride's kitchen of buff, black, and apricot, will emerge today such an aroma of tasty viands as will send an audience of 5,000 womenfolk to their homes at duskfall determined to cook something unusually tasty for dinner.

CARL CRAVEN.

Today at 12:30 p. m., the fourth annual cooking school conducted by THE TRIBUNE opens at the ballroom, 6201 South Cottage Grove avenue, with a session of four days for south side housewives. Through this and two succeeding weeks, Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, noted home economist, will teach thousands of pupils, many of them veteran cooks, how to turn out not passable, but superior meals bound to please their husbands. In addition she will instruct them in dishes certain to be unusual for a bridge, luncheon, or dinner party.

The Last Word in Kitchens!

By midnight last night workmen who had been working all day put the finishing touch to the handsome kitchen. Surveying their work with more than a little satisfaction they made their inspection of every detail—the buff walls with black base separated by strips of silverish chromium, twin white gas ranges of modern design, a window above the sink with gay apricot curtains, modernistic chromium work tables, and soft indirect lighting over all.

Long before the hour of opening the staf of ushers will be costumed in their white trousers, white cook's caps, and white smocks. On display will be grand prizes to be awarded at the close of the week's session, and many of the daily prize awards.

Cookery, Yes—But Much More.

Promptly at 12:30 Phil Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE, as master of ceremonies, will call the 1934 school to order greeting the old friends and welcoming the new. Then will follow community singing led by Carl Craven with Leon Benditzky at the piano.

Of particular appeal to the women will be the talk by Bob Becker, TRIBUNE outdoors editor, for he is to give them special pointers on the preparation of wild game. Others of THE TRIBUNE staf to speak will be Rhea Seeger, fashion editor, and India Moffett, society editor.

The entertainment features will be excerpts from "The Fatal Wedding." by members of the Dixiana Showboat players; a dance novelty by Ruth Pryor, former première danseuse of the Chicago Civic opera, and Lynn Cole, crooner and star of George Olsen's orchestra at the College Inn, Hotel Sherman.

Expert to Bare Her Secrets.

Mary Meade, cooking editor of THE TRIBUNE, will introduce Mrs. Chitwood, who will give two lectures and demonstrations during the afternoon. Among the dishes scheduled to be prepared today for the instruction of the guests are bean sprouts au gratin, egg foo yong, cheese noodles, salmon basket, beefsteak pie, and coffee cream. In addition will be some of her most prized recipes which she preferred not to announce in advance.

Next week the cooking school for west side housewives will be held in Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 128 North Pulaski road, and the following week at the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue, on the north side.

Can't Sleep, Sues to Stop Building of Sewer Tunnel

Because the noise of an air compressor used in the construction of a sewage tunnel in the 1600 block on South Jefferson street keeps her awake ngihts, Mrs. Anna Jezisek, 1727 String street, filed suit yesterday in Superior court seeking an injunction to restrain the Ready Coal and Construction company from continuing with the work. The bill, which asks damages of $10,000, also charges that vibration of the machine causes dishes to break in nearby houses. The tunnel is a Public Works administration project.

READY FOR OPENING OF COOK SCHOOL TODAY

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, home economics expert, and Miss Mary Meade, cooking editor of The Tribune, give last minute instructions to the five ushers who will officiate at the opening of the fourth Tribune School of Cookery this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the Trianon ballroom. COMMUNITY FUND PLEDGES NEARING $2,000,000 MARK

Reaching Goal Seems Almost Certain.

Reaching the $3,000,000 goal of the 1934 community fund campaign seemed almost a certainty yesterday as pledges recorded at fund headquarters, 111 West Washington street, approached the two million mark.

The fund now has reached a total of $1,853,298.11, the bulk of which [$1,663,537.80] has been raised by the special gifts division. This division alone expects to report $2,000,000 in pledges before Nov. 15, leaving the third million to be raised from employed men and women.

Other Divisions at Work.

Of the other divisions, none of which expects to be in full swing before the end of this week, a total of $188,765.31 already has been raised by the trades and industries division and $995 by the women's division.

The Community fund, which will be allocated among 130 public welfare agencies of Chicago, was ardently indorsed yesterday by County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, chairman of the Cook county hospital committee of the county board.

Through coöperation of various agencies sharing in the fund, Mr. Kelly said, the county hospital has been able to care for hundreds of patients in need of surgical attention.

Drive to Open in Evanston.

The 1935 community chest drive of Evanston, with its goal of $147,725, will open at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night with a rally at the Evanston Country club, John J. Louis, general chairman of the drive, announced yesterday.

Fourteen social agencies will be beneficiaries of the drive. They are the Family Welfare association, Illinois Children's home, Day Nursery, Arden Shore, Boy Scout council, Girl Scout council, Salvation Army, Y. W. C. A., Visiting Nurses association, Community hospital, Social Service league, Big Brothers, Council of Social Agencies, and the Community Chest.

Human Fly Burglar Steals $500 in 19th Floor Offices

Central station police sought yesterday a "human fly" burglar who took loot of $500 from two 19th floor offices in the State Bank building, 120 South La Salle street. The thief apparently entered on the fire escape, police said.

TETRAZZINI DROPS CHARGE AGAINST YOUNG HUSBAND

ROME, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, opera diva, today withdrew her charges of extortion against her young husband, Pietro Vernati. When the case came to trial the prosecution stated that Vernati, instead of mulcting the singer, as has been alleged, tried to save her fortune. The judge acquitted Vernati.

The husband, himself, has been trying for many months to place Mme. Tetrazzini's financial affairs in the hands of a trustee. Tetrazzini's lawyers had said they had evidence Vernati offered to withdraw his action if the singer would pay him 100,000 lire [about $8,200].

The criminal action was a counterstroke to the action brought by Vernati two years ago, designed to show the 63 year old singer was squandering her fortune.

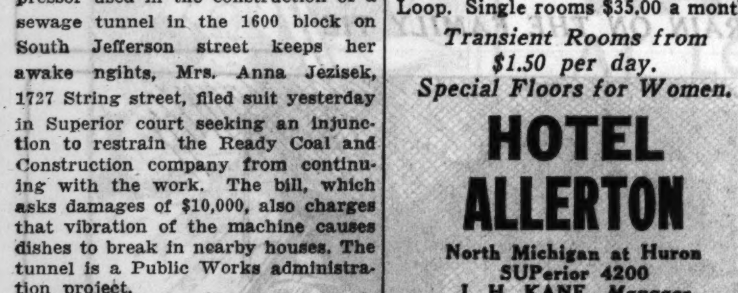
YOUR STOMACH AT WORK ★ Curious Facts About Digestion



THERE ARE 300 THINGS SOLD FOR ACID INDIGESTION, SOME CONTAINING 20 OR MORE MEDICINAL INGREDIENTS. YET IMMEDIATE RELIEF CAN BE HAD FROM A LITTLE TRIANGULAR TABLET △ CARRIED IN THE POCKET AND MUNCHED LIKE CANDY!
P

Yes, it's curious what some people do when they have a pain in the stomach, a little gas, or attack of "indigestion!"

They take all sorts of remedies with high-sounding names. They clutter home and office with bottles and spoons, and all sorts of preparations.

When one little thing they could tuck in a pocket might have straightened them out in a hurry!

Years ago, a man named Pape discovered a simple way to relieve distress due to acid stomach. Diapepsin, in tablets that are just eaten like candy, has brought happiness to thousands who thought they had a "weak stomach."

If you have distress after meals, any acid discomfort at all, your stomach is probably slow in emptying. If you relieve this condition with Pape's Diapepsin, you can eat with more enjoyment!

Try it! Carry the pocket tin and take a tablet or two after meals until your digestion is "clicking" and all that sourness is gone. Pape's Diapepsin; remember the name.

I can ask a hundred people if they know the difference in taste between Swiss cheese and Cheddar cheese—and they nearly all do.

Yet I can ask the same group of people if they know the difference in taste between ale and beer—and not one in ten will! They know that the two cheeses are both made from milk and that ale and beer are both basically malt drinks. But that's all they do know.

You've never tasted anything just like it. It has a malt base, of course. But its hop content is entirely different. And so is its higher alcoholic character—which makes it the ideal cold-weather drink it is.

Rich, mellow, smooth as silken amber. Every glass inspires another... gives you that "just-right" stimulation yet never carries you past the point of enjoyment.

In my opinion Blue Ribbon is outstandingly the finest ale brewed... and I ought to know. Who am I? I'm the Manager of one of the most successful hotels on the near North Side of Chicago. Up here everybody is demanding...

VOTE FOR REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN.

A vote for a Republican congressman is a vote for an American political party and for the American system of government. The Democratic party has ceased to be an American political party and the government it supports has ceased to be an American government.

The Democratic party is the party of Upton Sinclair, Norman Thomas, Dr. Tugwell, hell-raising Huey Long, revolution, socialism and what not, with derivations from Marx and Engels, Mussolini or Hitler or Ramsay MacDonald, with exhibitions in California, in the Tennessee Valley, and in the plowed under corn and cotton lands, but it is not an American party and it does not seek to perpetuate an American form of government.

A vote for a Republican congressman is a vote against the imprisonment of a business man for the lawful conduct of his business in an effort to keep it and him alive. A vote for a Republican congressman is a vote against prohibiting a widow from supporting her children by working at home, under conditions approved by her state labor commission.

A vote for a Republican congressman is a vote against financial wild catting which destroys life insurance, protection for dependents, pay for honest work, and property acquired by industry and thrift.

A vote for a Republican congressman is a vote for American constitutional liberties, for the representative system of government, for the repeal of 5,000 new criminal laws made by edict, and for the restoration of the American citizen and the return of his rights against government authority.

A vote for a Republican congressman is a vote against Sinclair and socialism, against the TVA and communism, against shin plaster currency, against absorption of the judicial and legislative branches by the executive authority, against government destruction of private business by tax supported competition, and against the peonizing of American agriculture.

A vote for a Republican congressman is a vote for the American system of government which in 144 years did not at any one time bring about even a small percentage of the disorders, uncertainties, and abuses which the New Deal has crowded into a year and a half.

Therefore vote for Republican congressmen.

SPORTS AND SPORTSMANSHIP.

Both college and pro football have a profit motive, with a difference which is a distinction without disturbing the fact that both games are played for cash returns. The schedule makers for the college game prefer the metropolitan money centers to the small university towns because the former can build and fill stands seating 50,000 or more. The stadium when built has to be paid for and if the football season isn't good other athletic activities must be constricted or in some extreme cases abandoned.

An eye to the necessary profits governs the matching of college teams and the selection of playing fields. The pro game has to be commercial because it is a means of support for most of its players. Occasionally one plays for the love of the game and would do so if there were no pay, but for most of the men professional football is at least a part of their business, relied upon for part of their income, and is an alternative to or a substitute for a coaching job. Whereas the colleges arrange football schedules with consideration for the largest probable gate receipts and without making any known direct return to the players, the professional game is the means of making a living.

The pro player works for the money reward and the profit motive is a chief consideration, but with such an incentive the sportsmanship of the professional game needs no lessons from the college and might even be said with truth to be in general a degree or two higher. The men who play for hire have a sportsmanship code towards each other which would not be out of order on the college field, where the young men are thought to be mainly inspired by loyalties and sentiments and a desire to win fame in athletics for an institution which they are supposed to be paying money in exchange for what is represented as an education. Any sports department mail box is full of letters from indignant alumni accusing the players of other teams of poor sportsmanship on the field. An old grad who has lost a bet is not the least prejudiced person in the world and his suspicions of the integrity of the opposing sportsmanship are easily aroused.

The profit motive as an inspiration for human activities stands up pretty well in a test of results against the supposedly nobler standard of disinterested fealties, the urge of idealism, and the incentive of the finer sentiments. When individuals do things for profit they have as good a reason for doing these things well, honestly, and fairly as the world has ever found. It is a habit to think contrariwise at times.

WHAT IS AN EQUIPMENT FUND FOR?

Our traction problem has assumed all the earmarks of an old world diplomatic deadlock with a Machiavellian touch in its attitude toward the public. The welfare of Chicagoans in general and regular patrons of the surface lines in particular appears to have been subordinated to a controversy over the disposition of the nineteen million dollar equipment retirement fund. On the part of the surface lines it has been announced that as soon as an acceptable franchise is produced by the city council the entire sum will be expended in the purchase of new and improved street cars that have been developed and tested. The city council, on the other hand, is not ready to go ahead and as a counter proposal suggests that the fund should be safely invested to produce more adequate income—in Chicago tax anticipation warrants, as an instance.

All three interested parties, the public forming the third group, must agree to two cardinal principles. First, that the sum having been accumulated through the process of writing off the present equipment from the books of the surface lines it should be spent on new and improved rolling stock, and second, that the fund will purchase a substantially greater number of street cars now than it will several months hence. The surface lines may also add the truism that the new cars can be operated more economically and will attract patronage.

The surface lines should break the deadlock by proceeding at once with their rehabilitation program. Their present position cannot but produce the disagreeable opinion in the public mind that its interests are being sacrificed to bargaining purposes. The investment in new cars will have an intrinsic value that will be proof against inflationary policies, which reminds us that railway equipment certificates carry values generally in excess of the market price of either the stocks or bonds of the issuing railroad.

As to the franchise: its existence is more of a tradition than a necessity. If the surface lines are not satisfied that legislation now on the books fully protects them, surely they can rely on the constitutional provision against the taking of property without due process of law. Now add the undeniable fact that eighty-five per cent of Chicago's population using common carrier service in its daily pursuits rides the surface lines, and the investment becomes as secure as may be possible in this day and age. This is the kind of spending that promotes real recovery as contrasted with government spending to prime the pump. It means work for the builders, the saving of time with added comfort for street car patrons and economy for the investor.

SOURING THE MILK OF HUMAN KINDNESS.

The most despicable crimes are those which depend on the abuse of the human desire to do good.

Doctors receive "emergency calls." They rush out on what they believe is an opportunity to save a human life. Too often the "emergency call" is from a thug who wishes to lure the physician out where he may be beaten and robbed.

Equally despicable are the crimes of persons who obtain money by creating the idea they are working for charity. Recently police arrested a young man who was selling tickets to a purely imaginary "milk fund dance." The salesman represented that Dr. Herman N. Bundesen was sponsoring the affair.

The salesman had collected money from citizens who believed that, in giving it, they would help some starving baby. The most tender of human emotions was used to further a "racket." That is bad enough, but its repercussions go further. In the future a citizen so victimized will be inclined to disregard the legitimate plea for a worthy charity and to regard all charity as a "racket."

Not only has the racketeer obtained money fraudulently, but he has also made it more difficult for worthy causes to receive the support they merit.

Editorial of the Day

SLAUGHTER OF THE PIGS.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

In one of her campaign speeches in upstate New York on behalf of a Democratic candidate for congress Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said: "You hear sometimes that several million pigs were thrown into the Mississippi river. It is hard to believe that thinking people think that. It would be just too stupid."

It is not quite clear from this whether Mrs. Roosevelt meant to deny that "several million" pigs were thrown into the river or to deny in toto that pigs were so destroyed in the government's hog buying campaign of a year ago. If the latter, the President's wife must have been misinformed. A survey made by the Post-Dispatch at the time showed that about 75 per cent of the 100,000 pigs received by the government during the first nine days of the premium market at the National Stockyards at East St. Louis were tanked for grease. This amounted to about 8 per cent of the material in the pigs. The balance—92 per cent—was thrown into the river or consigned to dump heaps. The cost to the government of the discarded material was about $332,000 out of the total of $510,000 paid out by the government for hogs during the period and at the place of the survey.

As explained by the Post-Dispatch, it was the announced intention of the government to convert the pigs, weighing from 25 to 80 pounds each, into fertilizer, grease, and other by-products. But the tankage facilities of the packers became swamped, and so the government authorized them, when necessary, to salvage what grease they could and destroy the residue. Thus it was that only a small portion of each pig was saved.

We have no way of knowing just how much material, in terms of numbers of pigs, went to the river or the dumps out of the total purchased by the government, but the fact that the government bought more than 3,500,000 pigs, and that in some places, at least, drums of grease were the only salvage from three-fourths of the number of pigs received, would indicate a very considerable degree of total destruction.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

I DON'T BELIEVE the Democrats want me to vote for 'em today. It just makes 'em go to all the trouble of counting my ballot, and shucks! what difference does it make anyhow if my man is elected or not? The people who run the country just seem to happen. I never voted for Mr. Farley and I can't find anybody else that did, but there he is! And I never voted for Harold Ickes or Miss Perkins or Donald Richberg, but, of course, somebody must have done so, for we know darned well that in a republic like ours we sovereign voters choose our own rulers by ballot! Don't we? But there they are and likewise the brain trusters and Mr. Wallace and Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Tugwell and whoever has Gen. Johnson's job and so many more than I never had a chance to vote for. So I can't see what the Democrats need of my vote. They just seem to ease into their jobs automatically. And if I don't get a chance to vote for the brass hats who run the country, how am I going to get cigars at election time?

ECHO OF REINCARNATION.

This mirror from its frame may never crash
 But hold in tarnished ice the empty hall
Forevermore. Uncounted fires are ash
 While this still limns dark flames upon the wall.
The tall chased tankards of remembered wine
 Mix their bouquet with buds of lotus flowers,
As many of those great rose pearls were mine
 As now are lives that seem less long than hours.
So I return as will-lessly as rain,
 Past all the tombs of time uncomforted,
For me each dusty incarnation vain
 Should truth for you lie in those words long said.

You drank and passed the heavy cup to me—
"Oblivion," you smiled, "eternally."

THE SUPERINTENDENT of the Denver zoo says the porcupine is the dumbest of all dumb animals because he saw the one in the zoo out there back out on the limb of a tree and then proceed to gnaw off the limb between himself and the tree. It's too bad that comes a little late for campaign use. The New Dealers would say, "Think it over, Mr. Voter. What! would you gnaw off the limb between yourself and Santa Claus?"

NOTA BENE.

"Will you obey the rules?" said the White Knight.

"I always do," replied the Red Knight.

And that you, or most of you, don't. Letters are tumbling in all over the place in our contest to secure an Introduction for the Linebook of 1934. But our distinguished board of judges, Janet Fairbank, Fanny Butcher and James O'Donnell Bennett, write, wire, telephone and buttonhole us on the street to say how in heck can they judge a contest in which the contestants apparently never heard of the rules. They allow as how they're getting grand Introductions, but only about one-tenth of them are within the limit of 300 words, or, if in poetry, seven stanzas.

Now listen, my children; papa doesn't want to spank, but when he says this here now Introduction cannot be over 300 words or seven stanzas he means it can't be over 300 words or seven stanzas. And lest you overlook your deadline, all contestants must have their offerings in the mail before midnight of November 7; that's Wednesday, that's tomorrow as never was. Just that much more time you have to win the distinction of being the first—and quite probably the last—contributor to get his contribution on the inside first cover of The Linebook.

ANGINA PECTORIS OR BREAST PANG.

Few diseases cause such intense suffering for a short space of time as angina pectoris. Fortunately the pain is not continuous and the relief experienced when the pain leaves is most striking.

The three cardinal symptoms are: Pain, fear of a fatal outcome, and disturbance of breathing. Many patients will describe the pain as agonizing and viselike, as though the breastbone [sternum] were being crushed toward the spine. The length of time that this sensation persists may be but a few seconds, although some attacks may last for several minutes. When asked to locate the site of the pain the sufferer will usually place his hand on the upper portion of the breastbone. The pain may radiate down the left arm, and is sometimes felt along both arms. Occasionally it is experienced in the neck, the face, or back of the head.

Associated with pain is the fear of death. When the attack comes on, if the individual is walking, he stops, momentarily holds his breath, and then takes short breaths as if he were afraid to inhale. The face is usually grayish and covered with a cold sweat. Following a seizure exhaustion may be felt for days.

The cause of the attacks is a narrowing of the coronary arteries or their mouths, occasioned by arteriosclerosis, or, in some cases, syphilis. Sometimes disease of the aorta is an important factor. The walls of the aorta, normally elastic, are sometimes filled with deposits of lime and other minerals in the presence of arteriosclerosis.

In the past coronary occlusion [which was described in an earlier article] has been confused frequently with angina. The two conditions may be clearly differentiated by the character of the pain. Attacks of angina are usually brought on by exertion and the pain is of short duration. In coronary occlusion exertion has little if anything to do with the condition; the pain may last an hour or even much longer, and the patient may move about in order to find a comfortable position.

Once the character of true angina has been recognized, the patient should be put to bed for a complete rest and every possible effort made to restore the circulatory system to reasonable competency. Exercise must depend upon freedom from pain and should be indulged in only if symptoms of discomfort do not ensue. Worry and overwork must be eliminated and exposure to cold must be avoided. Occasionally an attack will come on because of the exertion required in walking against a stiff wind. Climbing hills, hurrying to catch trains, carrying heavy loads, and indulging in such emotions as excitement and anger are all to be shunned. It is important not to overdistend the stomach. Hence meals should be eaten leisurely, and the diet should be only that which will maintain body strength without adding to weight. Overweight persons should lose most if not all of their excess fat.

As a safeguard many physicians provide persons with angina with ampoules of amyl nitrite or tablets of nitroglycerin, as these drugs dilate the peripheral blood vessels and have a tendency to lower blood pressure.

The individual himself bears the largest share of responsibility for recurring attacks of angina. He quickly learns the types of effort that bring on the characteristic pain and avoids them. While absolute freedom from subsequent attacks cannot be guaranteed, even with the best possible care, yet it is within the province of most patients to so regulate their activities that attacks will be few and far between.

John Hunter, eminent English physiologist and surgeon, succumbed to angina more than twenty years after his initial attack. Most physicians have had patients with angina who, under careful management, have avoided succeeding attacks for years.

GO EASY ON CANDY.

T. R. writes: I am taking treatment for pernicious anemia. I am a great eater of candy. Should I discontinue the habit?

REPLY.

In your case candy should be eaten only in moderate amounts.

JEWELRY TURNS BLACK.

Miss M. W. K. writes: Why does silver jewelry that I wear turn very dark? I am in good health.

REPLY.

INTESTINAL T. B.

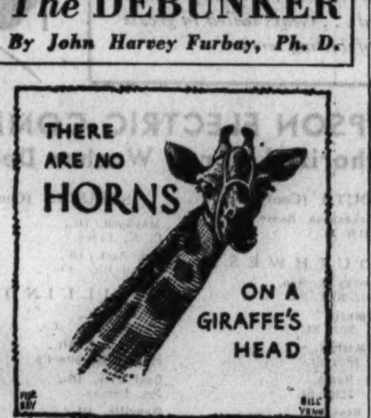
E. W. writes: What are the symptoms of tuberculosis of the intestines?

REPLY.

Tuberculosis of the intestines is usually accompanied by diarrhea and the presence of blood. Sometimes obstruction may occur. If the disease attacks the peritoneum the abdomen feels thick and hard and there is a typical pot bellied appearance. This latter condition is particularly noticeable in children.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



Although there is apparently a pair of horns on the head of a giraffe, the facts are that there are really no horns there at all. The two projections are merely tufts of fat and skin and there is not the slightest trace of horn there. Horns grow like hoofs and nails from the skin and are very hard. These so-called "horns" of the giraffe are soft.

LOOK AT THE RECORD.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 3.—Your correspondent "A Voter" from Vincennes, Ind., says the Republicans are good at propaganda and accuses them of finding fault because the present Democratic administration hasn't cleaned up in a year and a half the mess made by Republican administrations during the last 12 years.

"This 'mess,' my dear voter, had its beginning in 1916 when a Democrat was elected under the false pretense "He kept us out of war."

No one with any sense at all will hold up any Republican administration as a lily white example of ideal politics, but the much maligned Andrew Mellon, while secretary of the treasury, paid off some 11 billion dollars of the debt needlessly incurred by the Democrat who kept us out of war and those who used him to their ends.

And in 1932 a Democratic opportunist was elected after an abusive campaign of misrepresentation. If Voter thinks the Republicans made a bad mess in the 12 years prior to 1932, he will see a mess that is a mess in another year and a half unless the voters start putting brakes on this mad New Steal.

I would suggest that Voter read any of Roosevelt's campaign speeches in 1932, then, as Al Smith says, "look at the record" to date. This would be an excellent idea for many other citizens of the United States.

ON BEHALF OF MR. SCHWEBEL.

Maywood, Ill., Nov. 4.—I am greatly disappointed to learn that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE indorsed Noble J. Puffer for the office of county superintendent of schools.

Mr. Schwebel's record as an educator and a good clean fighter for the boys and girls of Cook county entitled him to more serious consideration. Perhaps this is the price he must pay for having paid his two hundred educators in cash and for having conducted a modern school system running for the full term instead of throwing thousands of children on the street for a street education. It is the price he must pay for having been elected state chairman of the third annual Conference for the Prevention of Delinquency and for his service on the educational and juvenile problem committee of the City club of Chicago.

I am a believer in THE TRIBUNE'S policies, but think your political editor made a mistake through lack of information or through some misrepresentation. Mr. Schwebel's record will stand the closest scrutiny. I cannot believe your paper would do him this injustice without comparing the two candidates and making correction as a news item or publication in the Voice of the People. He has been indorsed by the Oak Park Civic league, Chicago Teachers' association, Better Government association, Citizens' committee, and Better Schools Association of Cook County, and many others too numerous to mention.

SANTA CLAUS IN ILLINOIS.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 1.—In your edition of Oct. 31 appears an article in the Voice of the People by Mr. F. G. Kelley that carries so many misstatements of fact and displays such complete ignorance of his subject that in fairness to the public we believe a reply should be made.

The article is captioned "Santa Claus in Illinois." The inference is that thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money is being wantonly squandered.

The facts are that this tree nursery property was primarily established to raise black locust trees to be used as the first means of establishing vegetation on sterile ground to prevent further soil erosion in flood control, and soil erosion work being done throughout the state under the CCC camps of the emergency conservation work federal program. This type of tree is being cultivated for the exact reason given by Mr. Kelley—because it will grow and thrive in sterile ground, and with its fast growth and large root system immediately knits and binds together the eroding soil. The work is in charge of trained foresters and is done according to the best practices.

The "three story building," so-called, happens to be a one story building with a loft for storing tools and material, built of rough lumber cut from our state forest by a CCC camp and is a warehouse for packing and holding the seedling trees prior to shipment.

The water system is necessary to the successful propagation of any plant life. This nursery is planned for the future development of state owned lands by reforestation. Thousands of acres of waste lands in the state are fit only for such purposes. When that time comes, not locust but all species of trees will be grown at this nursery.

The investment as stated by Mr. Kelley is ridiculous. The state of Illinois to date has expended no more than $3,000 on this project, including the cost of the land—not $100,000 as stated by him.

C. F. THOMPSON,
Acting Director, Department of Conservation, State of Illinois.

HIGH HAT.

Keokuk, Ia., Nov. 1.—A woman relative of ours came west from the city of Washington some months ago to pay us—her poor relations, as she called us—a visit. She was quite high-hat and condescending. She used to live out this way, years ago, but her husband had been in the government printing office for many years and was drawing a nice, comfortable monthly pension. They winter each year in Florida now.

In addition, one of her sons is attached to the agricultural department, at a sweet salary, and still another son is in the law department of one of the innumerable government bureaus. Not only that, but the wife of each of these men is a clerk or secretary in different departments. Altogether, the eastern branch of our family must take something like $12,000 to $15,000 a year from Uncle Sam [you and me and the other taxpayers.]

Now Mr. Roosevelt has gotten anxious about how these federal employés, our relations and the other 700,000 public trough folk, are going to meet the increased cost of living he expects will be here by next July, so he is going to eliminate the miserable little 5 per cent cut in their salaries next year. This, while we poor devils who have been out of jobs for several years can't even get enough together to pay the grocer and the landlord, let alone look forward to a pension, created by taxpayers' money.

Our favorite printer is now setting up a smallpox sign in boxcar type to be hung on the front door in anticipation of any future visits from government fed kinsfolk.

2 Freed by Federal Court of Attempted Extortion

Two men on trial for attempting to extort $2,000 from Charles Daniel Frey, advertising executive with offices at 333 North Michigan avenue, were freed yesterday by Federal Judge Charles S. Woodward on the ground that the government had failed to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. They are Frederick Suhrber, 46 years old, 2821 Fletcher street, unemployed milk wagon driver, and Frank Jumaga, 30 years old, inmate of a relief shelter at 116 South Green street. The government's case was based on the fact that Suhrber was sitting on a news stand when Frey dropped a dummy package behind it, and Jumaga appeared a short time later and picked up the package.

FRONTIER NURSES TO BRING AID TO INDIAN MOTHERS

Director Describes Expansion Plan.

The first step in spreading to other areas the system of scientific midwifery designed to help mothers and children in lonely frontiers of America, as it is practiced by the Frontier Nursing service in the almost inaccessible Kentucky mountains, was revealed last night by Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, voluntary director of the F. N. S.

She addressed the Northwestern university chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi, national sorority which finances the social service work done by the organization.

Prepare to Aid Indians.

Two Indian girls, a Cherokee and a Chippewa, who were graduated last spring from a nursing course in a Philadelphia hospital, will begin a year's training this month with the Frontier Nursing service. They will then return to their reservations to carry out the F. N. S.'s method of bringing scientific methods by horseback to women in childbirth. The girls are being trained at the request of the Indian bureau. Financing of their year's training is being borne largely by the Colonial Dames of Pennsylvania.

Plan Training Center.

"We have proved what we set out to prove," said Mrs. Breckinridge, who is making her annual tour of the cities to speak in behalf of voluntary contributions to the F. N. S. "We now hope to become a training center as well as a demonstration area. It is heartrending to know there are still so many areas in America where almost nothing is done for mothers."

The nurses in Mrs. Breckinridge's service are graduates in midwifery from accredited training centers in Scotland or England, where the system of scientific midwifery on which the F. N. S. is based is widely used in the Hebrides, the Shetlands and elsewhere, financed largely by the government.

RUSSIAN DESERTER IS SENTENCED TO DIE; FAMILY IS ARRESTED

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Sergei Voronkov, a sailor who deserted the soviet warship Marat at Gdynia, Poland, in September and refused to return to Russia, was sentenced to death today by the military collegium of the Supreme court.

All Voronkov's property was ordered confiscated and his relatives were arrested and ordered before the court for investigation.

The arrests were in compliance with a new section of the criminal code, promulgated last June, providing that adult relatives of military and naval men guilty of treason or espionage who flee abroad may be imprisoned for five to 10 years if they have knowledge of the treasonable plans. They may be exiled to Siberia for five years even if ignorant of the plans.

Sue Carol of Movies Hit by Income Tax Liens

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Sue Carol, motion picture actress, was defendant today in an income tax lien for $1,915 filed in the United States District court. She is alleged to owe $839 for 1929 and $1,076 for 1930.

TRAFIC DOUBLES ON ILLINOIS PART OF BARGE LINES

Record Is Made in Spite of Low Water.

With the navigation season on the Illinois waterway nearing its winter closing so far as the Inland Waterways corporation is concerned, officials of the federal barge line said yesterday that trafic on the waterway had doubled this season over that of last year on the Illinois section of the lakes-gulf waterway.

The shipping officials also estimated that the total tonnage for the entire system would show an increase over 1933. Even better prospects are seen by the officials for next year, some stating that only the surface of the available trafic has been scratched.

Low Water All Season.

The increase has been made this year in spite of low water conditions throughout the season, says a recent issue of the Barge Bulletin, which is published by the trafic department of the federal barge lines at Peoria.

"Last year," says the Bulletin, "the total carried aggregated 275,000 tons. The waterway was not open into Chicago until June of last year, consequently 1934 will be the first full year of operation. Chicago tonnage has has been increasing steadily. Two fleets carrying coal and oil have been operating with considerable regularity all season in addition to the service of the federal barge lines. The latter's tonnage will be for a complete year instead of for a partial one last year.

Movement of Grain Greater.

"The movement of grain from the Illinois valley has increased heavily while sand and gravel, owing to the fact that one company which operated heavily on the Illinois in 1933 removed much of its activity this season to the upper Mississippi, may show a decrease. On the whole, however, the facts give war department officials basis for belief that the final returns will be satisfactorily above those for 1933."

The last northbound tow for Chicago will leave New Orleans tomorrow, and the last southbound tow is scheduled to leave Chicago on Nov. 28, weather conditions permitting. After this tow has left operations of the federal barge lines' boats will cease in the Chicago area. The waterway will not be closed, however, to private interests, it was learned at the United States engineer's office, until ice makes it impassable.

SAFETY BUREAU SQUADS ARREST 39, SUMMON 66

Crews of the eleven new automobiles recently assigned to the police trafic safety bureau answered 233 calls over the week-end, according to figures made public yesterday

Of the 39 persons arrested, 11 were charged with having no 1934 state or city licenses and a like number with reckless driving. The other charges and total arrests were: Speeding, 5; held for coroner's inquests, 5; disorderly conduct, 3; having dirty license plates, 2; leaving the scene of an accident, 2.

The "public safety" crews also issued 66 summonses. Of these, 42 were for ignoring red lights or stop signs, 7 were for improper lights, 6 for driving to the left of street cars, 3 to chauffeurs without licenses, 2 for right of way violations, and 1 for driving with defective brakes.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

"The Gumps" came to life by way of radio yesterday. They'll be on the air over WBBM-CBS at 11:15 a. m. five mornings a week henceforth. Andy and Min of the radio adaptation sounded as if they might have stepped from THE TRIBUNE comic strip. Uncle Bim was not so well cast—too much English accent and altogether too much querulousness for a bridegroom. Of course Bim is no youngster, but he's no dodderer either. The family's quarrels, as presented on the air, seemed somewhat more bitter than the mild altercations of Sidney Smith's cartoon. There's too little humor, too much biting sarcasm in the new air version.

Andy shows more enterprise in the radio adaptation that he ever has in the comics. He actually seems to be a working man—that is, if an inventor may be so regarded. Opening episode reveals him as the creator of an artificial shoe lether for which he promptly turned down an offer of $25,000.

Lorraine Anderson, 814 Dobson street, Evanston, and Russell Byrd, 934 Edgecomb place, tied as first place winners in Carlos Molina's radio singing contest. They will be featured as a duo with Molina's bandsmen and also with Lee Harlan, regular vocalist.

Countess Olga Albani made a dash to New York yesterday to sing on the Isham Jones revue over CBS tonight. When she returns on Thursday she will find her young son, Guardo, 8 years old, freshly arrived from Washington with his grandfather. The boy is to enter school here. After concluding her contract on the NBC Silken Strings program Countess Albani plans to go to Hollywood to play in a Spanish musical picture.

Though the countryside abounds in Eddie Cantor impersonators, the producers of the "Forty-five Minutes in Hollywood" show are having a tough time finding a satisfactory person to mimic the banjo-eyed comedian for next Thursday's broadcast involving a scene from his picture "Kid Millions." More than 50 so-called "perfect doubles" are scheduled for auditions today and tomorrow.

The Chicago Theater of the Air, a Tuesday night feature of W-G-N, has been canceled for tonight because of the election. . . . Judy Talbot, who has been singing all summer with Bob Pacelli's orchestra over W-G-N, is back at WJJD.

Lawrence Tibbett tonight will sing an all request program for celebrities, including two South American presidents, a prime minister, and a prince. The number in tribute to President Juan Vicente Gomez of Venezuela is "The Peanut Vendor."

GASTON MENIER, 'CHOCOLATE KING' OF FRANCE, DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Senator Gaston Menier, 79, known as the "Chocolate King" died at his home here today. He was one of the wealthiest men of France and once owned the leasehold of the island of Anticosti at the mouth of the St. Lawrence. The family fortune was founded by the noted chemist Emil Justin Menier, and was inherited by his sons Henri, Gaston, and Albert, of whom Gaston was last surviving.

The brothers made a model community of Noisiel, France, whose 5,000 inhabitants all were represented in the Menier chocolate industry. The supply of raw materials was from plantations in Nicaragua. The brothers advertised their product all over the world and quickly raised the value of their concern to over $40,000,000.

Henri bought Anticosti island, 330 miles from Quebec, in 1895 for a reported $125,000 from an English company which had failed in developing it. Henri spent $4,000,000 improving living conditions and attempting to transplant Frenchmen to the island, but most of the settlers were French-Canadians. Gaston inherited the island when Henri died and sold it in 1926 for $6,000,000 to the Wayagamack Pulp and Paper company.

Anticosti lies at the mouth of the St. Lawrence dividing the gulf into two channels. The island is about 130 miles long and 27 miles wide, having about 2,000,000 acres.

Until you try it you can't know how a pine scented bath will restore tranquility. A new beauty box contains two bars of cone shaped soap and a bottle of fine pine bath oil.

The big, strong men have always been crazy about the tangy scent of pine, but did you know that it's rapidly becoming one of women's favorites? Especially business women? We saw some figures the other day that were eye-openers.

If pine is one of your pets you'll love the new soap and bath oil box that's around the shops now. The soap, properly green, is cunningly carved to resemble a fat pine cone—almost too effective looking to sacrifice on the altar of cleanliness. There are two bars to a box and set in the center is a handy and capacious bottle of the oil.

The soap is of excellent quality and if you didn't like it for anything else you'd rave about its blandness. It's creamy and mild and soothing to the skin. It's beautifully suited to your winter program if yours is the sort of skin that gets rough and itchy when cold weather rolls around.

The oil is mother's little helper, too. A few drops in the bath water will soften and scent both it and your skin. We're particularly fond of this pine oil for its pick-up qualities. Soaking for a bit in piney water in the morning is good for the disposition. You feel less like murdering the first person who speaks to you before you've had your coffee; you may even whistle or hum in the tub.

But it's when you're weary that the pine bath is the greatest joy. There's something about that fragrance that "unkinks" you. The taut nerves get all limbered and the aches in your bones disappear.

When you come home tired to the point of tears, try a bath with this pine oil before dinner and your date. You'll be so refreshed you can dance until dawn. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Good Morning!

Poor Charlie Chan! What a divil of a time he has finding leisure to spend in the bosom of the multitudinous family he loves so well!

No sooner has the eminent Chinese detective finished with one case than, pop! up comes another to engage his distinguished attention. If they'd pop in or near his own bailiwick, life would be simpler. But, no! It is usually the police of other countries who summon Charlie to their aid.

This time, as the title discloses, Charlie's work is cut out for him in London.

He has finished one job he'd come there to tackle. He is happily preparing to return to China. . . .

And then Miss Pamela Gray enters his life, frantically beseeching him to find the REAL murderer—and so save her innocent brother, who languishes in gaol and is to hang in four days. . . .

The trail starts and ends at the country estate of one Geoffrey Richmond, whose house guests Pamela and Douglas were when the tragedy occurred. . . .

This is a good little program mystery that should thoroughly delight admirers of the suave, slick fiction sleuth created by the late Earl Derr Biggers.

Mr. Oland performs in his customary smooth, beady-eyed fashion. He simply IS Charlie Chan. Supporting players are satisfactory and the director handled his material smartly. Suspense is well maintained and the film is not too long.

See you tomorrow.

Hunting Clubs Plan Parties to Close Season

Dunham Woods Group to Hold Formal Ball.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS gorgeous autumn weather delights every one, of course, but to no one does it mean more than to some one who counts hunting among his recreations. But even the most optimistic knows that such weather cannot last indefinitly, so all the hunt clubs are making plans for their closing festivities. The Mill Creek Hunt had its party [hunter trials and a barbecue luncheon] for the neighboring farmers in Millburn a week ago Sunday and it will have its formal hunt ball the last of this month or the first of December.

The Dunham Woods Hunt will have a hunt ball on Saturday, Dec. 2, and the committee in charge is planning to make it as formal and correct in every detail as possible; quite different from most of the Dunham Woods parties and all the hunts, for they are delightfully informal. Not that the more formal ball won't be delightful, too, but it cannot help but lack the spontaneity and riotous fun that characterize more informal affairs.

The Longmeadow Hunt doesn't have a hunt ball; instead it concentrates on its party for the farmers over whose land, west of Winnetka, it rides all during the season. This year the party will be a dinner dance at the Vista del Lago on Thursday of next week with dancing and movies after dinner for the entertainment of the hosts and guests. Thanksgiving is a big day for the Longmeadow Hunt, for at 8 o'clock that morning the members all go to church; then they hunt and then they assemble at the Ernest S. Ballards' hospitable home for eggnogg. A pleasant custom and one to which the Longmeadow hunters look forward each fall!

Crossetts Change Plans for Carolyn's Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, whose youngest daughter, Carolyn, is a debutante of the season, have changed plans for the party they are giving for her on Christmas night and it will be a dinner dance instead of a supper dance, but it will be given at the Casino, as originally planned. Miss Crossett, who is a student at Bennington college, will more than make up for the rounds of parties she has missed in continuing with her college career by the number of parties which will be given for her during her brief stay in town.

She is coming home for the Thanksgiving week-end, and Mr. and Mrs. Crosett will give a small dinner dance for her on Saturday night, Dec. 1, in their Lake Shore drive apartment. Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr., who every year entertains for several of the debutantes, will give a buffet supper for her and Miss Mary Harrington on the evening of Dec. 30. Miss Crossett will arrive at home for the holidays on Dec. 20, and then will enjoy a longer vacation than the debutantes attending other colleges, for Bennington is generous with its time off in the middle of the year.

Mrs. Edward S. French [Ruth Crossett] and her two baby boys returned Saturday to Crossett, Ark., where the Frenches are living, after a fortnight's visit in Chicago. They may spend Christmas with the Crossetts, but Mrs. French's older sister and her husband, the junior John L. Mothersheads, who are living in Cambridge, Mass., will not come west for the holidays.

Charles S. Davises Will Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis of 1500 Lake Shore drive will give a tea dance at the Casino on Nov. 17 for their daughter, Miss Isabel Davis, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Johnson Davis. Miss Davis, who was graduated from Vassar in 1932, is taking post-graduate work at the University of Chicago and also works one day each week in the clinic of the Children's Memorial hospital and one in that of St. Luke's.

The younger Mrs. Davis is the former Roberta Maple of Plattsburg, W. Va. She and her husband came here about a year ago to live and are occupying an apartment at 1448 Lake Shore drive.

While most families will be sitting in front of their radios this evening listening to election returns, Chicago and north shore Smith alumnae with their husbands and beaux will be en-

Time to Select Monogrammed Gift Hankies

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Again it pops up, this task of warning you that Christmas isn't so distant as it was, and the buyers of handkerchiefs for those who like them monogrammed plead tearfully that you give them three good weeks for the best results. If and when you know to whom such excellent gifts should go, the sooner you leave your orders the better, for the rush will knock you down later. There's nothing much in new ideas, but nothing can be nicer or more beautiful than a good looking monogram superlatively handmade, so the conservative small three letter affairs, the scroll effect for the ladies, and some nice personal signature tricks, outlined in fine embroidery still take the spotlight.

For the laggards who insist upon waiting, thus missing the deadline but still insisting upon initials, there are some extraordinary white and colored handkies with initials already embroidered. They are the loveliest wisps of sheer linen we have ever found and the price mark will make you believe in Santa Claus again. The scroll letters are simply breath-taking with their exquisitely fine workmanship. And the snowy white hankies are fluttering about far more than in other years. With all the laces, silks, satins, and picturesque fashions come the dainty small white squares of cobwebby linen with the narrowest hand rolled hems, the finest stitchery and decoration.

Some large eighteen inch colored squares, imported, have tall, thin initials. You can find raspberry, green, peach, blue, and yellow, with contrasting embroidery. The find of the season is the kids' handkies, seven white linen squares of a good, comfortable size, with each day of the week embroidered in color across one corner, one neat nose wiper for each day in the week, all packed in a box ready for use. They are one of the best ideas ever offered to cruising relatives as to what to take home to the youngsters.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The most popular show of the last year in the east had its Chicago première in the Grand Opera House last night to a full attendance of highly expectant and completely rewarded playgoers—the ticket buyers of the old school who have been suffering greatly from deprivation of their favorite amusement. This production is, of course, "As Thousands Cheer," the revue that pretends to be a visualized newspaper, effervescing with satirical skits about headline events.

This crisp and witty frolic is a complete fulfillment of the proper definition of a revue. That is to say, it reviews and ridicules with intelligence matters that have been the talk of the man on the street. Written more than a year and a half ago, it has always been in danger of having its themes drop out of fashion; but the librettist and producer were smart and also lucky; therefore its jokes, japes, charades and burlesques have remained almost as fresh and as funny as they were at its start in life. I suspect that "As Thousands Cheer" deserves to be called, because of its pertinent topical interest, the perfect revue.

The program is a series of diverting episodes in light satire, broken now and then by spirited and spectacular ballet numbers. An agreeable collection of songs by Irving Berlin, who has given the piece a score of ambitious texture, is also among the values that "As Thousands Cheer" has to offer.

The performance moves swiftly through many changes of scene. The principals are players of accomplishment and renown in the song-and-dance field, and poise, coherence and a mood of witty merriment pervade the bill. This is an admirably organized affair in every particular.

"As Thousands Cheer" arrives with its cast unaltered and its physical equipment unimpaired. As it is now at the Grand Opera house, so it was at the Music Box in New York. A fanatic on the subject of original casts might announce that Dorothy Stone is a replacement for Marilyn Miller, but that happy thought occurred midway in the Broadway engagement, and it is generally agreed that Miss Stone, who has a captivating way of getting better, brighter, and prettier in every sense, is an improvement over her predecessor.

The leading spirits in the frolic, in addition to Miss Stone, are Clifton Webb, versatile comedian and agile dancer, an ultra-sophisticate and also a gallant wag; Helen Broderick, an actress who has a perfect style for the higher forms of Broadway irony, and Ethel Waters, character singer who leads the field of Negro entertainers. The players of the secondary rôles are completely in the spirit of the show. The ballet folk are unusually effective; and the chorus is an engaging group.

The sketches call upon the principals to contribute many impersonations of real life characters whose faces and gestures are familiar to their audiences; and they demonstrate surprising skill in conveying such illusions. Thus Clifton Webb ranges from John D. Rockefeller Sr., on his 95th birthday, to Mahatma Ghandi in his ascetic state of undress; and Miss Stone changes herself like a chameleon from Joan Crawford to Lynn Fontanne. The full list of impersonations would form too long a roll call; go and see this impish gallery of mock celebrities for yourself. My first choice goes to Mr. Webb's clever portrait of the doddering but canny John D., and to Miss Stone's joyous mockery of Lynn Fontanne's mannerisms.

IRVING BERLIN and his hostess, Ruth Page, stepped to the dance floor at the French Casino Sunday evening, and before they had danced a quarter of the way around the room the orchestra broke into "Alexander's Rag-Time Band," Berlin's first big success, then into "Heat Wave," one of his latest. The orchestra conductor had seen the greatest song writer of them all and was paying tribute.

WORD had gone backstage that Berlin was out in front, but I kept wondering if the show girls knew that those other big shots of the show business, Hassard Short and Moss Hart and Max Siegel, were at the table, too. Short, who has staged and lighted a long series of hits, from the "Music Box Revue" through "The Band Wagon" and "Three's a Crowd" to "As Thousands Cheer" and "The Great Waltz." (Last night Berlin paid him the compliment of telling him that the best number of all is the Rotogravure number in "As Thousands Cheer.") Moss Hart, dynamic, forceful, with black eyes and a black pompadour, did the sketches for the current production at the Grand and wrote, with George Kaufman, "Once in a Lifetime" and "Merrily We Roll Along." Max Siegel, the handsomest of the contingent of theatrical men who came out for last night's opening, is the right hand man of Sam Harris.

Composer Virgil Thomson also was a guest of Tom Fisher and Ruth Page at Sunday night's party, a little blond man in a striped shirt with a bow tie under his chin. He was seated beside Irving Berlin and Mr. Siegel whispered, "Which of the two is the greater, do you think?" Most interesting of all the theater talk was perhaps that of the future production of "Nijinsky," from Romola Nijinsky's book about her husband's career, the rights to which Mr. Siegel induced Sam Harris to purchase. Paul Muni is spoken of as a possibility for the lead.

COSMIC justice. Ida Evans quoted Edwin Markham to a friend, "This modern sculpture and painting is horrible, senseless, devoid of art." And the friend, a devotee of modern art, queried innocently, "Who's he? Never heard of him."

INEBRIATE addenda. It was the last night of A Century of Progress. A young fellow, weaving over the Swift bridge, commented to his companion: "I don't know where I'm going, but it's none of my business."

A CANDIDATE for the office of county assessor finished making a campaign speech over the radio a few evenings ago and a piano number followed his speech. "Easy Come, Easy Go," was the selection announced.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack, of apparent position and wealth, is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Brierley, who is serving a twenty year sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The Canadian solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Rhoda meets Jack Caermaen. Stornack follows. Later he calls on Caermaen and they quarrel. Jack suspects Stornack of the crime for which Colin was convicted.

INSTALMENT XIV.

RHODA'S PROBLEM.

When she got home that night Rhoda gave a very vague account of her day's doings and Mrs. Cornboise did not press her for details. To Mrs. Cornboise now there was only one thing that mattered—that Rhoda should marry Ralph Stornack as soon as she could be induced to do so.

In her desperation she had unconsciously adopted something of Stornack's own tactics. She stopped storming at Rhoda and pretended to encourage her to recover her health, believing that 'in a week or two' the girl would see sense.

Stornack asked her no questions about her day's outing. Part of the charm he held for her was the fact that he never worried her with questions.

Days slipped into weeks and a routine established itself. She walked a good deal, often with Major Stornack, and he would entertain her with stories of strange lands and adventures with wild animals. He was still heavily on her conscience—the more so as she had already planned on escape from him no less than from her mother.

In the next weeks she wrote and received two letters from Colin. Poor Colin could tell her no more than that he loved her. But he found different ways of saying it and his letters brought her infinite delight.

One Monday she received a letter from Caermaen saying that Rawlings and his wife had been to Mardlehurst and would be extremely glad to have her in London and look after her for a small charge. They would expect her on the following Monday.

Escape! Her heart bounded with joy, then suddenly came doubt and uncertainty.

Mrs. Cornboise had joyfully noticed that of late the girl's spirits had been much better and had actually concluded that her resistance to the marriage was ebbing.

It was the afternoon of the day on which Rhoda received the letter from Caermaen that Mrs. Cornboise lifted her ban on callers. Previously she had been 'not at home.' Now, when a couple of old friends called she received them, with Rhoda, in the drawing room.

The callers would have tactfully avoided the subject of the lapse of memory but it was Mrs. Cornboise herself who forced it to the front and talked all about it. For she had decided that she would force Rhoda's hand.

Her babble came as through a mist to Rhoda, who was sitting by herself on a settee near the fireplace.

"And in spite of all the learned things the doctors say it was Ralph who really discovered the cause of it all—that's Major Stornack, Lady Doucester, a perfectly charming man and you must meet him. It was simply fatigue through over working. You see, he travels a great deal and the silly girl started trying to learn two or three foreign languages at once. She had a sort of breakdown."

This was entirely mythical. She had never studied any languages but Rhoda was compelled to let it pass. Presently she was aware that she was shaking hands with the callers and that they were leaving.

Then her mother's voice again, a little querulous this time.

"Dearest, I don't think it was very nice of you to shake hands with Lady Doucester sitting down. Nor with Mrs. Garfield for that matter."

"I'm sorry, mother," she answered indifferently, "I was feeling rather faint—and I thought I might topple over . . . I think I'll go to my room."

Rhoda got up wearily, unaware of her mother's intense scrutiny.

"Rhoda!"

She caught her breath as her mother flew to her side, gripped her by both wrists and stared down at her with horror-stricken eyes.

"Rhoda! . . . You are going to have a baby!"

From the girl there came a little silvery sound that was a laugh, not of amusement or defiance, but of gladness.

"Yes, mother, I think so."

In her voice was pride and dignity and romance. For at that moment Rhoda had forgotten everything except that she was profoundly happy.

It was natural in the circumstances that Rhoda should be self-centered. Her intelligence might have to battle with adverse circumstances, but in her personality she was a wife, happy in her love, what ever hardships it might bring in its train.

Mrs. Cornboise released her daughter's wrists, swayed uncertainly, then dropped on the sofa, her face in her hands.

"This is the last straw—the final disgrace!" she sobbed.

For an instant only Rhoda felt anger. Then she realized that she was being unfair. Slowly she came out of her preoccupation with herself. She must be gentle to her mother, but somehow she could not feel pity.

The final disgrace! Her mother had not looked on the problem with sympathy—had seen it only in its worldly aspect.

"I'm very sorry if it's a blow to you, mother."

"Don't talk like that!" snapped Mrs. Cornboise. "My daughter! Haven't you even the grace to be ashamed of yourself?"

"No." For Jack Caermaen's sake she must practice all the deception that was necessary. But it was not necessary to assert that there was any kind of disgrace whatever in her love.

Again she tried to see things from her mother's point of view.

"I've been a dreadful disappointment to you, mother. It isn't much good our storming at each other because we—we're bound to look at things so differently. I had better go away and you must try and forget all about me."

"Be quiet while I think what is to be done."

"But there's nothing to be done!" protested Rhoda. "I'll just write a note to Maj. Stornack——"

"You'll write nothing! And don't breathe a word to your father. Go to your room."

But no sooner had she shut the door of her room than it was flung open and her mother came in and locked it behind her.

"Who is your lover?"

Rhoda had tried to be gentle. And all that happened was that her mother stormed at her like a fishwife.

"I don't remember."

"That's a lie! You needn't try to work any more of this lapse of memory nonsense on me. You ran off with some man. Who was it?"

Rhoda sat down at her dressing table.

"Will you tell Major Stornack, mother, or shall I?"

"You refuse to tell me the name of your lover?"

Rhoda faced her mother.

"I don't want to be pert and cheeky to you, mother. But what is the good of our shouting at each other?" If you think I've disgraced you I've—I've nothing to say. And I'll go away. I can leave tomorrow."

"You're not going to do anything until I've had time to decide," said Mrs. Cornboise.

"I'm over age, mother. You can't prevent my going away."

It was a minute or more before Mrs. Cornboise spoke.

"Yes, you're over age. All the same, I can still control you. You are going to obey me just as if you were under twenty-one."

"I'm sorry, mother, but I won't."

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is an applique pattern which is not at all difficult to sew; and if the chosen color scheme is lilac, or red and white, the resultant coverlet is outstandingly successful. The block is a native of Virginia, where these hardy little plants bloom in profusion. Alternating plain blocks of this quilt may be in two harmonizing shades of the predominant color of the applique block.

Under Sea Film Really Will Be Shot Under Sea

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Camera crews and actors will be submerged under the ocean surface, according to announcement at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, to shoot scenes in "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." The studio disclaims intent to use any trick photography and announces that an expedition will photograph many scenes in the waters of the Bahama Islands, some in the Mediterranean, and others probably in the South Seas besides the nearby Pacific.

Arthur Cæsar, the scenarist, hangs this sign in the studio office where he writes his scripts: "I'd rather work than be right." Cæsar is the writer who recently completed the talkie adaptation of the ever successful "McFadden's Flats" for Paramount. Some one asked him if he had changed things much from the silent version that made so much money under direction of Richard Wallace. "That story has already taken in $4,000,000 at the movie box office," said Cæsar. "Why should I change anything?"

One of Herbert Mundin's proudest possessions is a newspaper clipping about a country outing in England. It relates that Mrs. W. H. Neither suffered any serious effects and the boat is as good as it ever was.

Age Difference Is Not Always Love Problem

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A young man of twenty-five reports the contemplated marriage of himself to a woman ten years his senior. The woman's earning capacity is a good deal better than his. She is engaged in professional work, his occupational work he calls "much humbler." The date is set for the end of the year, but now he begins having qualms. Will people say she's been robbing a cradle? Will people say he married for money? The understanding between the pair is that he is to handle one-third of the expenses, she the balance. It is her idea. It makes him feel sometimes "like a tramp taken in and given room and board."

It might work. It might turn out successfully. But, for one case with so many odds against it, a hundred fail. The age difference is the least of the complications, although it becomes a serious one when the man suggests the possibility of people accusing him of being robbed from a cradle. It's his consciousness or unconsciousness of the age difference that matters, more than the woman's.

Along with this, if the young man feels less than one-half the partnership—only a third of it, to be exact, in this case—that is not going to contribute to his self-esteem. If he is now given to periods of feeling like a tramp taken in, we're afraid marriage will simply emphasize these moods.

We do not think that a young man, obviously imbued with the idea of being the man of the house, under the circumstances outlined, would have the happiest time in the world in such a marriage. But who on earth knows how marriages will turn out?

If love is so deeply rooted that no other woman seems so wonderful, who are we to suggest that the circumstances named will make marriage too difficult?

Play Apparatus for Child May Be Homemade

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Yesterday we were talking about the importance of play—and about how little the word describes its seriousness and importance in a young child's life—or in an older one's, for that matter.

We mentioned the two meanings that the word has for us. That is, first, the frolicsome, free physical activity and games of children; and, second, their concern with their toys and playthings and those furnishings of the house which alas! often appeal to them more than their own belongings.

If we add to these two connotations of the word play still one more, we have about covered its meaning. That third one includes such activities as climbing, swinging on rings, going down slides, using tools, and so forth.

The ordinary home, provided it is not too cramped and is ruled over by intelligent grownups, can provide a child with practically all he needs to satisfy his play desires.

The inexperienced mother—or sometimes nurse—does not always know just how to supply the play needs of a young child. Or she may feel that the great activity of the child demands more ingenuity in the supplying of outlets than she possesses. The result of this feeling is frequently a letter to me saying "What other playthings can you suggest?" or "Can you give me suggestions as to how to build a horizontal ladder or a baby swing?"

We haven't these exact directions in our service literature—it would make such a long leaflet—but we have the names of fine pamphlets and books which fill this need in practical detail. Ask for our Play leaflet if you are in need of this kind of help. Please accompany your request with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pectin Joins Grape Juice in Perfect Jellies

Commercial Products Come to Ready Rescue.

South Side—Trianon ballroom, Nov. 6, 7, 8, and 9.

West Side—Guyon's Paradise ballroom, Nov. 13, 14, 15, and 16.

North Side—Aragon ballroom, Nov. 20, 21, 22, and 23.

All schools will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

BY MARY MEADE.

Did Concord grapes catch you napping this year? If so, you are excused—and you weren't alone. For how was a girl to know that the whole luscious crop was going to descend upon jelly makers two weeks earlier than usual—and that it would be hardly more than 40 per cent of the normal harvest?

But if your own cupboards failed to pile up sufficient jellies to suit your needs don't waste any splashing tears over the matter, for all the grapes and all the flavor you missed are already sealed away, ready for your jelly kettle. We have to thank the grape juice bottlers who must have had an inside tip that the purple bunches were planning a surprise. Even they, we hear, had to stay up nights with their presses to dispose of the sudden harvest, reported to be unusually rich and sweet in flavor this year due to the odd tricks of the weather man during the ripening season.

To make possible the jellying act, since full flavored, ripened grapes have been used in juice making, some type of commercial fruit pectin is necessary. This may be obtained in either dry powder or in liquid bottled form. The recipe and method will vary somewhat, depending upon which type of pectin you use. A one ounce envelope of powdered pectin is the equivalent in jellying power to one-half bottle of liquid pectin. To make up for the water content of the liquid pectin, recipes calling for the dry variety add one-half cup of water in addition to the fruit juice for each package of powdered pectin used.

We've offered grape jelly made with the bottled pectin numerous times before, so this time let's give the envelope type a chance.

Grape Jelly.

2 cups bottled grape juice
½ cup water
3 cups sugar
1 one ounce envelope powdered pectin

Bring the grape juice and water to a boil. Stir in the contents of the pectin envelope. Add the sugar at once and stir until it is dissolved. Bring the mixture to a boil again and boil hard for three minutes. Remove from the stove and let stand for one minute. Then skim, pour into sterile jelly glasses, and seal at once with melted paraffin.

But just one word of warning. Since recipes for certain brands of powdered fruit pectin on the market vary somewhat from this general method, it's well, in making use of your grape juice, to read carefully the instructions coming with the type of pectin which you purchase.

But even if you were the smart girl and filled your jelly shelves while jellying was good, there's still more fun for you if bottles of grape juice are also lined up in the cupboard. If you can find your crank freezer bring it forth and feed it an:

Old Fashioned Grape Ice Cream.

3 eggs
¾ cup sugar
3 cups heavy cream
3 cups bottled grape juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt

Beat the eggs until fluffy, then add the sugar and beat until the mixture is thick and light. Add the unbeaten cream and blend well. Add the fruit juices and the salt. Turn into an ice-and-salt freezer, packed with eight parts of ice to one part of ice cream salt. Crank until frozen. This will make about two quarts.

Or if you have an eye for tall drinks, as well as a longing for grape juice, marry your desires and order:

Grape Rickey.

2 pints bottled grape juice
6 teaspoons granulated sugar
6 limes
2 pints charged water
Cracked ice

Half fill six tall glasses with grape juice. Add to each the juice of one lime and one teaspoon of granulated sugar. Slide cracked ice into the glasses and fill each with charged water.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

MORE ABOUT THE MINIMUM RAISE.

I have devoted considerable space to split hands with four trumps to support the partner's opening bid because they are of the no trump type, not of the suit raising type at all, in spite of their four trumps. Consequently, it is important to explain the type of hand with which I do not raise despite the strong trump support, in order to distinguish clearly the type of hand with which the raise should be made. When you have four trumps,

Every Distribution Other than 4-3-3-3 suggests the raise in your partner's suit, unless, naturally, you are strong enough to bid two no trumps or take out in another suit. From now on, therefore, we will assume that all responding hands under discussion have at least one doubleton. At present let us consider only major suits.

At What Point May We Raise Instead of Passing?

Many of you have been accustomed to put a responding hand of this kind through a process of arithmetical computation in order to decide whether to bid or pass. I am going to suggest a very simple test which will meet your requirements in practical and satisfactory manner. I think you should give your partner a chance whenever there is great probability that if he becomes declarer in his suit he will be able to

in order to take finesses toward his own hand, either in trumps or in off suits. Having four trumps, we may immediately because it nearly always turns out to be so. Occasionally both partners will hold doubletons in the same suit—a form of duplication. This cannot be helped, nor can it be discovered within a low bidding range. When it happens, the consequences will not be very serious.

A doubleton really bears two gifts—you are sure not to lose more than two tricks in that suit, and also you have a reëntry on the third round of that suit. Only rarely will you be overruffed, and then it frequently helps to shorten that opponent's trumps by a ruff or overruff rather than by using two of your own trumps to extract that same trump from his hand.

Your Second Reëntry.

Your second reëntry should be a high card. A card as good as the queen in the trump suit will serve this purpose admirably; otherwise you should have a primary trick somewhere, or a king in one suit and Q J x in another would be acceptable, especially if your four trumps were headed by the jack. If your partner has bid a spade, the following are the weakest hands on which to raise to two spades with 4-4-3-2 distribution:

Sp.—Q x x x Di.—x x x x
Ht.—x x Cl.—x x x

or

Sp.—x x x x Di.—K x x
Ht.—x x Cl.—Q J x x

or

Sp.—x x x Di.—A x x x x
Ht.—x x Cl.—x x x

and the same advice would apply on corresponding holdings if your partner had bid hearts instead of spades. Naturally, with these weak hands you must sign off in all subsequent bidding, as game is unlikely unless the opening bidder is strong enough to force or jump to game on his next response. If he bids two no trumps over your raise, your signoff is not a pass, but a rebid to three spades. You thus tell him that your first raise was merely a chance giving one, and that from your holdings the hand appears unsafe except in a spade contract, and that not at the game level. If opener overrides the signoff and goes on to three no trumps or four spades, he must do so solely on his own responsibility.

Where There Is No Misfit There Is No Disaster.

We find that bidding developed from a minimum raise on the first round leads us with great delicacy to many games which the cards deliver because of the perfect fit, although the opening hand, considered by itself, is far from imposing, while the responding hand appears to be a pitiful collection of thirteen worthless cards. Only when bid as a unit of twenty-six cards—for that is how they must be played—do the two hands reveal their possibilities. The bidding can be carried on restfully and without apprehension of a calamitous double, because after the first round both partners know that there will be no eventual misfit declaration—they can always revert to the original suit. They may be set, but they will never be slaughtered. With this assurance, there is every reason to develop the bidding with courage or even audacity. It is only when there is no possible fit that massacres occur. Big penalties have their origin in misfits and rescues, not in light raises.

Hunting Clubs Plan Parties to Close Season

joying the second night of the stage revue, "As Thousands Cheer," at the Grand Opera house. The Evanston and North Shore Smith club has taken over the entire main floor and part of the balcony as a benefit for its scholarship fund, and to judge by all of the parties that have been arranged it is to be a gay evening.

Miss Jean Armstrong, a recent Smith graduate, is to be in the lobby vending flowers and cigarets along with Miss Mary Cushman, Miss Annie Mason, Miss Elizabeth Williams, Miss Eleanor Bellows, Mrs. Philip Pillsbury, Miss Marjorie Bertha, Mrs. Henry Brigham Jr., and Miss Marjorie Spiegel. Most of the audience will come from dinner parties both in town and on the north shore.

Theater Party for Debutante.

Last night the theater was gay with socialites attending the première of the revue. The largest party was one given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson for attractive Miss Caryl Ely, debutante daughter of Mrs. Jay Morse Ely. Those who were the Ryersons' guests, first at dinner at the Casino and then at the Grand, were Mrs. Ely, the Kimball Salisburys, the Samuel J. Walkers and Prince Michael Cantacuzene, and a large group of young people.

Miss Olga Beneke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beneke, has set Dec. 1 as the date for her marriage to Jansen Wendell Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Taylor of Wilmington, Del. The service will be read at 4 o'clock at the home of her parents, with a reception following.

Miss Beneke will have her sister for her maid of honor, and Mr. Taylor will be served by his brother Reeves as best man. To the delight of all of Miss Beneke's friends, she and Mr. Taylor are to make their home in Highland Park after they return from their wedding trip.

American Opera Luncheon Today.

Those who attend the opening program and luncheon of the American Opera society today at the Arts club will hear much about "Four Saints in Three Acts," for Virgil Thomson, composer of the music for Gertrude Stein's libretto, is to be a guest and Rousseau Voorhees is to talk about the opera and Miss Stein.

Another distinguished guest will be Louis Gruenberg, composer of "Emperor Jones" and "Jack and the Beanstalk." The program, to precede the luncheon, will start at 11:30 o'clock. Seated at Miss Emily Larned's table—she is president of the society—at luncheon will be Mr. Thomson, Mr. Gruenberg, Mrs. Charles H. Swift [Claire Dux], Giuseppe Bentonelli, and Irving Berlin.

Members of the David Bispham Memorial Award will be Mrs. Archibald Freer's guests, and among others who will enjoy the program and the luncheon will be Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Miss Nellie Carpenter, Mrs. William Burry, Mrs. George W. Meeker, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Hal C. Bangs, Miss Narcissa Swift, Miss Janet Fairbank, Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. Lyman T. Walker, Mrs. Moses Wentworth, and Mrs. Dennison Hull.

Orphan Asylum Board to Hold Tea Today.

Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw is opening her home at 2450 Lake View avenue this afternoon for a tea of the board of managers of the Chicago Orphan asylum, that home that does such a noble work among homeless children without ever asking the public for financial assistance. The party commemorates the birthdays of the late Mancel Talcott and David Wallack, both of whom were trustees and large benefactors to the asylum.

There will be motion pictures to show the boys and girls in their foster homes and in school. Miss Ruth Lester, president of the board of managers, who is just back from an extended European holiday, and Mrs. Botsford Young, whose family has been interested in the asylum for many years, will assist Mrs. Shaw as hostess. Mrs. Shaw has been a trustee of the asylum since 1899.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne will talk on her adventures in collecting articles for her miniature rooms before the English Speaking union at the tea hour this afternoon at the Tavern club.

The English Speaking union has suggested to its members that they write letters to Mayor Kelly urging that Merrie England at A Century of Progress be kept intact.

Southern Woman's Educational Alliance.

The Southern Woman's Educational alliance will have a benefit card party at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Parkway hotel. Hostesses will be Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Hubert Burnham, Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, Mrs. William A. Pusey, Mrs. Hal Crompton Bangs, Mrs. H. M. Pulsifer, and Mrs. L. S. Hungerford.

Miss Alice Barler will preside at the annual business meeting of the Chicago Wells club this morning in the apartment of Miss Honor Merrell, president of the national organization of alumnæ, at 209 Lake Shore drive.

"'The Faith of an Armorer' or the International Trade in Murder" is the subject of Dr. Horace J. Bridges' second of a series of lectures at the Fortnightly, to be given this morning at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. James S. Bowers Jr. will entertain at luncheon today for the ticket committee for the ball the Sunbeam league will hold Nov. 17 at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Bowers' home is at 424 Melrose street.

Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison will pour at the meeting of Le Cercle Français this afternoon in its clubrooms.

There will be a large and representative audience at the parish house of the Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park this evening for the first of a series of lectures on current events by Clifton Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. The series is sponsored by the Rectors' guild of the church.

Virginia Lamson Returning to Paris.

Mrs. Arthur M. Barnhart and her son, Arthur Barnhart, left late Saturday on a three weeks' motor trip east. They will spend most of their time at the Lake Placid club with short trips into New York and Boston.

After a year's absence Mrs. Allen L. Withers and her daughter, Miss Allene Withers, have returned from California and taken an apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue. They will be here for three months. Tomorrow Miss Withers, who was a debutante last year and was graduated from Sarah Lawrence college in June, will leave for the east to visit school friends and attend several important football games.

Now that Mrs. Barrett King has superintended the packing of the Story Cove, the children's library of the Enchanted Island, she is leaving for the west for a holiday of several weeks. When she returns she will decide with Victor Elting, Mrs. William B. Hale, and other members of the International Relations library board on a permanent home for the juvenile library. The only international children's library anywhere, the board is especially interested in preserving it in a setting that children may easily use and enjoy.

Curtis McWhinneys to Live Here Again.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis McWhinney, who have been living in Greenwich for the last few years, are returning to Chicago to make their home here again. They spent the summer in Highland Park, but went east in the fall to make arrangements about their home there. Now Miss Jane McWhinney is in town again, staying with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Daniels until her parents come on.

The Frederick Keiths decided last week to give up their apartment at 237 East Delaware place and move to 2136 Lincoln Park west. After Christmas they will go south for a holiday at Sarasota, Fla.

Mrs. Columbus Healy, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Edward W. Pardridge of 209 Lake Shore drive, will remain for another week before leaving to rejoin Mr. Healy and their son in their new home in Seattle, Wash. Numerous parties have been given for Mrs. Healy.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' KITCHEN ENSEMBLE.

Ensembles actually have invaded the kitchen, and it's a good idea. The dress illustrated is a smart frock of sports linen with pretty and comfortable short sleeves. The matching one-piece apron gives the appearance of being part of the dress, and it may be removed in a jiffy. It makes housework pleasant, and completion of tasks is swift when one is becomingly and prettily dressed. Percale, cotton broadcloth, gingham, and other wash materials will make up well.

The pattern, No. 3490, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure.

NotedAntiques Await Sale to Aid Hospitals

Palmer Mansion Will Be Open for Preview.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

When the auctioneer's hammer falls a week from today in the velvet walled ballroom of the old Potter Palmer mansion, everything from bracelets to bedsteads, pottery to portraits will go on sale for the benefit of the Children's Memorial and St. Luke's hospitals. With Arabian Nights splendor the turreted house at 1350 Lake Shore drive is filled with treasures gathered from the attics and drawing rooms of more than one hundred distinguished Chicago homes.

Members of the women's boards of the two hospitals conducted a preview of the collection yesterday. Next Monday the mansion will be opened for a formal preview for which $1 admission will be charged and next Tuesday the auction will commence to continue through the sale of the last objet d'art. One dollar will also be asked as admission to the auction, but it will be refunded upon a purchase.

Mrs. Frank Hibbard, chairman of the auction, told some of the stories associated with the various pieces yesterday while Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings reminisced of the days when they danced a cotillion in the handsome ballroom.

It was last spring that Mrs. Hibbard, noted for her ideas for charity benefits, suggested an auction of antique and modern furnishing collected from Chicago homes to help provide more free or partly free care for the patients of the hospitals and the clinics. All summer and throughout the fall her committee has been at work gathering the articles that run the gamut from oriental through European to the early American.

Mrs. Paul Delano Hamlin must have shed a fond tear when she parted with her contribution. It is a signed portrait of Admiral Dewey aboard the S. S. Mayflower, one of the ships of the civil war. The painting for years has been one of her treasured possessions.

In the alcove of the Palmer ballroom there has been set up the lovely old French bed done in yellow brocade that belonged to Mrs. George R. Nichols. Mrs. Nichols has also given a carved stone mantel, a pair of historic gilded cups, and a lovely old Persian vase that was exhibited at the Columbian Exposition.

Dominating the collection are three dining room tables, each from an important household, spread with silver, glass, and chinaware that is equally valuable. The handsomely carved mahogany table with a dozen matching chairs from the Lake Forest house of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe is certain to be one of the first auction items to go.

On exhibit it is set with stunning crystal and gold glassware and candelabra that some kind friend left anonymously on the Palmer doorstep.

The table that Mrs. Hibbard has given is set with blue glass that Mrs. Cummings purchased for a nautical party she gave at her town apartment a couple of years ago.

From the collections of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour there is a Chinese relic of the Ming dynasty and from Robert Allerton's Monticello home a half dozen gilt chairs and two gilt stools covered with pink brocade, all of them splendid antiques.

Mrs. Valentine has added a beautifully carved drawing room table. Mrs. Robert R. McCormick's contribution is a pair of stunning Italian iron stools covered in old red velvet, and from her French house in Lake Bluff Mrs. Howard Linn has sent a pair of crystal vases.

Lemon Juice Is Valued Agent in Health, Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Among the economical cosmetic items is the good old yellow lemon, no less.

You know, don't you, that the combination of lemon and orange juice in the breakfast glass is now advocated as better than the orange juice alone? Parents are seeing to it that their youngsters get the benefit of both orange and lemon juice in the morning.

One lemon enthusiast claims for the juice that it is the one and only cosmetic equally good inside or out.

A number of women begin their day with a dash of lemon juice in the glass of water before breakfast. They can't begin the day without it, in fact. But it is more of its relation to teeth that we would speak today.

Lemon juice taken internally contains vital elements necessary to making the teeth strong and good. Its protective vitamins operate effectively to lessen tooth decay and gum trouble, we are told, thereby preserving not only the beauty of the teeth but also of the face itself. Good teeth are the basis of facial contours. That clean cut, well rounded line for which beauty seekers strive in massage and face pattings, is first dependent on good jaw formation underneath.

Get enough of the vital elements such as are found abundantly in fresh fruits as lemons, etcetera, and the pink tooth brush bugaboo won't scare you, say dentists.

An interesting experiment was conducted a while ago on a group of children at Mooseheart, Ill. Theories that citrus fruit juice was a big help in maintaining a healthy mouth had been held by a group of dentists. The addition in the daily diet of two glasses of fresh orange and lemon juice showed a great reduction in tooth decay and gum troubles and increased rates of sound tooth growth were recorded.

Good Shepherd Auxiliary.

The auxiliary of the House of the Good Shepherd will hold its annual meeting at 2 o'clock today at the House of the Good Shepherd, 1126 Grace street. The Rev. Edward S. Byrne wil speak. Mrs. George W. Mahoney is president of the auxiliary.

Miss Stein Flunks Class of Princeton Students, Faculty

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Gertrude Stein, modernist poet and author, made her speaking debut before a college audience tonight, befuddling 500 Princeton undergraduates and faculty members with extracts from her works.

"I was tremendously concerned in finding out what was myself inside of me," she said among other things, "I think that's general of college students.

"The only way you can live without being bored," she said later, "is to feel that every individual has a history that is worth investigating."

Her remark—"Why make a fuss about grammar when any 13 year old can learn it"—drew laughter and applause.

When she asked at the conclusion of her lecture if there were any questions, her dazed audience made no reply. She grinned and walked off the platform.

"A friend who is a nurse told me first about Midol, and I am more grateful to her every month that passes now without any serious pain when I used to suffer terribly."

Plenty of Midol users could make a similar statement! Many have been induced to try these tablets because a nurse, physician, or perhaps some friend has assured them that Midol is quite safe, is not a narcotic, and does give definite relief from periodic pain.

Midol acts immediately, and is effective several hours. A couple of tablets should see you through your worst day. Don't be afraid of the speed with which it takes hold; Midol is as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache.

All drug-stores have these tablets, and all you have to do is look for them on the counter, or ask for Midol. Tuck the slim case in your purse and keep it there, so you'll be prepared. Midol has brought new comfort and new comfort to many women.

NEW ATTORNEY OF HAUPTMANN SEES HIS CLIENT

Says Lindy Suspect "Has No Care in World."

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Edward J. Reilly, Brooklyn attorney, recently retained as counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, saw his client for the first time today and reported that he "seems as if he didn't have a care in the world."

The lawyer said he was convinced Hauptmann was innocent of the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., for which he will go on trial Jan. 2, and predicted an acquittal.

Poses for News Reels.

The interview took place in the Hunterdon county jail. At its conclusion Mr. Reilly went to the public park to the rear of the jail, where he posed for news reels, told of his impressions of the prisoner, and said pleasant things about Flemington and its people.

The new defense attorney's first talk with his client lasted about 15 minutes.

"I found him very calm, cool and collected," Mr. Reilly said. "He seems as if he didn't have a care in the world. I expect to see him at least in a week and Mr. Fisher will see him daily."

Wife Sees Suspect, Too.

Mrs. Hauptmann also visited her husband. She emerged smiling, and reported that her husband was "feeling fine."

Hauptmann is being shaved twice weekly by a state trooper. One day this week a local barber will give him a haircut.

Sheep to Drink Sulphur.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Nov. 6, 1934.

NEW experiments now being considered at THE TRIBUNE Experimental Farm will, in some cases, require great patience because some of them to be started within the next few months may extend over a period of several years. Giving sheep sulphur water to see if the weight of wool fiber can be increased is one of these long time experiments.

Before Clarence Thurow, manager, decided on the test of giving sheep water from a sulphur-charged well on THE TRIBUNE farm, information was obtained from various animal breeding and wool authorities and chemists. The sulphur content of wool fiber varies from 4 to more than 5 per cent, according to authorities. Mysteries of science baffle men in their effort to determine definitly what causes this variation, although much is known about the factors that influence the amount of wool produced by sheep.

Mr. Thurow hopes that in his practical test of giving some of his sheep water from a sulphur well he may discover one of the reasons for the variation in the chemical composition of wool fiber.

But here are some of the discouraging reports received by Mr. Thurow when he was considering the test: George Humphrey, animal husbandry department, University of Wisconsin, says that on good authority work in European countries, as well as in this country, leads to the conclusion that feeding sulphur or the use of sulphur water does not influence the growth of wool.

"The factors which have to do with the amount of wool produced by sheep include the matter of breed and breeding to secure strains of sheep which tend to excel in the density and quality of fiber, and feeding and care to procure normal growth and maintenance of the given flock of sheep," added Mr. Humphrey.

"Management, furthermore, to insure perfect health at all times is another most important factor. It has been demonstrated how a weakness in a given fiber of wool coincides with a diseased condition of the sheep at the particular time during the growth of the fiber of wool."

Other tests in the breeding and feeding of the flocks at THE TRIBUNE Experimental Farm near Yorkville and at the auxiliary farm near Wheaton are in progress or are being planned to make practical farm tests of some of the factors referred to by Mr. Humphrey."

Prof. P. A. Anderson, sheep and meats section, University of Minnesota, says that there has been considerable work done in different parts of the world in the use of different feeds and chemicals that might influence the growth of wool.

Some of them have been rather negative in character, others have shown some favorable results, and some of the work is still being carried on. He adds, however, "as far as increasing the weight of wool by feeding sulphur or sulphur compounds is concerned, investigational work indicates that the weight of fleece has not increased at all." Mr. Anderson stressed the effects of heredity, feeding and care in increasing the weight of wool fiber.

Former Fiancee Shoots Self in Lawyer's Office

Miss Antoinette Crissie, 23 years old, 856 Blue Island avenue, a stenographer, visited her former fiancé, Anthony V. Champagne, in his law offices at 925 Blue Island avenue yesterday. After discussing their broken off affair, Miss Crissie produced a revolver, according to police information, and fired one wild shot in the general direction of the attorney. Then pointed the pistol at her own head and pulled the trigger. Champagne struck her arm and at the Mother Cabrini hospital it was found Miss Crissie had incurred a flesh wound. Her sister, Mary, saw the shooting.

MILK RULE ACT UPHELD BY U. S. SUPREME COURT

Small Dealers Unable to Get Relief.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Small business men who are squeezed out of existence by recovery legislation can look for little relief from the Supreme court, that tribunal indicated today, in again upholding the New York milk control act.

In ruling for a second time on the validity of the New York emergency milk control law, the Supreme court declared that where small business units are "unable to keep pace with the stronger" under recovery laws, the court can not intervene.

"It is their comparative inefficiency, not tyrannical compulsion that makes them laggards in the race," the court ruled, but it also warned that, "whether a wise state-craft will favor or condemn this exaltation of the strong is a matter of legislative policy with which courts are not concerned."

The court's decision was read by Associate Justice Benjamin Cardozo. It was the court's second ruling on the New York milk law, an intrastate recovery law.

The Hegeman Farm corporation of New York in its plea to the court had declared that the law was forcing it to operate at a loss because the minimum purchase price and the selling price stipulated did not allow it a margin large enough to bring a fair return on its investment. Justice Cardozo, in effect, replied that as long as efficient companies could operate successfully, the Hegeman company could find no relief in appealing to the courts.

MANAGER ARGUES TRANSFERS AIDED 'L' LINES IN 1913

The introduction of transfers on the elevated lines in 1913 brought an increase in passengers and additional revenue. This was the testimony yesterday of Harley A. Johnson, vice president and general manager of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, at a hearing on the city's application before the Illinois Commerce commission for a universal transfer between "L" and surface lines.

Johnson said that the inauguration of through routes, at the same time as the transfer system, also increased business. He asserted that these steps were taken to speed up trains around the loop during rush hours and to provide additional convenience to the public without the payment of two fares.

The universal transfer case has been droning along before the commission for several weeks. Witnesses for the street car company have claimed the plan was not feasible.

NORTHWESTERN STUDIES ILLINI TRAPEZE PLAY

Tricky Formation Puzzles Scouts.

While Northwestern's football team enjoyed a rest from its daily practice chores yesterday, Coach Dick Hanley and his aids spent the day figuring out a defense against the mysterious "Flying Trapeze" play which Illinois employed in scoring the winning touchdowns against Ohio State.

The Illini pride themselves that no observer, including scouts from rival teams, has been able to figure out this tricky forward-lateral pass play in which every man in the backfield as well as an end or two handles the ball.

Hopes to Solve Trick.

Assistant Coach Waldo Fisher of the Wildcats who has scouted Illinois in most of its games this season, believes, however, that he understands the play and that the Purple will not be baffled by all the ball handling which the formation involves.

The Wildcats plan to devote most of their practice this week to defensive drills against Illinois passes. They have confidence in their ability to stop the Illini running game after facing such attacks as Stanford and Ohio State. The issue in Saturday's homecoming battle at Dyche stadium will probably depend upon Northwestern's ability to fathom the versatile aerial bombardment which Illinois is certain to undertake.

The Wildcats will enter the game with added confidence as a result of the victory over Wisconsin. For the first time this season the Purple running game was effective. Hugh Duvall gave one of the best performances of his career at fullback. On several occasions he hit the middle of the Badger line for gains of ten yards or more.

Back Field Works Smoothly.

Both Cruice and Freddy Lind were effective on off tackle slants Saturday. Although the smallest player on the squad, Lind displayed more drive than any Wildcat ball carrier this year.

So well did the new back field combination function that it is hardly probable that it will be altered for the Illinois game. Steve Toth, who surprised every one with his brilliant kicking against Wisconsin, will continue at quarter back.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to see the two teams renew their annual rivalry. It will be homecoming at Northwestern Saturday and thousands of old grads will return to the campus.

Illinois always attracts a great following of alumni on its Chicago appearances and this year will be no exception. It is the first time in several years that an undefeated Illini team has visited the metropolitan area. The Illini band of 175 pieces will accompany the team.

ILLINI HOLD SCRIMMAGE.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Wilbur Henry, who is expected to succeed Jack Beynon as Illinois quarter back next year, worked effectively today as Coach Bob Zuppke opened preparations for Northwestern with a regular game.

Henry caught a pass from Earl Jansen and ran 30 yards for a touchdown and otherwise distinguished himself. He will relieve Beynon in the Wildcat game if necessary, but so far Beynon has played the entire time in all the big games.

Jansen, who is being drilled as a reserve back, may get into the game. He is fast, elusive and passes well.

John Theodore, sophomore full back, who was held out of the Army game, is back in shape and appeared in today's workout. The two elevens lined up as follows:

BLACKS—Cantwell and Cummings, ends; Dahl and Rourke, tackles; Barnhart and Bruder, guards; Palmer, center; Henry, quarter back; Bradley and Jansen, half backs, and Theodore, full back.

REDS—Hutson and Wright, ends; Smith and Gragg, tackles; Cook and Tischler, guards; Lippold, center; Gibbs, quarter back; Steib and Craven, half backs, and Fischer, full back.

TIME TO REPAY, HUEY REMINDS FOOTBALL FANS

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Louisiana State university students know now that there is no Santa Claus on the campus.

Senator Huey P. Long passed the word that about 500 students would have to pay back money he passed out to them for the "Kingfish" football specials to the Vanderbilt-Louisiana football game in Nashville.

Huey was nearly mobbed when he distributed $7 each to students who wanted to make that trip. Each signed a laundry slip and the deal was made, with Long holding the bag of I.O.U.'s.

Hundreds of students have been told "they needn't kid themselves about money off the Christmas tree."

E. N. Jackson, university business manager, said the money probably would be repaid within two months. It was coming back at $40 a day since the game a week ago, he said. Jackson said Senator Long handed out about $3,500.

Football Player Killed in Sand Lot Scrimmage

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A neighborhood sand lot football scrimmage resulted in death today to Myron Callagy, 23 years old, from a fractured neck vertebra. His family said he went out "to get a little exercise" and engaged in the game.

WATCH HIM, N. U.—HE'S HARD TO BLOCK

Chuck Galbreath, one of the most aggressive tackles in the Big Ten, who will be in the Illinois lineup against Northwestern Saturday. Galbreath, who is lighter than most line men, is so fast and alert that he breaks up enemy plays consistently. He had his first experience on the varsity last year as a sophomore.

'8 Man Line' of Michigan Half Success

BY WILFRID SMITH.

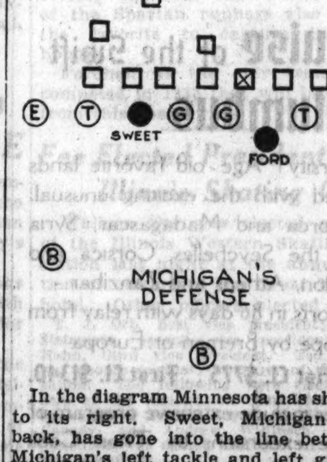
How did Michigan play Minnesota to a scoreless tie in the first half last Saturday and then lose the game, 34 to 0?

An obvious answer might be that Michigan collapsed after its desperate first half play, but this wasn't true. Michigan did weaken in the fourth period, but the scoreless first half was made possible by [1] Michigan's particular defensive line formation, [2] John Regeczi's superiority in kicking, and [3] a blocked Minnesota kick which pushed the Gophers far into their own territory, from which position they could not run the ball because of Michigan's special line defense, nor kick their way out because of Regeczi's superiority in this department.

Gophers Have No Weakness.

Offense consists of running, plunging, passing and kicking, although kicking, since it relinquishes possession of the ball, is regarded as a defensive measure by many. Minnesota this year has no offensive weakness. Its kicking is average when Lund is the punter, less than average when Roscoe is the punter, but ability to make up the difference by kick returns tempers this possible defect.

Michigan believed Saturday that its normal defensive position would leave it vulnerable to Minnesota's running and plunging and this was to be feared more than Minnesota's passes. Consequently Michigan adopted an unusual line defense, practically an eight man line. A diagram of this defense follows:



In the diagram Minnesota has shifted to its right. Sweet, Michigan full back, has gone into the line between Michigan's left tackle and left guard. Ford, Michigan center, is a step back between Michigan's right guard and right tackle. Had Minnesota shifted to its left, the relative position of Sweet and Ford in the line would have been reversed.

Sweet Breaks Through.

Against an eight man line, one defender — generally Sweet — always broke through to stop Minnesota's running and plunging attack. This was so successful that Minnesota accomplished only one first down in the half.

Minnesota could expect to attack successfully only by breaking up this alignment with forward passes. Why didn't the Gophers pass?

First, Minnesota did not choose to take a chance of failure deep in its

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FIGHTING ILLINI.

ILLINOIS' unbeaten football eleven has a bristling chance to share Big Ten title honors with Minnesota and Purdue if the Gophers and Boilermakers finish unscathed. Those of contrary opinion are Northwestern, Wisconsin, and Chicago adherents whose teams still remain on the Illini schedule. The Zuppmen have nonconference victories over Bradley, Washington U., and Army, conference triumphs over Ohio State and Michigan.

The Wake has witnessed the last two Illinois games. Are the Illini, then, a great football team? For their poundage—yes. Could they down that powerhouse of the north, those superlative Gophers? Probably not. No such answer, however, is conclusive without a test, and Illini think and always have thought, often proved, they could lay low much heavier squads.

Illinois did that very thing against powerful Gopher elevens in 1914 and 1916, with a tie in 1915, only Gopher reverses of those years. They did it again in 1919 when Iowa also downed the Gophers and again in 1920 when nearly every one was taking a pot shot at a below average Minnesota crew. Gophers took the last contest in 1924 with Grange in the Illinois lineup, or rather out of it most of the game through an out-of-bounds injury.

Let's look at the personnel of these Illini, inferior in weight but faster of foot than most opponents. How many outstanding stars? Not many. Jack Beynon, of course, a beautiful forward passer whose field generalship Coach Gar Davidson of Army characterized as the best he ever had seen. Les Lindberg may be included because of his punting. He is a good open field runner and pass receiver but not a crashing line smasher.

Of the other back field men, John Theodore and Howard Carson are sophomores, the latter now showing unusual progress. Crain Portman is a senior, alert to find openings behind good blocking. Froschauer is a good blocker and adept defense man. None of these, perhaps, could be called outstanding, although effective in the Illinois plan.

In the line it is somewhat similar. Elvin Sayre at center, sophomore, is a workmanlike fellow from Waukegan who drops out of the line on defense to intercept passes, but he weighs less than 180. Chuck Bennis, senior, is a good guard. On the other side is Ed Gryboski, a junior from the Benton coal mining district. You don't hear as much of him as of Bennis unless you talk to the coaches. In the game he's unseen down in the pile grabbing legs and knees of those opponents trying to gain through his position.

Arvo Antilla, the only regular from outside the state [Whiting, Ind.], and Chuck Galbreath are the tackles. Galbreath weighs 177 pounds. Ken Nelson, a sophomore end from Des Plaines, gives great promise with more experience. Gene Dykstra, from Fenger High of Chicago, is a fine pass receiver.

Taken as a whole the Illini are players to whom, with two exceptions, one would apply most complimentary rather than superlative adjectives. In The Wake's opinion their success is due to spirit and enthusiasm, plus 100 per cent effort all the time to the limit of their ability.

This estimate so far purposely has omitted one of the most important factors. He's a little chap who has been at Champaign since the fall of 1913. He paints in oils, dallies in psychology, and understands boy nature.

BARTLETT LOST TO CHICAGO FOR OHIO SATURDAY

Berwanger to Play, but He Needs Rest.

Chicago's two ace ball carriers, Jay Berwanger and Ned Bartlett, were on the sidelines yesterday as the Maroon football team began preparations for what promises to be another furious game for them, against Ohio State at Columbus Saturday.

Bartlett received a leg injury in the opening minutes of the first quarter against Purdue. The diagnosis yesterday was that he will be out of action for at least ten days, and perhaps for the remainder of the season. Coach Shaughnessy had counted heavily on Bartlett for the Purdue game, and had built much of his offense around the Californian during the practice preceding the game.

Berwanger Needs Rest.

Berwanger, less seriously hurt, needs a rest as much as anything else, according to the trainers. He probably will not work out with the team until the final practice Thursday. The big Dubuque boy, bearing the brunt of both offense and defense and playing one of the greatest games of his career, went down in the fourth quarter, and time was called on his behalf for the first time since he started playing at the Midway. He stayed in the game and led the 85 yard march for Chicago's last touchdown, scoring before he was taken out.

The remainder of the battered crew who played most of the Purdue game were excused yesterday after a light workout. Capt. Ell Patterson and Merrit Bush, tackle, were nursing painful mouth bruises. Clarence Wright, first string tackle, who was unable to play against Purdue, probably will not be ready for Ohio State.

Sappington Plays Well.

One note of cheer, however, was the performance of Earl Sappington against the Boilermakers as Wright's substitute. Sappington, a powerful lad from Florida, had never before broken into the lineup.

The forthcoming game will be Chicago's first away from the home field, and the first Maroon game against Ohio State since 1927.

OHIO LOSES REES.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Ohio State probably will be without the services of its regular left end, Trevor Rees, Saturday when the Buckeyes meet Chicago. Rees became a patient of the University hospital late last night after a kidney injury, received in the game with Western Reserve, became worse.

The Buckeyes also will go into the Chicago game without Jack Smith, although he is expected to return to practice this week. Otherwise the Buckeyes should be in good physical and mental condition.

KING LEVINSKY ASKS COURT TO ANNUL MARRIAGE

King Levinsky yesterday lashed back at his estranged wife, the former Roxanne Evelyn Glickman, who in her divorce suit filed recently termed the Kingfish "an alleged prize fighter."

Levinsky, whose real name is Harris Krakow, filed an answer with Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan, denying his wife's charges of cruelty and infidelity, charging the marriage was part of a conspiracy to exploit his name, and asking that the marriage be annulled.

The bill, filed by Attorneys Alfred O'Connor and Irwin R. Hazen, contends the marriage, contracted in Crown Point last Aug. 14, has never been consummated. It sets forth that Levinsky told his bride-to-be that he was broke, but she replied she wasn't after money. Nevertheless, the bills says, Mrs. Krakow now wants $50,000 to settle the divorce suit. Mrs. Krakow, a former World's Fair fan dancer, has a $50,000 alienation of affections suit pending against Mrs. Levy, Levinsky's sister and manager.

It was part of the conspiracy, the bill avers, to oust Mrs. Levy and install Hyman Glickman, the bride's father, as Levinsky's manager. In his bill Levinsky asks the court to award him his automobile, which his wife is now driving, and his dog. He wants the divorce suit dismissed.

MINNESOTA'S varsity coaches, Bernie Bierman, Bert Baston and Dr. George Hauser, all captained Gopher elevens. . . . Purdue was deprived of the right to try for the point after its second touchdown against Chicago Saturday. . . . At the time Purdue led, 13 to 0, but before the half ended Chicago had taken the lead, 14 to 13, and the point might have been all important. . . . Purdue successfully kicked the fourteenth point, but the umpire ruled that Purdue had held on the play and the referee disallowed the point. . . . Rule 9, section 3, article 2, of the football code reads: "If a foul occurs during the try the usual penalty shall be enforced and the try may be made again, unless the offended team declines the penalty." . . . In this case, if Chicago had declined the penalty, Purdue would have scored the point. . . . Taking the penalty, Purdue should have been permitted to kick again from Chicago's 17 yard line, the penalty for holding being 15 yards. . . .

ST. LOUIS BUYS CINCINNATI PRO FOOTBALL CLUB

Columbus, O., May 5.—(AP)—Purchase of the Cincinnati National football league franchise and players by St. Louis interests was announced here today by Joe F. Carr, president of the league. The purchase price was not announced.

The players and franchise will be transferred immediately, Carr said, and the first league game under the new set-up will be played next Sunday when the Pittsburgh Pirates invade St. Louis.

Operators of the St. Louis Gunners, an independent team which has been in existence for several years, purchased the Cincinnati franchise, accepting the position of the Cincinnati club in the league race. The St. Louis club will retain the name "Gunners."

GOOD LUCK JUST FOLLOWS THIS FELLOW AROUND

Boston, Mass., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Timothy Donovan, who sold a sweepstakes ticket which eventually won $30,000 on the St. Leger race is going to be almost as well off as though he held the ticket himself.

For he is going to marry Miss Genevieve Genovise, who earned $15 a week as a chocolate dipper in a candy factory until she drew the winner, Windsor Lad, in the St. Leger, which was run two months ago.

Donovan, whom Miss Genovise had known for several months, sold her the ticket. They will be married Sunday.

Foe of Gambling on Horses Wins Bet; Now What?

Austin, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Henry C. Kyle, state representative and inveterate foe of horse race gambling, won a horse race bet today. Now he is puzzled over what to do with the money.

Seeking to demonstrate that the law was violated within the shadow of the capitol, he displayed on the floor of the legislature four bottles of whisky and a ticket on Escoba Land, running at Arlington Downs.

He had purchased the whisky at four cafés near the capitol, he said, and the $2 ticket, carrying "house" odds of 12 to 1 to place, from a bookie in an office building.

Then Escoba Land paid $43.40 to win, $24.90 to place, and $10.80 to show.

"That upsets my plans," Kyle ruminated.

Kid Chocolate Awarded Decision Over Jerry Mazza

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, former featherweight champion, tonight easily outpointed Jerry Mazza of New York in a ten round bout. Chocolate weighed 130¼ pounds and Mazza 125¾. The Cuban opened a cut over Mazza's right eye in the fourth and had the New York boy hanging on the ropes but could not put him on the mat for a count.

Cattarinich, Eddy Gain Control.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Soon after the District Criminal court ruled here today that it is not illegal in Louisiana for newspapers and magazines to publish racing results came the announcement that the Fair Grounds race track here had been sold by Col. Edward R. Bradley of Lexington, Ky., to Joseph Cattarinich of Montreal, Can., and Robert S. Eddy Jr., of New Orleans.

Cattarinich and Eddy paid $400,000 for the Fair Grounds course, according to reports. They announced a short time after the deal had been completed that there will be but one race meeting in New Orleans this winter and that it will be held at the Fair Grounds course. Cattarinich and Eddy also own the Jefferson Park track here.

Chicagoans Lose Money.

Bradley bought the controling interest in the Fair Grounds track ten years ago. After operating it for seven seasons at a loss he sold it to a Chicago syndicate headed by Joseph A. Murphy.

The Chicago syndicate lost $150,000 in two seasons, it was reported, and was unable to meet the purchase price, so Bradley again found the track back in his possession in July of this year.

The ruling of the court here today in declaring that Act 26 of the legislature does not prohibit the publication of racing news by newspapers hastened the closing of the deal.

Is Law Against Bookies.

Dismissing criminal charges against William J. Lirette, newsdealer, charged in a "test case" with selling out-of-state newspapers which contained racing results and general track information, Judge Frank T. Echezabal said it was "reasonable to assume that the legislature meant to exempt newspapers and magazines from provisions of the act."

His decision pointed out that the act was obviously framed to stamp out handbook operations by prohibiting the dissemination of last minute racing information and quick results.

The telephone, telegraph, and radio, "and other such instrumentalities," the court said in effect, furnish immediate information necessary in running a gambling business, whereas the lapse of time required in publishing racing information by a newspaper or magazine eliminates the use of the information for gambling purposes.

While not definitly announced, it is reported that racing will not open here until around the first of the year. The Eddy-Cattarinich syndicate plans to center its activities on about 60 days of racing.

It is reported that Col. Bradley took a heavy loss in the transfer of the track. Two years ago he refused an offer of $700,000 from the same people he sold it to today.

Bradley's Taxes Raised.

In the meantime the Bradley interests had a row with Senator Huey P. Long and the taxes on the race track were raised to prohibitive figures. As soon as Col. Bradley announced that he would take the track and operate it the taxes were again boosted this year.

Robert Maestri, one time big moneyed man of the Eddy-Cattarinich racing syndicate, is Senator Long's chief financial backer and political lieutenant in Louisiana. He is now conservation commissioner. He is also on record as being the principal owner in the Jefferson Park race track.

The Eddy-Cattarinich syndicate operates the Aurora and Fairmount Park tracks in Illinois, Bainbridge and Thistledown in Cleveland, Blue Bonnets in Canada and new tracks at Syracuse, N. Y. and Dayton, Ohio.

Act Laid to Long.

Senator Long was responsible for the passage of the act of the legislature which for a time caused local newspapers to refrain from publishing race results and entries and other news concerning racing. The passage of the act came during the heat of the recent state primary election.

CHARGE FORMER STAR TRIED TO SELL OUT TEAM

Stillwater, Okla., Nov. 5. — (AP) — Charges that a former football star at Oklahoma A. & M. college had released information to opposing teams were found by the school's athletic council today to have an apparent "basis of truth." Dean Clarence McElroy of the council's executive committee, said no action could be taken, since the youth no longer was enrolled.

Jap Haskell, freshman coach at the University of Oklahoma, reported the former student had approached him seeking to deliver information. The school newspaper said Jesse Rossette, a student member of the athletic council, quoted the former player as saying: "Do you think I'd do it without getting money for it?"

Rossette said the youth in question approached Creighton university athletic officials before Creighton defeated Oklahoma A. & M., 13 to 7. After three straight victories over Oklahoma Baptist university, Drake, and Haskell, the Aggies lost to Southern Methodist and Creighton. Last week-end the Aggies beat Detroit university, 19 to 6.

LOUIS MAY FACE RISKO, RAMAGE, OR PERRONI SOON

Contracts to Be Signed Today.

Joe Louis, Detroit, Mich., heavyweight, may clash with Johnny Risko, Cleveland; Lee Ramage, San Francisco, or Patsy Perroni, also from Cleveland, in a 10 round bout at the Coliseum Nov. 30 or at Broadway armory Dec. 12. Contracts are to be signed today.

Financial terms agreed upon guarantee the Detroit Negro $600, with a privilege of 25 per cent of the net gate receipts. The opponents mentioned have been accepted by Louis' managers, and they will be offered the assignment. The opponent must be named within 10 days.

Must Come to Terms.

The aforementioned proceedings followed an order by the Illinois athletic commission yesterday that Promoter Maurice Rivkin, who had signed Louis for a match Oct. 15, but released him from the date when the latter pleaded a hand injury, and Eddie Siegal, a representative of the 1934 Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, reach an agreement immediately.

It was agreed that Louis may make one fight prior to the match for Rivkin, and it is understood that this will be presented at Arcadia Gardens Nov. 14. Shortly after the hearing got under way, the promoter displayed a contract signed by Tony Cancela, Tampa, Fla., accepting a battle with Louis. It was refused by Joe's handlers.

Sam Pian, co-manager of Champion Barney Ross, appeared before the state boxing commission yesterday to protest tactics used by Sam Goldman, Tony Canzoneri's director, to force the champion into a third encounter at New York. Pian informed the commission that Ross has signed to make his next title defense in Chicago for Promoter Joe Foley and Matchmaker Soldier Mickey Farr in January, but Goldman has refused to get in touch with this combination. The statement will be forwarded to the New York commission.

Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., 188 pound fighter, has been released from an agreement to make three more appearances at Marigold Gardens. . . . Sherald Kennard, Fargo, N. D., welterweight, yesterday was suspended for 30 days. . . . Danny La Marre, heavyweight; Mickey O'Shea, welterweight, and Merril Tonn, heavyweight, were reinstated. . . . The next card at Cicero stadium is slated for Nov. 16. . . . Joe Savoldi, heavyweight wrestler, has been ordered to appear at the Illinois Athletic commission next Monday.

Charley Massera, Pittsburgh; Al Ettore, Philadelphia; Buddy Baer, Oakland, and Eddie Hogan, New York, are beig sought to box on the program headed by a ten round fight between King Levinsky and Art Lasky at the Satdium on Nov. 23. . . . Wrestling shows will be offered at Rockford on Nov. 13 and 21, and boxing cards are scheduled at Quincy on Nov. 19 and at Rockford Nov. 23. . . . The latter card will be promoted by Joe Mandell, brother of Sammy Mandell.

Frank Battaglia will head for Milwaukee tomorrow for a 10 round bout with George Black Friday. . . . Hayden [Young] Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., has been offered a contest at Pittsburgh Nov. 16. . . . Pete De Grasse, New York featherweight, is due late this week for a 10 round fight against Leo Rodak at White City Monday. . . . An opponent for Everett [Young] Rightmire on the card is to be named today. . . . Dick Mastro, ex-Golden Gloves boxer, has taken over the training routine of Dominick De Pasquale, 140 pounds; Jerry Cowan, 126, and Sam De Pasquale, 126, at Community Recreation center. F. M.

Equipoise Named in Belmont Park Handicap Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 5.—Equipoise, the handicap champion of American race tracks, will be the headliner on the one day United Hunts Racing association program to be staged at Belmont Park tomorrow.

The star from C. V. Whitney's stable was named overnight to run in the $5,000 added Whitney Gold Trophy handicap at a mile and a quarter and was assigned top weight of 128 pounds.

Fourteen other handicap performers were named for the race, including Faireno, Mad Frump, Azucar, Dark Winter, and Mr. Khayyam.

The mile and a quarter race is expected to be more to the liking of Equipoise than was the six furlong sprint in which he was beaten two noses at Narragansett a week ago.

Five races make up the United Hunts program and it will be the last racing of the year on a New York track.

If Equipoise comes out of his race tomorrow in good condition he will be sent to Maryland for an engagement at Pimlico, then will be shipped to the Pacific coast to be prepared for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, to be run in February.

BURTON LOSES STEEPLECHASE RIDING LICENSE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Crawford Burton, dean of America's gentlemen riders in steeplechase races and twice winner of the historic Maryland Hunt cup, had his license revoked today and it bars him from further competition.

The stewards of the National Steeplechase and Hunt association took the action. The announcement was made by Frank J. Bryan of New York, secretary of the association, who is serving as an official at the Pimlico race track here.

It is generally believed by the members of the hunt set here that the action came after Burton allowed his name and picture in racing silks to be used in a magazine cigaret ad.

Illinois River Towns Packed with Hunters

BY BOB BECKER.

Although we have never seen a gold rush, after watching the duck rush around Lacon, Ill., the other day we have an idea of what happens on the frontier when somebody strikes yellow metal. There is a hustle and bustle as well as a kind of enjoyable madness in the duck towns along the Illinois that turns night into day and makes calm business men act as if ducks were more precious than diamonds.

On our trip to Lacon we again had a chance to get a ringside seat to see how a day shooting place is operated. This system of leasing hunting rights for a day [or longer] is not peculiar to Illinois. It is common in other parts of the United States. But we doubt if any area gets any more excited about the duck business than those little towns along the Illinois.

Can't Wait to Shoot.

Now that thousands of pintails and mallards are sweeping into marshes and sloughs along the Illinois, the duck shooters are filling the sleepy river towns with their cars, their exuberance, and their optimism, every one unable to wait until he can get into a duck blind.

Life may begin at 40 for some people, but for duck shooters we saw at Lacon life began at 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning. On a one day shooting place, where hundreds of acres are dotted with blinds and decoys, the first load of hunters to take the flat boat down the river a mile and half to the shooting grounds had to be on the river bank ready to sail at 5:30 a. m.

We joined the enthusiastic gang after a 4:30 rising hour. When we walked into a restaurant at 6 o'clock it looked like a convention was just breaking up. Everybody was clamoring for lunch, or trying to pay a bill, or yelling for a partner to hurry.

A Noisy Place.

You could hear the clank of shotguns, the clumping of heavy boots, and all other noises that attend the departure of a wildly enthusiastic gang of sportsmen. Either you like this sort of thing or you don't. If you do, a Saturday morning in a duck town is a circus, especially if you catch those busy hours before everybody hurries out of town armed to the teeth.

After checking on the duck situation around Lacon, it is evident that hunters must make reservations for a blind before they go down river. With the shooting now concentrated on Saturdays and Sundays there is a great demand for hunting locations.

The Ducks Are There.

This is especially true now that such a good flight of birds has arrived in the upper Illinois. During the course of our dropping ducks in the big slough below Lacon we saw as beautiful a flight of pintails and mallards as any duck hunter could want.

HAWKS ARRIVE AT ST. LOUIS TO PLAY FIRST GAME

Chicago to Meet Eagles Thursday.

St. Louis, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Fifteen members of the world's champion Chicago Blackhawks arrived here tonight. They were led by Manager Clem Loughlin, who announced that they would take light workouts on the St. Louis arena ice tomorrow and Wednesday in preparation for the first game of the National Hocky league, which is scheduled for Thursday night with Eddie Gerard's St. Louis Eagles.

Prior to their departure from the University of Illinois rink where the Hawks have been practicing for more than three weeks, the team put on a final demonstration of shooting, passing and stick handling before a gathering of students.

Coulter Still Out.

The squad which went through the last drill and which will line up against the Eagles was composed of Goalie Chabot, defense players, Burke, Wiebe, Art Coulter and Kenny, and forwards, Morenz, Gottselig, Couture, Thompson, March, McFayden, Kendall, Goldsworthy, Cook and Trudel. Two regulars of last season's team, Taffy Abel and Doc Romnes were absent. Both failed to come to terms this season.

Center Player Norman Locking, Sub-Goalie Joe Starke, and Coach Helge Bostrum, did not make the trip. They arrived in Chicago last night. Locking will probably be seen in action when the Hawks play in Chicago. Joe Starke will hold over this season as sub-goalie, and Helge Bostrum will be retained in an advisory capacity.

Tom Coulter, whose leg was broken in the first exhibition game, is still in Chicago. He will not be available for defense duty, however, before Jan. 15.

Face $200,000 Suit.

Frank [Doc] Wainwright, owner of the St. Louis Flyers, American association hocky team, said today he would file a $200,000 damage suit against the Eagles "as soon as the Eagles have played one game here."

Wainwright said his suit would be based on the alleged usurpation of American Hockey association territory by the National league. This year marks St. Louis' entry into the major league.

SKATERS ON FOOTBALL TEAM.

Leo Freisinger and Wallace Fee, ice skating stars, will be in the back field of Bob Koehler's Shurads when they play the Harry Kohls at Spencer Coal field tomorrow night.

NAVY PLAYS ARE TAUGHT TO IRISH FRESHMAN TEAM

Notre Dame Varsity Rests and Counts Injuries.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's varsity rested today while Coach Elmer Layden instructed the freshmen in plays expected from Navy at Saturday's game in Cleveland. The freshmen will utilize these formations in scrimmage later in the week.

John Michuta, right tackle, and Fred Solari, shock troop center, may be unavailable for the Navy game. Both were injured in the 19 to 0 defeat at the hands of Pittsburgh Saturday. Don Elser and Fred Carideo, both full backs, who left the Pitt game with injuries, will be available Saturday.

Layden stated that he expects the team to give the undefeated and untied middies a hard game, and guaranteed that Notre Dame will have its old time spirit in this contest.

The Irish will go to Cleveland Thursday night. The "B" team will go Saturday morning with the 81 piece Notre Dame band and members of the student body.

NAVY SQUAD INTACT.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 5.—[Special.] As the Navy began its preparations for the Notre Dame game in Cleveland Saturday, every member of the team was on the field except Slade Cutter, right tackle, who was hurt in practice last week and took no part in the Washington and Lee game. However, he is booked to get back to the field Wednesday, and it is expected that he will be in his place against Notre Dame.

There was only a short session on the field this afternoon, Head Coach Hamilton using much of the time in outlining the program for the week.

GOPHERS TAKE REST.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—It was another off day for the Gophers today as a reward for their 34 to 0 victory over Michigan Saturday. Head Coach Bernie Bierman told all the boys they did not have to report and could rest up from their bruises.

Butch Larson went to the health service because of an injured knee, but there it was determined that the injury was not serious. He will be ready to play against Indiana next Saturday. Kostka's foot and Capt. Pug Lund's hand were none the worse for Saturday's game, and both players should be in first class shape for the Hoosiers.

The Gophers will be back at work tomorrow as usual.

INDIANA PLANS DEFENSE.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Emerging from the Iowa game with no casualties, Indiana university football players today started preparations for their toughest assignment of the season, a battle against Minnesota's powerful Gophers at Minneapolis Saturday.

With a freshman team demonstrating Minnesota plays, McMillin's men worked on defensive plays in dummy scrimmage. Several players who saw action last week were given a rest.

Coach E. C. Hayes, who scouted the Gophers Saturday, reported that their star back, Alfonse, is looking better than ever.

DE PAUL, NIAGARA MEET SATURDAY AT HOMECOMING

Preparations for homecoming were being rushed yesterday on the De Paul university campus. The program will be climaxed Saturday afternoon when the Demons battle Niagara university at Wrigley field.

After two defeats in a row at the hands of Western State and Valparaiso, Coaches Jim Kelly and Ben Connors have mapped out a hard week of work for their squad.

The De Paul squad also faces a shakeup. Bill Oldani, right half back, will be shifted to left half back in order to get Oldani and Willie Phillips, sophomore, in the game at the same time. Other shifts are being planned in practice sessions this week.

Ray Adams, an end, was the only casualty in the Valparaiso contest, but he is expected back the latter part of the week.

Promoter Vanishes with Arizmendi Bout Receipts

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Baby Arizmendi, New York state featherweight champion; Henry Armstrong, California Negro boxer, the police, and representatives of the treasury department tonight were trying to locate Henry Hollifield, promoter of yesterday's fight, who has disappeared with nearly all the gate receipts. Police expressed the belief Hollifield had gone to the United States by airplane with 70,000 to 90,000 pesos [$21,000 to $25,000] of which 50 per cent was due the fighters.

Schmidt May Drive Ohio—but Not Family Car

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Coach Francis A. Schmidt may drive the Ohio State football team, but his driving privilege does not include the family car.

His wife is the referee on that point. She fears the coach, while solving some intricate trick as he drives, might make an off-tackle dash through surrounding scenery. She knows he's played havoc with a perfectly good bridge game.

The Buckeye coach, said Mrs. Schmidt today: "Eats, drinks, and sleeps football all the year round, but he gets worse during the season. Just before the season opened he was driving with the basketball coach, Mr. Olsen. He let loose of the wheel and was flailing his arms about, trying to explain a football play, and almost ran upon the sidewalk.

"On the return trip Mr. Olsen insisted upon driving and asked Mr. Schmidt to sit in the rear seat and do his football explaining from there. I guess I might have to do the same when we go riding."

Ellis, Michigan Back, Suffers Broken Finger

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Lacking only Joe Ellis, alternate left half back who suffered a broken finger Saturday, Michigan's regulars were back on South Ferry field this afternoon ready to start hard work for the game with Wisconsin this week. The team was in good shape, barring bruises.

Dr. Frank Lynam, team physician, said Ellis might be out for the rest of the season. The injury is another in a series that has kept him on the bench most of the season.

Coach Harry Kipke told the boys to forget last Saturday's game and to work hard for the approaching contest which, he said, they have an even chance to win. He allowed them a short workout on signals, then sent them to the showers. Hard work on the Wisconsin practice program will begin tomorrow.

The second and third teams battled each other in a long scrimmage session, then each took on an eleven made up of the best boys on the freshman squad.

DRILL BADGER REGULARS.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Coach Clarence Spears this afternoon broke the usual custom of allowing regulars to take the day off as the entire squad reported for the first drill in preparation for the Michigan game at Ann Arbor Saturday.

With the exception of Karl Schuelke, regular right half back, whose injured shoulder probably will keep him out of the game with the Wolverines, the Badgers survived the Northwestern defeat in good physical shape.

Either Johnny Fish or Jimmy Donaldson will take Schuelke's place this week. George Dehnert, regular quarter back, whose injuries kept him out of the Northwestern game, was back today and will be able to play against Michigan. Eddie Jankowski, who was moved from full back to take Dehnert's place against the Wildcats, will return to his old position.

Spears indicated much of the drill this week would be in forward passing, since it was in that department alone that the Badgers were able to gain appreciably against Northwestern.

IOWA LOSES HOOVER.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Although all of the University of Iowa football regulars escaped injury in the Indiana game Saturday, the Hawkeye team probably will not be at full strength for the final home encounter with Purdue this week, it was learned today.

Dr. A. S. Fourt, medical adviser, said that Dwight Hoover's injury of last week had been definitly diagnosed as a broken neck vertebra and that the blocking half back would be out for the season. It also was doubtful whether Bernie Page, senior left end, would be available against the Boilermakers because of an injured arm.

Simmons to Play.

The only Iowa casualty of last week who is likely to be ready for action is Oze Simmons, half back. Simmons was withheld from all but three plays against Indiana.

Coach Ossie Solem had the entire squad in uniform, but regulars took only light drill. After polishing their plays and limbering up the squad was excused until tonight, when Solem reviewed Purdue plays at a chalk talk.

The coach was satisfied with the showing of the sophomore line against the Hoosiers and indicated that the combination would be left intact this week. The Hawkeye forward wall now includes six sophomores, with Fred Radloff the only letter man.

PURDUE CELEBRATES.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—While Purdue's football squad was given a well earned rest this afternoon to rest weary legs, Boilermaker fans were still wildly shouting the praises of the eleven that averaged nearly five and one-half yards an attempt on running plays from scrimmage in handing Chicago its first defeat of the season.

The all around performances of Duane Purvis and Jim Carter, veteran half backs, came in for particular praise. Purvis, who outkicked Jay Berwanger, the Maroon ace, all afternoon, and averaged nearly 44 yards a punt from the line of scrimmage, also was the leading ground gainer of the game, with a total of 143 yards in 21 attempts, and had the highest average of the day, 6.8 yards. In addition to his 73 yard touchdown run, he tossed two long forward passes that led to other touchdowns.

Carter's Average 6.3.

Carter picked up 115 yards in 18 attempts, for an average of 6.3 yards, and contributed a 60 yard touchdown run, as well as performing brilliantly on defense and as a forward pass receiver.

While the fans continued their uproar, the Boilermaker squad and coaching staf paused to reflect that Iowa, in virtually the same situation last year, spoiled Purdue's chances of sharing the title by springing up with a 14 to 6 upset.

Source of Supply.

In the office of L. M. [Mike] Tobin, public relations, at Champaign Friday, a group of scribes was getting pointers on Army from Lieut. "Pat" Echols of the West Point publicity staf when the latter needed a fag and found his own supply exhausted. No newspaper man had one, either because they didn't smoke or used pipes or cigars. In this dilemma, The Wake, practical and ever wishing to be helpful, suggested "Ask one of the young ladies."

So Mr. Tobin spoke to one of his secretaries. She protested in embarrassment that she didn't smoke. "O, come on now, be a patriot. This is for the United States army," urged Mike. "There's a handbag in the third drawer of that desk. It may contain some I keep for my brother," she replied. It did.

SELL TICKETS TO PREP FOOTBALL FINAL THIS WEEK

Tickets for the championship high school football game to be played at Soldiers' field Dec. 1 for charity will go on sale this week, Mayor Kelly, sponsor of the game, announced yesterday. Proceeds will be turned over to Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit for needy children.

The general admission price to the game will be $1, the mayor said. He has set aside 25,000 tickets to be sold to the school children for 25 cents each. All tickets will be available at the Christmas benefit headquarters, 33 North La Salle street, and later in the week at every high school in Chicago.

The football game, which Mayor Kelly hopes to make an annual charitable enterprise, will bring together the champions of the Chicago Public High School league and the Catholic High School league. As part of the Christmas benefit it will help provide warm clothing at Christmas time for approximately 35,000 underprivileged children.

CARDINALS MAY USE ARKANSAS LEAGUE AS FARM

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The St. Louis Cardinals may extend their "farm" organization to take over an entire league. Announcement to this effect was made today by Al G. Eckert, president of the Springfield club of the Western association, a member of the St. Louis Cardinal organization.

Eckert returned today from a tour of the Arkansas State league, where he proposed a plan whereby the Cardinals would take over the circuit and furnish players for the various clubs in the class D league, developing them for the Cardinal organization.

The St. Louis Cardinals conduct a training camp for semi-pro players here each spring and handle approximately 750 prospective leaguers during the three weeks' schooling. Eckert proposed to the league officials in Arkansas that the Cardinals would be willing to handle the entire problem. A meeting will be held at Fayetteville soon to decide on his proposal.

OPTOMETRISTS' BASKET SQUAD STARTS PRACTICE

Northern Illinois College of Optometry has begun preparations for the 1934-35 basketball season with 32 men responding to Coach Gene Barry's call for candidates.

Dr. Frank M. Keefe, manager, has arranged a strenuous schedule with some of the most prominent junior college teams in the central states.

Chicago's representation among the candidates is led by Charles Chmielenski, veteran of Lane Tech's championship teams; Austin Pritchard of Loyola Academy, M. Davidson of Crane Tech, and Gordon Taylor, Parker High member of the all-city teams of '31 and '32. Augmented by veterans of championship scholastic teams throughout the country, the doctors present a formidable array of talent.

Chicago Bears Near League Scoring Mark

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears, pro football champions, are threatening to surpass the record total of 244 points set last season by the New York Giants.

To date the Bears, with 209 points, are only 35 shy of the Giant mark, with several games left to play. The Bears also lead in total yardage, 2,754 in eight games.

Packers Lead in Passing.

The Packers of Green Bay continue to hold a slight edge in forward passing, but this lead is being challenged by the Giants.

Kicking the extra point after touchdown appears to be automatic with the Chicagoans. The Bears missed only one extra point in 24 trials during their first seven games. The Giants made nine of ten in the same period. Jack Manders is the main reason for the Bears' proficiency in getting the extra point.

Kicks 20 Out of 21.

The former Minnesota star clicked off 15 straight last season and then ran up 17 more in succession before missing. So far this year he has kicked 20 of 21.

CARDS TO FACE LIONS

Football fans of Chicago will have their first chance to witness the only team in the National Pro Football league able to challenge the Chicago Bears supremacy when the Detroit Lions meet the Chicago Cardinals at Wrigley field Sunday.

Led by Earl [Dutch] Clark, former Colorado star and at present the outstanding quarter back in the league, the Lions present a formidable outfit. Not only have they the league's high scorer, Clark, but also other backs equally noted.

Backs and Line Strong.

Glenn Presnell, for the last three seasons the best ground gainer in the National league; Father Lumpkin, famous full back from Georgia Tech, and Frank Christenson, who can punt and pass brilliantly, complete one of the greatest back fields in the game.

While their backs are topnotch, the forward wall is also powerful. Only seven points have been scored on them this year, and only two teams have passed the Lions' 20 yard line.

Cardinals Are Unlucky.

The Cardinals meanwhile are experiencing their toughest season in the way of injuries. However, the club officials believe they will have their full strength back in time for Sunday's game. They will be out to avenge a 6 to 0 defeat suffered earlier in the season.

CROSS-COUNTRY EVENT ATTRACTS RECORD FIELD

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The intercollegiate cross country championship, to be run at Van Cortland park here Nov. 19, has attracted a record entry list of 23 teams.

Early indications are that Michigan State, winner of the race last year, will rule as favorite to repeat the victory and that Tom Ottey, captain of the Spartan runners also will be the favorite to capture individual honors.

Friends Offer Blood to Save Ex-Prep Player

Several friends have volunteered their blood for a transfusion that may save the life of James Caponi, former three letter athlete at Calumet High school. Caponi, who was a member of the Calumet swimming and gymnastic teams, has been in the Illinois Central hospital for nearly a month, suffering from peritonitis.

The former Calumet star already has been subjected to four transfusions. Those who have offered to aid him are David Hoare, Harold Goodman, Emanuel Stradigos, Don Burt, James Mullen, Abe Katzman, Bill Burks and Dan Johnson.

Coach Ray Umbright, coach of the heavyweight quintet, has trimmed his squad of 110 to 50. Ted Annel and Bill Benziger are the only available veterans. The latter will be graduated in January.

Harrison Tech, through its football coach, Bob Dougherty, is seeking out of town games for Nov. 17 and 24. The squad is willing to travel for expenses only.

Fenger High school, coached by Doug Fessenden, is the only city league football team which has held its opponents scoreless. The south section leader has accounted for 45 points in its four games.

Mount Carmel's aces on offense are Johnny Pietraszewski, hard hitting full back; Bill Lynn and Capt. Sylvester Lulinski. The former has scored five touchdowns; Lynn has crossed the goal line four times, and Capt. Lulinski has made good on seven place kicks in nine attempts for points after touchdown.

OSCAR HAS THAT BROWN JUG—IT'S IN A SAFE PLACE

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Oscar Munson, custodian of athletic equipment at the University of Minnesota, told friends today he had the Little Brown Jug that Minnesota and Michigan football teams have been fighting for since 1903 "safely hidden away."

"When some one in authority tells me where they want it placed I'll dig it up in a safe and sound condition," Munson said. "Until then I'm the only person who will know about its present hiding place."

Minnesota took over the Little Brown Jug after the Gophers had routed the Wolverines Saturday by a score of 34 to 0.

STOEFEN MAY TURN NET PRO IN NEXT FEW DAYS

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Reports were heard here today that Lester Stoefen, who teamed with George Lott and won the world doubles tennis title, would turn professional and join Lott in the pro ranks within the next few days.

Dick Charnock, manager of Stoefen, would neither deny nor affirm the report, but said: "There will be another startling announcement regarding the professional tennis situation made within a short time."

Lott quit the amateur ranks and moved into the camp of the tennis professionals last week.

'8 Man Line' of Michigan Half Success

own territory. Second, Michigan, by blocking Roscoe's fourth down kick in the first quarter and taking the ball on Minnesota's 17 yard line, had the advantage of position and actually outplayed Minnesota. In other years, just such a break has been all that the Wolverines needed to score and by that score win.

Second Half's Different.

Now let's consider the second half. Minnesota kicked off to Michigan and stopped the receiver on Michigan's 29 yard line. Regeczi's punt on third down was returned by Lund 28 yards which placed the ball on Michigan's 47 yard line. In other words, the Gophers now had escaped from their own territory where Michigan's eight man line had bottled their efforts in the first half.

Minnesota's first play was a pass, Lund to Johnson, directed against Michigan's weakened secondary, and it placed the ball on Michigan's 31 yard line. Michigan now stopped running plays and took the ball on its 18 yard line.

Lund returned Regeczi's kick to Minnesota's 44 yard line. Application of the same tactics as in the first drive produced Minnesota's first touchdown in three plays. Lund ran once, then passed to Johnson on Michigan's 16 yard line. Michigan now was definitly on the defensive and Minnesota's superior all around power brought victory.

Lacking an offense, Michigan could not keep the ball long enough to delay Minnesota's charges. In all, Michigan had only 15 plays from scrimmage in the second half. In other words, Minnesota possessed the ball for more than 75 per cent of the time and with this time advantage added its remaining touchdowns.

GRIFFIN WINS OVER WIATER IN EIGHT ROUNDS

Cornelius [Corn] Griffin, Georgia heavyweight, whipped Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., in the eight round windup bout at Marigold Gardens last night.

After they battled on even terms for two rounds Wiater went to the front in the third and fourth rounds by landing a series of punches to the body and head. Griffin took the offensive in the fifth round. He piled up the winning points by concentrating on a right below the heart which Wiater couldn't solve.

Griffin weighed 188 and his victim a pound less. A crowd of 1,091 paid $940 gross to see the fight.

Milt Aaron beat Frank Keevil [4].
Willie Dudlak beat Sammy Guidara [4].
Jack Lazar beat Don Smith [4].

BAER TO BOX IN DES MOINES AND CHICAGO SOON

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Max Baer, world heavyweight boxing champion, will fill engagements in Des Moines and Chicago late this month, according to Dave Fidler, Des Moines sports promoter.

The engagements will call for exhibition bouts. Officials of Madison Square Garden last week forced Baer to cancel a 10 round no decision bout here with Johnny Miler, Albia, Ia.

Rossi Wins Decision Over Weise in Eight Rounds

Cincinnati Reds Will Be Young at Least, in 1935

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Note to the rest of the National league: the Cincinnati Reds are not interested in buying any more war-horses of baseball in preparation for 1935.

The Reds are committed to building up a team of young blood, which, they hope, will overlook the fact that Cincinnati has been in last place for the last four years. "That's the policy," said Chuck Dressen, who replaced Bob O'Farrell as manager last mid-season.

It all came out as directors of the club met to hear officially about what happened last summer. They heard that operations cost them a deficit of $46,451; that $131,500 has been spent for players, many for delivery next year; that $51,210 was spent to support their baseball farms and scouts in spotting and developing young players.

Announcement of the youth policy brought estimates that the average age of the club next year may be around 25.

Dressen isn't certain yet as to the makeup of the club, and won't have much of an idea until after the league meeting late this month. Nevertheless, Chick Hafey, Paul Derringer, and Si Johnson are not likely to be traded.

Deans Make Social Call on Breadon

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dizzy and Paul Dean, who will ask a joint salary of $40,000 for their pitching next season, dropped in on President Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals for a chat today. The meeting was announced as solely a social get-together, but it is known Breadon would like to sign the Deans at once.

The brothers, who pitched the Cardinals to their four victories over the Detroit Tigers in the world's series, have been on a barnstorming and vaudeville tour.

Make $12,000 Each.

"We made about $12,000 apiece since the world series," Dizzy said. "So there ain't going to be no big bad wolves running around our house at Deanville this winter.

"But that ain't going to make me unreasonable. Take some and leave some, I says, and Mr. Breadon will find us very reasonable, and as I might say to him in a letter, hoping he is the same, I am yours truly, Dizzy."

When they get around to contracts, Dizzy has announced he will ask for a one year agreement calling for a $25,000 salary, and Paul will say he thinks he should be paid $15,000.

Plan Strategic Moves.

If it looks like a battle of the dotted line, Dizzy will make $35,000 his basic demand, leaving a margin of $10,000 for oratorical deflation. Paul, by the same line of reasoning, will start at $20,000.

Dizzy's 1934 contract called for a salary of $7,500 and he received a $1,000 bonus when he signed the document. Paul, a first year man, was signed for $3,000.

PRINCETON ONLY MAJOR TEAM TO KEEP 1933 PACE

New Strong Elevens Replace Former Greats.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—So great has been the carnage this season among the 1933 football leaders that only Princeton of the major teams has kept pace with its stride of last autumn.

Princeton, with five successive victories, is in the same spot it held a year ago as the country's college squads drove toward their second November engagements.

There are twenty-two unbeaten and untied elevens today in contrast with nineteen a year ago, and only three of that number appear on the honor roll now. They are Princeton, DePauw, and Bluefield college of West Virginia.

New Strong Teams Arise.

But as the former greats have fallen, other strong clubs have rushed into their positions—teams like Alabama, Minnesota, Navy, Michigan State and Illinois.

Southern California, one of last year's stronger teams, has dropped among the also rans. Duke, a Rose Bowl contender last November, has been defeated. Michigan, with a perfect record through the previous campaign, has been beaten four times. Georgia has been beaten three.

Stanford and Columbia, the Rose Bowl participants, are among the beaten or tied legions. Both, however, were in the same position this time last season.

Navy Wins Six Straight.

A year ago Army was riding high and Navy had been eliminated. The table is reversed now with Army whipped by Illinois and Navy possessing one of its best teams in years, boasting six successive triumphs.

Minnesota's powerhouse seems headed for a perfect season. Alabama, tied early last year by Mississippi, is one of the south's best.

Tulane, whipped several times during the previous season, has been rolling along with enough power to win its six contests. Illinois, with a fast, deceptive squad, stands ready to challenge Minnesota's rights for the Big Ten title. Michigan state has come forward as one of the best in the central states.

Here are the unbeaten and untied comparisons:

This year—Alabama, Trinity [Connecticut], DePauw [Indiana], Tulane, Navy, Birmingham-Southern, Augustana [Illinois], Cape Girardeau [Missouri], Teachers, Princeton, Minnesota, Syracuse, St. Vincent [Pennsylvania], Kirksville [Missouri] Teachers, Michigan State, Ohio Northern, Upper Iowa, Illinois, Tufts, Bluefield, Utah Aggies, Washington, and Panzer [New Jersey].

Last year—Duquesne, Bluefield, Army, McPherson [Kansas], De Paul [Chicago], Oregon, Emory and Henry [Virginia], St. Cloud [Minnesota], Murray [Kentucky], Oklahoma City, Princeton, Georgia, Duke, DePauw, St. Thomas [Pennsylvania], Michigan, Nebraska, Tampa, and Rollins.

New York, Nov. 5.—Reflecting the tendency of the impending holiday to curtail interest in the market, bonds were extremely dull through today's session. Price movements were generally narrow.

United States treasury obligations were easier, losing 1-32 to 8-32 point.

Domestic corporation bonds were generally firm, but lacking in important change. Rails were slightly mixed, while industrials and utilities were slightly easier.

List of Strongest Issues.

Among the strongest corporation issues were American Ice 5s, up 2½ at 70; Certain-Teed 5½s, up 2½ at 62½; Goodrich 6s, up 1¼ at 82; New Haven debenture 4s of 1957, up 1½ at 33½; North American Edison 5s of 1969, up 1 at 79; Paramount-Publix 5½s, up 2½ at 57¾; Iron Mountain 4s, up 1½ at 58½; Skelly Oil 5½s, up 1⅛ at 94⅝; Studebaker 6s, up 1 at 47, and Walworth first 6s, up 3 at 40.

Germany's decision to suspend all cash payments on external obligations between July 1, 1934, and June 30, 1935, depressed German dollar bonds still further. Young plan 5½s declined fractionally, but the Dawes plan 7s were off 2 at 38.

Others Rise Sharply.

El Salvador 8s of 1948 gained 9 at 65½ and Siemens & Halske 7s rose 5 to 52. However, the turnover in the foreign section was small.

Transactions totaled $8,177,000, par value, against $9,452,000 last Friday. Trade in U. S. government securities amounted to only about $1,200,000.

Anaconda Copper.

Investors' Guide: Would you kindly advise me what your opinion is of Anaconda Copper?—D. V. F.

Answer: Anaconda Copper Mining company is the world's leading copper miner and fabricator of copper products. It occupies an important position in production of byproducts, such as gold, silver, zinc, and lead.

It owns Chile Copper company, an unusually low cost producer owning the largest known copper deposit in the world. The United States copper tarif practically excludes imports of foreign copper, so the Chilean subsidiary is confined to foreign markets for its sales.

United States holdings are principally near Butte, Mont. The Butte mines operated at about 25 per cent of capacity in 1933, and the copper producers' code holds them down to about 20 per cent production.

Rising prices of copper since the spring of 1933 have been of substantial benefit to the company, but earnings still reflect limited production, heavy interest on bank loans and expenses of carrying nonproducing fabricating and mining properties.

Operating income for the first half of 1934 was $9,642,000 and net income before depletion was $2,986,000, or 34 cents a share.

	Gross reven.	*Net income.	*Inc. per share.
1933	$72,902,000	†$6,822,000	†$0.79
1932	52,296,000	†16,855,000	†1.94
1931	96,388,000	†3,169,000	†.37

*Before depletion. †Loss.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1933, including $9,300,000 cash assets, totaled $90,296,000, and current liabilities, including $68,898,000 notes payable, were $77,581,000. As of June 30, 1934, cash was $12,986,000 and notes payable were $64,214,000.

Funded debt totals $32,600,000. There are outstanding 8,673,833 shares of $50 par stock on which nothing has been paid since Aug. 17, 1931.

In April, 1934, the Chile properties were turning out the red metal at 4½ cents a pound; Montana mines at less than 7 cents a pound, and the Andes properties at 6.9 cents a pound. It is thus apparent that costs were at record low levels. Recent adjustment of wages might have increased operating costs.

The stock is speculative.

American Radiator and Standard Sanitary.

Investors' Guide: Is it possible for you to tell me the high, low and close on American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation common stock on March 25, 1930?—K. H. J.

Answer: The stock was quoted at a high of 36, low and close of 35⅛ on March 25, 1930.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 5.—The pickup in sales of wool on the Boston market since the middle of October has resulted in little change in prices, but it has indicated an improvement in consumption of wool. Increased sales and deliveries of wool tops recently have also indicated an upward trend in wool consumption.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was dull today and no sales were reported, as buyers and sellers were far apart. The former, while not showing any great interest, were believed ready to pay last prices for store Cubas, or 2.80c per lb, but there was nothing firmly offered below 2.90c.

The announcement over the week-end by the AAA that no over quota sugars can be processed before Jan. 1, 1935, apparently had no immediate influence.

There was a lack of interest in the futures market owing to the holiday tomorrow and the inactivity in the spot market, with final prices net unchanged to 1 point higher. Sales were only 3,400 tons, the smallest in a good many months.

COUNTY TO SEEK BUILDING TITLE FOR BACK TAXES

Aquitania Apartment Now Delinquent $245,000.

BY AL CHASE.

The county board yesterday reconsidered action taken on Nov. 1 and authorized its attorneys to take title on behalf of the county to the fifteen story Aquitania apartment building at 832 Argyle street, built several years ago by George K. Spoor, who at one time was one of the largest film producers in the country. This action is to enable the county to get $245,000 in delinquent taxes.

Last week Attorney U. S. Schwartz, representing the bondholders, announced that arrangements had been made to negotiate a loan to pay off the back taxes and the county board deferred action to take title until Dec. 1. The board's special attorneys, Edward Fleming and Albert E. Jenner Jr., will appear before Judge William Lindsay in the Superior court tomorrow and ask that the county be given title to the property.

Bondholders May Ask Delay.

It was suggested that the attorneys for the bondholders could appeal to Judge Lindsay for more time in which to reorganize the property. If the county obtains title it will place an agent in the building to begin operating it, using the profits to pay the delinquent taxes, some of which date back to 1924.

The action of the board was unanimous and was on the motion of Commissioner Peter M. Kelly. A committee headed by George W. Rossetter and Attorney Schwartz, representing the 1,500 bondholders of the Aquitania, appeared before the board.

Z. Erol Smith, architect, has drawn plans for a forty-two apartment building and bids will be taken today for its erection at the southwest corner of Sedgwick and Webster by the North Side Management corporation, of which Fred Becklenberg is the principal stockholder. The building permit calls for a $75,000 structure.

New Building for North Side.

William A. Wieboldt of 106 South Ashland avenue, has had plans drawn by Adolph Woerner of 3166 Lincoln avenue for a one and two story brick building to contain stores and apartments to be erected at 3332-36 Lincoln avenue. According to the building permit, just issued, the structure will cost $25,000.

A reduction in rent for the next ten years in the ninety-nine year lease on the property at 1548 West Madison street, between Mary Gould Woodin and John R. Thompson & Co., lessees, was filed for record yesterday in the county recorder's office. The original lease called for $7,200 annually until March 1, 1935, and $8,000 yearly thereafter. The lessor has reduced the rent to $6,749 for the year ending March 31, 1935, and to $6,000 annually for the next ten years. The lease then resumes its original figure of $8,000 annually.

PLAN TO FORCE RESERVE BANKS TO BUY BONDS

NewDealersSeeking Tighter Control.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

A move to tighten the administration's control over the twelve federal reserve banks in order to enable the New Dealers to dictate the government bond purchases of these institutions is under way in Washington, it was learned yesterday on good authority. This move is expected to give the administration the equivalent of a government owned central bank without abolishing the federal reserve system. In fact, its sponsors hope to accomplish it without any additional legislation.

The agitation for scrapping the federal reserve system and establishing a central bank has cropped up in a number of places during the last few months, but during the recent convention of the American Bankers' association in Washington it was reported that President Roosevelt had been cold toward opening the banking statutes to wholesale revision, his financial lieutenants having discovered that they could accomplish the same ends by easier methods.

Resent Chicago Bank's Independence.

For a long time politicians in Washington have resented the spirit of independence that has been manifested by some of the federal reserve banks, particularly the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. During the Coolidge administration the argument centered around the raising and lowering of the rediscount rate. The Chicago bank took the stand—later demonstrated to be a wise one—that abnormal lowering of the rediscount rate made money rates so cheap that it only served to build up an unwieldy and insupportable inflation of credit.

During the last year and a half hard feelings between the New Dealers and the reserve banks have centered around the "open market operations," that is, the policy of the reserve banks with respect to purchases of government bonds. Having loaded up with about two and a half billions of government bonds, the reserve banks several months ago stopped buying more.

Treasury Goes On Borrowing.

This hasn't cramped the treasury's borrowing and bond selling activities seriously as yet, because the commercial banks have continued to buy bonds, but there is a feeling in Washington that in the future big buying by the reserve banks may be necessary to keep the government bond market from slipping.

In casting about for an instrument to absorb vast quantities of government bonds, if necessary, some of the politicians have been proposing that the federal reserve banks be abolished and that there be created in their place a single central bank entirely owned and controled politically. Such a bank could lend money to the treasury by buying the treasury's bonds and then it could turn around and print the money to pay for the bonds by using the same bonds as security for the paper money.

Now it develops that the financial advisers to the administration have discovered that by applying pressure the federal reserve banks can be made to do this same job, if called upon, without amending the federal reserve act.

Banks Under Dual Control.

Under the act each of the twelve federal reserve banks has two heads, namely [1] the governor, who is elected by the directors of the bank, and [2] the chairman of the board, who is appointed by the treasury and is ex officio fiscal agent of the treasury in his district.

It has so happened that in each district the governer has come to be regarded as the boss of the bank and the chairman of the board has assumed a relatively minor position.

Now Washington has discovered that there is nothing in the law stipulating such a condition and the President's advisers have come to the conclusion that by applying the heat it would be fairly easy to put the administration's representative in the boss job. In some cases this may mean replacing a present chairman with a more docile proconsul.

Government Controls Jobs.

Chairmen of reserve banks come up for reappointment each year in December. Governors, too, are dependent upon the pleasure of the administration because, although they are elected by the directors, the majority of whom are chosen by the member banks in the district, the governors' salaries must be approved by the politically appointed federal reserve board in Washington.

These governors' jobs are attractive po[illegible]ions, paying from $24,000 to $50,000 [illegible]r year, depending upon the distri[illegible] Governors not willing to see the lig[illegible]ould be induced either to resi[illegible]r mend their ways by a little sa[illegible]fixing in Washington.

[illegible] entrenched by having its own picked men placed in charge of the 12 reserve banks, the reasoning goes, the treasury would be able to say "Simon says, 'Thumbs up,'" to the reserve banks on government bond purchases and be assured of the correct response from its carefully chosen "yes men."

Would Assure More Funds.

This would provide the necessary second line of defense for the treasury in its big borrowing campaign to finance future federal deficits, because any time that the commercial banks should be unwilling or unable to lend enough money to finance New Deal expenditures the reserve banks could be called upon to lend whatever amount would be needed, and, if necessary, pay for them entirely with currency secured only by the very bonds bought with that currency.

How far this disguised policy of greenbackism could be followed before the public would get wise and start fleeing from currency nobody pretends to know. Currency inflation of this type is more complicated and its significance would be harder for the layman to grasp.

Member Bank Trade Loans Still Lagging

Despite recently renewed efforts by the Washington administration to get banks to loosen up in extending credit to business and industry, during the week ended Oct. 31 there was an increase of only $3,000,000 in commercial loans over the preceding week, according to the weekly report of federal reserve member banks in 91 leading cities of the country. The New York banks increased their commercial loans by $2,000,000, and the Chicago banks reduced such loans by $8,000,000, while there was an increase of $9,000,000 in the other cities.

Gross deposits of the member banks increased $31,000,000 over the preceding week. Of this the New York banks gained $3,000,000, the Chicago banks $14,000,000 and the banks in 89 cities $14,000,000.

Government Bonds Decline.

There was no marked change in holdings of direct obligations of the United States government. The New York banks increased their holdings in this category by $6,000,000, in Chicago there was a decline of $9,000,000, and in the other cities there was a decline of $11,000,000. The decline for all the banks was $14,000,000.

However, there was a marked gain in the holdings of obligations fully guaranteed by the government. These include the Home Owner Loan corporation bonds. For the country as a whole there was a gain of $66,000,000. New York banks increased their holdings by $19,000,000, while banks in 89 cities added $47,000,000 to their holdings. There was no change in the Chicago banks.

Loans on Securities Lower.

Loans on securities declined $23,000,000 for the country as a whole. The New York banks reported a decline of $18,000,000, the Chicago banks a gain of $2,000,000, and banks in the 89 other cities a decline of $7,000,000.

Total loans and investments declined $13,000,000. There was a gain of $9,000,000 at New York, a decline of $17,000,000 at Chicago, and a decline of $5,000,000 in the other cities.

Individual deposits at the member banks were up $26,000,000 for the country as a whole. The New York banks' deposits were off $59,000,000, while those in Chicagao reported a gain of $14,000,000, and banks in the other 89 cities reported a gain of $71,000,000.

AM. TELEPHONE REPORTS GAIN OF 33,200 STATIONS

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The American Telephone and Telegraph company today reported 33,200 more telephones were in service in the Bell system during October, 1934, compared with a gain of 13,400 a year ago.

The New York Telephone company gained 1,202 stations in October, compared with a gain of 1,899 in October, 1933, and a loss of 13,936 in the corresponding month of 1932. For the first ten months of the year the station increase was 1,376, against a loss of 115,375 in the corresponding period of 1933 and a loss of 214,330 in the 1932 period.

United Carbon's Third Quarter Profit Higher

United Carbon company and subsidiaries yesterday reported net profit of $318,040 for the quarter ended Sept. 30, equal, after preferred dividends, to 86 cents a share on the common, compared with $178,916, or 40 cents a share, in the corresponding quarter of last year. For the first nine months net profit totaled $988,413, or $2.53 a share, against $479,647, or $1.05 a share in the corresponding period of 1933.

Rails' Operating Income Slightly Above Year Ago

Class 1 railroads of the United States for the first nine months of 1934 had a net railway operating income of $342,609,842, which was at the annual rate of return of 1.80 per cent on their property investment, says the Association of American Railroads. In the first nine months of 1933 their net railway operating income was $341,457,795, or 1,78 per cent on their investment.

FIVE CITIES TO VOTE ON MUNICIPAL POWER BOND ISSUES TODAY

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Voters in five cities will determine tomorrow whether they wish to spend $22,566,000 on municipal electric light and power properties. This is a reduction both in number and amount of similar proposals voted on a year ago, when two-thirds of the cities decided against municipal ownership.

Of greatest immediate importance is the situation in Memphis, Tenn., where it is proposed to issue general liability bonds in an amount not exceeding $9,000,000 to acquire, by purchase or erection, a plant or system to supply and distribute electricity to be furnished by the Tennessee Valley authority. The city is now served by the Memphis Power and Light company, an affiliate of the Electric Bond and Share company, which is expected to fight any move toward municipal competition if the city votes for a publicly owned plant.

Next in importance is the $12,000,000 bond project of the Sacramento, Cal., municipal utility district, covering some 42,000 acres, to provide funds for the construction of an electric distribution system and a steam generating plant to compete with the systems of the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Muskogee, Okla., will vote on a $1,260,000 bond issue for construction of a municipal electric plant, while Wapakoneka, O., will ask for $160,000, and Morenci, Mich., for $146,000 for similar projects.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Constitutionality of the order under which President Roosevelt took gold out of circulation will be reviewed in a new case, under direction of the Supreme court today. Prompt settlement of the case will promote the public interest, Solicitor General Biggs told the court.

The question involved is whether bonds of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railway shall be paid in gold despite the executive orders and regulations relating to gold. The issue is identical with the case in which a Baltimore and Ohio stockholder demands payment of interest in gold, and the Iron Mountain case will be argued immediately following the hearing on the Baltimore and Ohio suit.

In this case the Reconstruction Finance corporation appeals from a decision of the District court for eastern Missouri which found payment in gold or its equivalent "impossible in fact and in law," and that only legal tender could be paid. The RFC's interest arises through the fact that in connection with reorganization of the Missouri Pacific, it lent $23,134,000 on collateral consisting of junior mortgages, and also has a claim against the railroad for $5,000,000 in unpaid taxes.

Supreme Court to Review Tri-Ergon Patent Claims

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.] — The Supreme court reversed its position today and announced it would grant reviews on the validity of moving picture equipment patents owned by Tri-Ergon corporation. The outcome of this patent fight is regarded as vital to the picture industry. No dates have been set for the hearings.

Gen. Motors Pays 25 Cents; Omits Extra

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The usual quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock was declared today by the directors of General Motors corporation. The dividend is payable Dec. 12 to stock of record Nov. 15.

In the previous quarter an extra distribution of 25 cents a share was authorized in addition to the regular payment. This action followed publication of an earnings statement for the quarter ended June 30 which showed net income almost double that recorded for the Sept. 30 quarter.

The regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the preferred stock was also declared payable Feb. 1 to shareholders of record Jan. 7.

Elect Four New Directors.

The election of four new directors of General Motors was announced. The new directors are Richard H. Grant, vice president in charge of sales; Ormond E. Hunt, vice president in charge of engineering; C. E. Wilson, vice president, who is associated with William S. Knudson, executive vice president, and John J. Schumann Jr., president of the General Motors Acceptance corporation, financing subsidiary of General Motors. The three vice presidents make their headquarters in Detroit, and their election as directors means a substantial increase in the number of Detroit operating executives on the board of the parent company. Mr. Schumann makes his headquarters in New York.

Two months ago C. T. Fisher and Fred J. Fisher, vice presidents, of Detroit, resigned as General Motors executives and directors. Four other Fisher brothers are continuing in the management of the company.

Sales Rise, Earnings Decline.

The three months ended Sept. 30 accounted for sales of $209,986,666, against $178,967,035 for the corresponding period of 1933. The June 30 report showed sales of $303,407,073, compared with $191,954,311 the same three months last year.

Net income for the Sept. 30 quarter was $22,858,728, against $33,341,618 a year ago, $40,308,403 for the June quarter this year, and $41,226,929 for the June quarter of 1933. Preferred dividends in the four periods were earned 9.96, 14.53, 17.57, and 17.95 times respectively. The respective earnings on common shares were 48 cents, 72 cents, 88 cents, and 90 cents.

DOLLAR HOLDS STEADY; THREE GOLD MONEYS BELOW EXPORT POINT

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The condition of the currencies of the European gold bloc countries remained precarious again today, with the French franc, Dutch guilder and Belgian belga so far below gold export points as to justify movement of the metal to New York.

Dutch guilders fell 7 points to a new low of 67.58 cents, lowest for the present movement, but rallied to 67.64, still under the gold point. French francs dropped ¼ of a point, but rallied slightly to close unchanged at 6.58¾ cents. Sterling rose a full cent to 4.99⅜, indicating a flow of money from the continent, but soon eased to 4.99, up ¾ cent.

The value of the dollar based on the new par of the franc was $1.0069, unchanged from Saturday. Calculated on the old par of the franc the dollar was worth 59.47 cents.

Gold prices in London declined 3½ pence to 139 shillings 6½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.75 based on the opening of sterling at $4.98⅛. Bars valued at $1,623,887 were sold.

Although both Paris and London report that the United States treasury has been operating in those cities to prevent gold imports, experienced dealers here said they were unable to discern any evidence of it.

Paris dispatches said the treasury was buying francs and earmarking gold in Paris, and London reported it was selling dollars to buy silver.

BANKRUPTCY ACT MAY BE INVOKED BY CLOSED BANKS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The Supreme court today indicated without issuing a formal decision that the bankruptcy act of 1933 may extend to closed banks. The court refused to report a suit brought by Joseph A. Broderick, banking superintendent of the state of New York, against the Irving Trust Comany of New York.

Broderick, as banking superintendent, took over in February, 1933, the business of Dominick J. and George J. Faour, private bankers. He proceeded with the liquidation of the bank until December, when the Faour's appealed to the courts under the bankruptcy act of 1933 for a composition and extension of debts.

The Irving Trust company was named receiver and asked in January, 1934, that the property of the Faour bank be turned over to it. The District court and the second Circuit Court of Appeals both upheld the application of the law as claimed by the Irving Trust. Broderick appealed to the Supreme court on the ground that the bankruptcy act did not apply to a state banking official.

ALL MAIN TRAINS OF WEST TO BE AIR CONDITIONED

Big Project Affects About 1,200 Cars.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

All transcontinental trains and practically every major train in the western territory will be air conditioned by the time the summer season opens next year, Harry Guy Taylor, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives, announced last night.

Mr. Taylor said that during the coming months about 1,200 cars will be air conditioned. Of these 700 cars will be Pullmans and 500 cars will be coaches owned by the railroads. The cars to be so improved include sleepers, diners, club cars and observation cars.

Many Lines Participate.

Practically all western and southwestern railroads will participate in the general improvement, Mr. Taylor said, including the Santa Fe, North Western, Milwaukee, Alton, Rock Island, Burlington, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Katy, Frisco, Illinois Central and Chicago & Eastern Illinois.

Mr. Taylor said that he was not able to make an estimate as to the cost of the improvement. He said it is likely that the greater part of the work will be undertaken at Chicago, particularly the Pullman car conditioning.

Western Roads Lag.

The western roads, which have been somewhat behind the eastern lines in installing air conditioning, at the end of September had slightly more than 500 cars with the new equipment. Many of the important eastern trains have been air conditioned throughout for years. There has been considerable agitation for the conditioning of the transcontinental trains which cross the western desert country.

Mr. Taylor said that there will be two main types of conditioning installed—ice activated and mechanical. Because it costs less, he said that probably the greater part will be of the ice activated type.

Effort to Win Trafic.

Try to Win Trafic.

"The installation of this improvement," Mr. Taylor said, "is the second major step taken by the western railroads in their campaign to win passengers back to their lines. Last December they put into effect greatly reduced fares and the reception of the reduction by the public has been more or less encouraging.

"While the installation of air conditioning means a considerable expense to the roads they are undertaking it in their effort to keep step with progress in other lines of American activity."

CANADIAN PAPER FIRM PENALIZED FOR LOW PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Nov. 5.—The province of Quebec today notified the St. Lawrence Paper Mills, which operate extensive timber limits in lower Quebec, that its stumpage dues have been increased from $2.35 per 1,000 feet to $2.70. This action is the result of St. Lawrence mills renewing contracts with United States clients for 1935 at this year's price of $41 per ton.

It was understood that prices were to be boosted to $45 per ton for 1935, but St. Lawrence apparently renewed contracts with their clients across the border at the lower figure, which aroused Premier Taschereau's ire and had resulted in the company being called upon to pay higher stumpage dues than its rivals.

Montgomery Ward's Sales Show Upturn

October sales of the big Chicago mail order and chain store houses continued to maintain the gains over the preceding year which have been reported for many months without interruption. Montgomery Ward & Co.'s sales last month totaled $29,703,511, compared with $22,780,643 in October, 1933, an increase of 30.39 per cent. Spiegel-May-Stern company's sales amounted to $3,572,420, compared with $2,305,957 in October a year ago, a gain of 54.9 per cent.

Montgomery Ward & Co. explained that the October increase was partly attributable to the fact that there were 27 sales days last month, against 26 in the like month of last year. On a day by day comparison basis the October gain was 25.56 per cent. Sales for the nine months ended Oct. 31—the company's fiscal year begins on Feb. 1—totaled $182,409,843, compared with $136,807,815 in the like period of 1933, an increase of $45,602,028, or 33.33 per cent.

More Buying by Farmers.

The general increases that have been occurring this year were attributed to the following three factors:

1. The purchasing power of the farmers has been strengthened by the higher prices they have been receiving for their commodities. This in turn has been responsible for improved business conditions in the small towns where they do business and where Ward's are in the field.

2. Large amounts of federal funds in connection with various farm aid programs of the government have been made available in the territories in which Ward's operates.

3. The company has been doing a better job than it did last year in all ways, including merchandising, selling, etc.

The company's sales for October were substantially higher than those in September when the total was $23,093,465. The last quarter of the year normally is the best in the company's business. The rate of increase in September over September, 1933, however, showed to better advantage than the October comparison, the September rate of gain being 40 per cent.

Spiegel-May-Stern Sales Rise.

Net sales of Spiegel-May-Stern for the first ten months of 1934 totaled $19,636,386, compared with $9,375,905 in the corresponding period of 1933, an increase of 109 per cent. M. J. Spiegel Jr., treasurer and general manager, stated that October business was the largest in the history of the company and was the twenty-first consecutive month in which net sales showed an increase over those of the corresponding month in the preceding year. It was indicated that the gains were due to better merchandising methods.

W. T. Grant & Co. reported October sales of $7,822,175, compared with $7,122,539 in October, 1933, an increase of 9.8 per cent. For the first 10 months of 1934 sales mounted to $63,055,985, compared with $58,297,954 for the like period of last year, a gain of 8.1 per cent.

Sales of the S. S. Kresge company in October totaled $11,498,690, compared with $10,848,333 in the same month last year. In the first ten months of this year sales amounted to $104,928,710, against $95,536,928 in the same period last year.

OUTPUT OF STEEL 26.3%; HIGHEST SINCE LATE JULY

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel Institute estimates steel industry operations for this week at 26.3 per cent of capacity, against 25 per cent a week ago and 23.6 per cent a month ago. This is the highest operating rate reported since the last week in July.

The week's operations show a gain of 1.3 points, or 5.2 per cent, over those of the previous week. There has been a slow but steady recovery in operations since the week of Sept. 3, which marked the year's extreme low at 18.4 per cent of capacity. In the last three weeks the upturn amounted to 14.6 per cent, which was in sharp contrast with a year ago, when mill activities were on the decline.

NEW DEAL FAILS, THROW IT OUT, DR. WILLIS URGES

Advises Drive to Reveal Fallacies.

The New Deal of economic planning and governmental control of business is a failure, Dr. H. Parker Willis, professor of banking and finance at Columbia university told 400 persons at the Illinois Manufacturers Costs association last night at the La Salle hotel.

H. PARKER WILLIS.

Dr. Willis, who was the first secretary of the federal reserve board, called upon business men and manufacturers to fight to show up fallacies of the New Deal and obtain its bodily removal. Leadership, he said, must come from the middle west.

"This part of the nation still is reasonably American in population and tone," Dr. Willis said, "less vitiated by emigration than New England or by immigration than New York. The descendants of those who originally laid the foundations of our commonwealth must take it back from those who have no faith in Anglo-Saxon ideas of government or of our law, and to whom our national constitution has become only an object of ridicule and attack.

Says Midwest Is Sensible.

"The people of Chicago and the midwest are particularly ready to listen to and see common sense," said Dr. Willis, "because the Chicago press has had a better recognition of its duty and responsibility than any other in the country. Were it not for them, an obnoxious newspaper code would be in effect and we would have a Hitlerized press. This fact will be a great element in our salvation.

"The United States has suffered a whirlwind of promises, an earthquake of credit, and a devastating fire of experimentation which has laid waste much of our industrial civilization. Congress with no excuse whatsoever struck out the gold clause and devalued the dollar."

Warning of destructive taxes to finance New Deal squandering, the first to come next March for the 2½ per cent who pay income taxes, Dr. Willis called it the duty of every person to oppose efforts to make the program permanent. Government alone may settle accounts by saying it won't pay, he said.

Declares Bankers Defeated.

The fight must come from business, industry, and the press, he insisted, as the bankers have "bowed their heads in worship and kissed the rod prepared for their chastisement." He referred to the recent bankers' convention, but added that bankers who are "owned" by the government can not much be blamed. Banks today are more frozen than ever before because loaded with government bonds "for which there is no market," he declared.

Laughter greeted the professor's assertion that he did not come to discredit the New Deal. Applause followed when he asserted that it is obsolete and not worth discrediting. It burst again when he said it "already is condemned by its self-inconsistency and failure to show results. It mingled with guffaws when the professor expressed a wish that the brain trust destroy itself. Paying the piper and return to common sense were his concerns, he said.

"Financial wild oats have been freely sowed. That is one crop that can't be plowed under. Much of what we are suffering is because too many of us have been inclined to stick to our

ELECTION EVE RISE IMPROVES TONE IN STOCKS

Building Shares in Best Demand; Volume Gains.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 5.—A modest rise in stock prices put Wall Street in a cheery election-eve mood today. Most of the rally, however, was crowded into the early period of trading, with prices later tending to ease off and the trend of buying assuming a selective character. Leading issues finished the day at gains ranging from fractions to more than a point in scattered instances. A rise in volume to the three-quarter million share level accompanied the advance.

Building shares, merchandising stocks and, later, the oils, stood out for group strength, and the proceedings were enlivened by spurts in certain individual speculative favorites. An interesting sidelight was furnished by the sudden appearance of demand for senior shares of many companies, preferred shares rising one to more than three points at their highs for the day.

Retire to Sidelines.

The market's late afternoon drift into dullness reflected the Wall street crowd's determination to retire to the sidelines for a last-minute contemplation of the election prospects. It was the opinion of a majority of the trading fraternity that the administration may plot a new course after the voting.

While week-end trade news contained nothing of a sensational nature, the market liked the general run of constructive statistics, venting its enthusiasm in a strong opening in active dealings.

The building industry at the moment is stealing the spotlight from steel as a recovery index, not so much from new construction as from repairs and improvements.

However, the building industry at the moment is stealing the spotlight from steel as a recovery index, not so much from new construction as from repairs and improvements anticipated as a result of earlier loans and reduced interest rates.

Finishing up more than a point, Johns Manville set the pace for the building section. This group had a close companion on the rise in Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck, together with other merchandising stocks. United Stores A, usually an inactive issue, stood out for volume.

Long Bell Price Doubles.

A buying spurt doubled the price of Long Bell Lumber. Various classes of Celotex advanced one to four points, while Certainteed Products common and preferred climbed one to five respectively.

Special strength in some spots reflected the activities of well known market figures. Coca-Cola was a leader for strength on a net rise of more than two points. Budd common and preferred were shoved ahead in an extension of the advance started last week.

Ignoring the new gain in the industry's operations, United States Steel held to a fractional gain, and pivotal industrials generally were indifferent to the antics of specialty stocks. Traders did little in auto stocks while awaiting news of the General Motors dividend meeting late today.

Rail Dispute Over Trains in Federal Court Nov. 13

Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the United States District court yesterday set Nov. 13 for a hearing before three judges on the injunction requested by the New York Central and the Louisville and Nashville to restrain the enforcement of an order of Joseph B. Eastman compelling the L. & N. to continue its operating agreement with the Chicago and Eastern Illinois. For more than 50 years L. & N. trains have been brought into Chicago over the tracks of the C. E. & I. The L. & N. recently sought to end the agreement and to enter into one with the Big Four—a part of the New York Central system.

GASOLINE WAR ENDED IN EAST; PRICES RAISED

Socony-Vacuum Gives Cue to Other Concerns.

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The Socony-Vacuum Oil company tomorrow will advance the price of gasoline throughout its territory to approximately the level prevailing before the recent gasoline price cuts. Other major companies are expected to adjust their prices to correspond with the new schedules of Socony-Vacuum. Gasoline price reductions in Socony's territory have been confined to a few cities.

Meetings of representatives of the major oil companies and the gasoline stabilization subcommittee of the oil marketing committee of the petroleum code were held again today. While no statement was issued, it was reported that the differential between the retail price of standard brands of gasoline and unbranded fuel was taken up. Unofficial reports said the major companies were divided on the question of whether the differential should be 7-10 of a cent, 1 cent, or no differential at all.

Gasoline Pool Resumes Buying.

The gasoline pool, organized by approximately twenty large companies supplying motor fuel to the public, today resumed purchases of gasoline under agreements with refiners in the east Texas field. Purchases had been suspended on Sept. 29 owing to weakening of the market caused by a heavy flow of "hot" oil, which now has been checked.

The decision to reinstate the purchases followed a series of conferences by the oil companies. It was decided to accept uniform dealer margins, recommended by the marketing committee of the planning and coördination committee of the oil administration last week.

The agreement stipulates that dealers shall receive allowances of 3½ cents for supergasoline and regular gasoline and 2 cents for third grade motor fuel. That agreement settles a question which has been vexing the industry for years.

Restores Oil to $1.08.

Arkansas City, Kas., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Kanotex Refining company today posted $1.08 as its top price for crude oil, retroactive to Oct. 25, when Kanotex cut to 62 cents.

"As east Texas conditions have improved, we gladly reinstate the former price," said C. M. Boggs, the Kanotex president.

RFC AUTHORIZES $297,263,575 LOANS IN SEPTEMBER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Authorizations and advances in September by the Reconstruction Finance corporation totaled $297,263,575, but $250,000,000 of that represented a commitment for the Commodity Credit corporation to be available if necessary to aid in the orderly marketing of agricultural commodities, the RFC's monthly report to congress showed today.

The report indicated a sharp restriction of activities in many fields, with loans authorized to banks dropping to $11,742,171, of which $10,556,678 was for aid in the reorganization or liquidation of closed banks. New loans to going banks have largely dropped out of the picture as the RFC's campaign to buy preferred stock and capital notes of banks nears a conclusion.

Chairman Jones said he believed the depositors would recover about $4,000,000,000 on the $6,500,000,000 in assets that had been tied up in the country's closed banks.

Up to September 30 the RFC had contributed to the campaign to aid the depositors by authorizing an aggregate of $962,763,895 in loans on assets to aid in the reorganization or liquidation of financial institutions.

The commitment to the Commodity Credit corporation was largely offset by the cancellation of $151,004,259 of an earlier allocation, expiring on Sept. 30, which had not been used, and a repayment during the month of $33,293,895.

AMERICAN LIFE GROUP RENTS QUARTERS HERE

The American Life Convention and its affiliate, the American Service bureau, which announced a short time ago that headquarters would be moved from St. Louis to Chicago, have rented three floors of the Carbide and Carbon building for occupancy about Dec. 1.

The American Life Convention is an association of 127 life insurance companies, mainly of the middle west and south, the largest such organization in the world. In 1926 its headquarters were moved from Omaha, Neb., to St. Louis.

At the association's last convention in Chicago at the Edgewater Beach hotel, its members voted to transfer to Chicago because of this city's greater accessibility to a large proportion of the membership.

HOLDS CHRYSLER MOTOR DID NOT VIOLATE PATENT

Denver, Col., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Federal Judge F. Foster Symes today decided the Chrysler Motor company did not infringe upon patents of a Denver inventor when it adopted "floating power."

The suit was filed by Rolland S. Trott and the Borg-Warner corporation of Illinois against a Denver distributor for Chrysler. Trott alleged he had shown his patent to the patent expert for the motor company and that the company adopted some of his ideas.

RFC to Continue Making Railroad Loans at 4 Pct.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Loans to railroads by the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be continued at 4 per cent for the "time being." Chairman Jones said in response to questions at his press conference today that he had made this decision Nov. 1. The interest rate has been reduced several times to the present 4 per cent.

FOREIGN TRADE OF U. S. RUNS 30% ABOVE YEAR AGO

Exports Rise 41% in Nine Months.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—United States foreign trade during the first nine months of 1934 was more than 30 per cent in value above the corresponding period of 1933, the commerce department revealed today. Exports rose more than 41 per cent and imports nearly 20 per cent.

Total exports during the nine months of 1934 were valued at $1,561,365,597, compared with a total of $1,105,030,155 in the corresponding period of 1933. Imports in the 1934 period were valued at $1,241,732,242 compared with $1,036,632,489.

September exports amounted to $191,690,169 compared with $160,119,098 a year ago. In the same month imports were valued at $131,658,732 against $146,642,944 in 1933.

All Divisions Gain.

In September there was an increase in value of exports to all grand divisions, but a decrease in value of imports from Europe, Asia, Oceania, and Africa, with increases from North and South America.

Exports in September were more than 11 per cent higher in value than in August, when the total was $171,965,000. September imports were more than 12 per cent higher than those for August, when the total was $117,288,000, reversing the downward trend of the three previous months.

September exports increased over September, 1933, to 38 countries of 50 listed, but imports fell off from 31.

Liquidation of Twenty More State Banks Shows Progress

Payment of another 5 per cent dividend by the Chatfield Trust and Savings bank, the prospect of an early distribution of 20 per cent more by the Congress Park State bank, and sizable liquidations by the Citizens State Bank of Chicago, the Chicago Bank of Commerce, and Cosmopolitan State bank are features of reports issued last night by State Auditor Barrett on the condition of twenty more of Cook county's closed banks for the quarter ended Sept. 30.

A number of old attorneys' bills were paid, some of them dating back to the previous administration, which retired Jan. 1, 1933. Settlement also was made for the first time on lawyers' fees since that date at six of the defunct institutions.

Seven Banks Pay Nothing.

Seven of the twenty reporting banks still have returned nothing to depositors. At the other thirteen, payments have ranged from the 5 per cent of the Citizens State of Melrose Park to the full settlement of the Congress Trust and Savings.

The Chatfield bank obtained a loan of $12,325 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, paid back $1,000, and gave depositors $12,673 for a 5 per cent dividend. Returns now total 30 per cent. Expenses took another $1,200.

The Congress Park bank received an RFC loan of $6,467 and has $5,974 cash available for depositors. A dividend of 10 per cent has been paid, leading to predictions of an early return of 20 per cent more.

Bank of Commerce Liquidation.

Liquidation of $110,000 during the last quarter was shown by the Chicago Bank of Commerce, which has achieved notoriety because of high expenses and no dividends on deposit liabilities of $4,588,801. A total of $97,102 was paid to the law firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy. The latter recently were allowed $100,000 "on account" by Circuit Judge Henry Fisher over the protests of the receiver and a recommendation of an investigator appointed by Judge Fisher himself.

The receiver has $578,063 in cash, but this is held in trust against more than $1,000,000 in claims filed for preference besides settlement already made for $730,000 on preferred and secured claims. Holdings of the bank have brought in $313,000, but $404,000 has been spent to protect these assets, $54,000 of it in the last three months. Clerical and miscellaneous expenses have eaten up $194,000.

Progress of Other Banks.

CHARITY GIFTS HELD OFFSET TO CAPITAL GAINS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Supreme court ruled today that capital gains might be figured as net income for the purpose of making charitable deductions in figuring income tax returns.

The ruling affects large taxpayers for the most part. The government lost its contention that net income in which capital gains figured could not be used as a base to deduct charitable contributions.

For example, Susan Dwight Bliss of New York had a net income—before charitable deductions—of $500,000 in 1928. Some $211,000 of this was gained from the sale of capital assets and taxable at the rate of 12½ per cent. She made charitable contributions that year of $44,000 and sought to deduct them from the $500,000.

But the government contended that she must subtract the $211,000 in gains on capital assets and deduct the $44,000 from the $289,000 remaining. This would have meant a loss to the taxpayer, since one is allowed to deduct only 15 per cent of his net income for charitable contributions.

U. S. WILL LOWER TARIFS ONLY ON NEEDED IMPORTS

Page Gives Assurance to Newsprint Makers.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The President, the state department and other federal agencies now negotiating reciprocal trade agreements have no intention of yielding concessions to any country except in instances where the particular country is the chief source of the commodity coming into the United States.

This assurance was given American business today by Thomas W. Page, chairman of the tarif commission and also of the reciprocity information committee which, at the President's instance, is assembling the facts which will largely control negotiations. The assurance was made by Mr. Page during testimony of Edgar Rickard of New York, who appeared for newsprint manufacturers to protest any provision in a proposed trade agreement with Sweden which would alter existing conditions.

Assails Swedish Competition.

Mr. Rickard, who is chairman of the Association of Newsprint Manufacturers, said the newsprint business in America has been suffering because of Swedish competition.

"Practically every pound of newsprint paper imported from Sweden since 1920 has been at a price at least $5 below the domestic price," he said, "and in some instances $10 below that price. While consumption of newsprint paper in the United States decreased 28 per cent between 1929 and 1933, importations from Sweden nearly doubled. Swedish exports which were 18 per cent of the Swedish total production in 1928 increased to 26 per cent in 1933. There is, therefore, no reason for giving Sweden any further advantages in our domestic markets."

Matchmakers Are Heard.

Spokesmen for the American match industry urged that the government's activities should be in the direction of greater protection. The domestic match industry is hard pressed, it was declared, as a result of "ruinous" foreign competition, mainly of Swedish, Japanese and Russian origin. These countries were accused of working together to control the American market.

N. G. Begle of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the American Match institute, and also chairman of the industry's code authority, charged that Wall street financed effort was now taking form for the reëstablishment of the Krueger and Toll monopoly in this country and that within the next few weeks an American-Swedish-English committee of which Norman H. Davis, our ambassador at large, is the chairman, was expected to report a plan for the reorganization of "the bankrupt Krueger & Toll and International Match company with the Swedish company, which is believed to be nearly, if not quite, insolvent."

HOLC PROTECTS BORROWERS ON CASH PAYMENTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Home Owners' Loan corporation today told lenders who had exchanged their mortgages for corporation bonds that they could not require further cash payments from the borrower.

"It is pointed out," the corporation's statement said, "that if the appraisal of property by the corporation is not high enough to warant the corporation giving the mortgagee the full amount of his lien in face value of bonds of the corporation, the mortgagee is entirely free, within a stated period of time, to withdraw his consent to accept the bonds. If he does not do so, he cannot thereafter require the mortgagor to make up this difference in cash, and any agreement to such effect is illegal."

The corporation said there had been reports that a number of mortgagees had attempted recently "to exact additional cash payments from their mortgagors to make up a deficiency in the amount of bonds exchangeable for their mortgages, or the difference between market and par value of the Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds thus exchanged, apparently not knowing that in seeking such payment they incur the risk of heavy penalties."

LOSSES TO BANK DEPOSITORS CUT, SAYS RFC HEAD

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Due to the appreciation of assets in closed banks, the estimate of losses to the public has been reduced by about 500 million dollars to a total of 2 billions, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, stated here today.

"Everything is worth more than it was a few months ago and there is better feeling all over the country," Jones said. He estimated that the recovery of assets might reach 4 billion 500 million dollars out of 6 billion 500 million tied up in closed banks a year and a half ago.

Progress in the RFC's program for lending to industry continues slow. Only 340 loans totaling $21,000,000 have been authorized to date, he said. Of this amount only $3,400,000 has actually been disbursed in cash. The RFC has a fund of 300 million from which to make loans to industry.

Federal Credit Banks' Issues Quickly Subscribed

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—A new issue of $10,000,000 federal intermediate credit banks 1½ per cent debentures, dated Nov. 15, 1934, and due in nine months, was subscribed in less than an hour. A month ago the banks sold an issue of $30,000,000 of debentures, due in six to nine months, carrying the same coupon rate as the present issue.

Cuban Bank Clearings Rise 60 Pct. Since U. S. Treaty

HAVANA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Bank clearings in Cuba jumped almost 60 per cent for the two months since the effective date of the reciprocal trade treaty with the United States, as compared with clearings for the corresponding months of last year.

DISTANT WHEAT FUTURES RISE; DECEMBER DIPS

Corn Is Higher on Active Demand; Oats Gain.

Numerous cross currents developed in the grain markets yesterday and preholiday dullness was in evidence. December wheat, which sold 2⅝ cents over the May future at one time Saturday, developed weakness and closed only 1¼ cents per bushel premium yesterday, the aggressive short covering of last week being absent. Deferred deliveries, however, received fair support and moved up easily late in the day. The close was ⅜ cent lower on December and ¾ to ⅞ cent higher on the distant futures.

Corn showed independent strength from the start. Commission houses absorbed offerings on the setbacks and covering developed. The close was ¾ to 1¼ cents higher. Oats gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent and rye ¼ cent. Barley was ½ to ⅝ cent lower.

Supply Figures Lower.

Farmers are holding on to their cash grain in a manner that has caused considerable wonderment to the trade and as a result the visible supply is being drawn on rather heavily. Supply figures showed a reduction of 2,379,000 bushels of wheat, 1,342,000 bushels of corn and 270,000 bushels of oats for the week. The wheat total was down to 100,700,000 bushels, or 41,180,000 bushels less than a year ago. Corn stocks were 56,448,000 bushels, or nearly 4,000,000 bushels short of the supply a year ago.

It is understood that a good part of the visible supply of oats of 21,684,000 bushels is owned by the government, which has been accumulating the grain to be used for seed purposes next spring. An increase of 1,265,000 bushels in the visible supply of rye was due to a large extent to the fact the import duty on liberal amounts of foreign grain held here and in the east was paid in the last week, removing it from the bonded total and putting it into the domestic supply.

Foreign Price Changes.

Heavy rains were reported in parts of Argentina yesterday and there was also a revival of rust reports in wheat, but the markets were little affected. Buenos Aires finished at net losses of ⅞ to 1 cent, Liverpool declined 1 to 1⅛ cents, and Rotterdam sagged ⅞ to 1⅜ cents. Winnipeg failed to follow the upturn in American markets and closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Export sales were estimated at 400,000 to 500,000 bushels.

Due to the fact corn is almost entirely a domestic proposition, outside speculative interest, according to observers, shows a tendancy to go into this grain to the exclusion of wheat, although the latter is still favored by large eastern interests.

Advances in hogs and lard had some effect on corn.

Trade in oats and rye was not large, and the action of other grains was the dominating influence.

ALL LIVE STOCK STRONG DUE TO REDUCED SUPPLY

Strong to unevenly higher prices were paid here yesterday for nearly all classes of live stock, due to an abrupt letup in the movement of stock to market. Hogs sold 10 to 25 cents higher with the top at $8.25 and the average at $7.80, including the federal processing tax.

Good beef steers were unevenly higher and sold about 50 cents above the opening last week. The first $10 steers since Oct. 22 appeared. The bulk cleared at $6.00 to $9.25.

Lambs failed to show a definite advance, but the trade was active and strong. Selected natives ranged up to $6.65.

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.

LABOR, INVESTORS MUST AID RAILROADS, EASTMAN DECLARES

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The railroads were warned today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation coördinator, that they must cut costs and improve service if they are not to continue "slipping" in competition.

In a speech to the Birmingham Traffic and Transportation club, he made it clear, though, that the carriers must have the help of labor and the investors "to become transportation systems instead of mere railroad systems."

The elimination of duplications and wastes in railroad operation will mean immediately curtailed employment, he said, but large opportunities for labor in the future. To protect rail workers, meanwhile, he proposed a "sound pension act"—the present one if proved sound, or a new one—and dismissal compensation for those let out in the development.

The investors must do their part by translating a large part of the present burdensome railroad indebtedness into a form which will carry no fixed interest obligations, he said.

Cautioning that "if I apprehend the situation correctly, the railroads have been slipping rapidly and are in danger of continuing to slip," the coordinator said. "It should be said that if the business of the country were to increase at a sufficiently rapid rate in the near future, and along with it the trafic of the railroads, the apparent sacrifice on the part of both labor and investors might become inconsequential."

HOLD ARGENTINE WHEAT DUMPING KEEPS PRICE LOW

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Alleged "dumping" of Argentine wheat on world markets was held by members of the wheat commission today to be responsible for the falling of world prices since the commission's last meeting.

Trade figures showing Argentine wheat exports of approximately 50,000,000 bushels during the first quarter of the new cereal year, which started Aug. 1, caused pessimism concerning a possible agreement at the reconvening of the wheat conference in Budapest Nov. 20. It had been hoped Argentina would accept an annual quota of 150,000,000 bushels.

Canada Reports Exports.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Wheat exported in October amounted to 21,807,784 bushels and was valued at $18,095,542, an average of 83 cents a bushel, the dominion bureau of statistics reported today. The export during the seven months of the current fiscal year was 108,102,842 bushels at $87,032,151 compared with 111,228,897 bushels at $76,395,222 in the same period last year. The average price was 80.5 cents compared with 68.7.

LARD FUTURES ESTABLISH HIGH LEVELS FOR SEASON

New high levels for the season were established on lard futures yesterday, removal of hedges against sales of cash lard to the domestic trade, short covering and commission house buying combining to lift all deliveries above the 10 cents per pound figure. The market was influenced by strength, while cottonseed oil also sold at a new high for the season.

Export demand for lard was reported as slow. December lard at the close showed an advance of nearly 4 cents from the inside figure of the season of 6.25 cents per pound which was made April 25. Bellies were unchanged to 10 cents higher at the last. Cash lard closed at 10.05 cents; loose, 10.10 cents, and leaf, 10.12½ cents, while bellies were 13⅝ cents per pound. Prices follow:

NEW DEAL FAILS, THROW IT OUT, DR. WILLIS URGES

Advises Drive to Show Up Its Fallacies.

own business and to leave the direction of public matters to those anxious to turn the current of affairs to their own interests. This method of handling our politics must come to a close unless we are willing to see the decline, perhaps the fall, of our present economic civilization in its industrial aspects.

"There is nothing more offensive in the entire structure of the New Deal than the constant assumption of a hypocritical righteousness, in which it is assumed that those in charge are better in purpose, greater in knowledge, and more successful in accomplishment than those whom they assume to direct. There is nothing in their results to indicate any such superiority.

Bars Constructive Moves.

"The interference of what is termed the New Deal with the habits of the community in working and saving has prevented the consumer from looking or buying far ahead, and has prevented that even growth in output of durable goods which must occur parallel with output of consumption goods if there is to be a reasonable prosperity."

The theory of spreading an increasing purchasing power through wide distribution of funds to the rank and file has no more basis than Salem witchcraft and again has been proved false, declared Dr. Willis. Devaluation not only has failed to help more than a few manufacturers of consumer goods, but has brought suffering and contraction to the industries which look to creation of capital and capital goods. Further, there has been complete failure to readjust prices, and the situation will be worse.

"Our capital structure today is without doubt seriously undermined," said the former federal reserve official, in showing how the annual margin of saving has shrunk to a deficit basis so far as the saving of wealth is concerned."

Seat of Difficulty.

At the bottom of industry's difficulty in obtaining capital, he said, are the unsafe and unwise currency and banking policies which largely destroyed the mechanics of capital accumulation and caused capital to seek safety abroad or to be hoarded.

"The entire abandonment of the planned system of price control and production rationing upon its present basis" was the remedy offered by Dr. Willis for sick industry. If such control must be, he said, it must be by groups of business men working together and answerable to constituted legal authorities for their actions—not answerable for their intentions.

Those business men accepting New Dealism in return for certain concessions in terms of their codes, Dr. Willis warned, never can obtain advantages which will "even remotely compensate for toleration of extravagant spending, bad banking, and unsound currency. The price exacted is too high, the remuneration inadequate," he said.

EGGS DIP ¼ TO ⅜ CENT; BUTTER STEADY TO LOWER

An easier undertone prevailed in eggs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, with the close ¼ to ⅜ cent per dozen lower. Butter was unchanged to ¼ cent per pound lower. There will be no session of the exchange today.

A bearish storage report from New York with a slight increase in storage holdings indicated had some effect on the egg market. There was considerable changing over from the November into the December delivery. Little interest was taken in butter.
